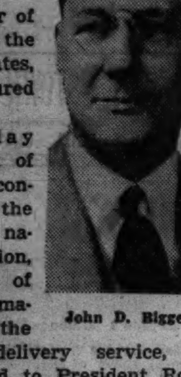
ELECTION STYLE CENSUS OF U. S. IDLE PROPOSED

One Day Idea Given to President.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—That the so-called "unemployment census" will be a spectacular affair, if not of much value in determining the actual number of jobless in the United States, seemed assured today.



John D. Biggers.

A one day registration of the idle, conducted on the order of a national election, with the use of the voting machinery and the rural free delivery service, has been suggested to President Roosevelt, it was learned.

Every man without a job or only partially employed would be requested to go to a polling place on a designated day, probably next January, and fill out a registration card, giving details of his unemployment, under the plan.

Biggers May Direct Job.

John D. Biggers, president of Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company of Toledo, who has been tendered the position of director of unemployment registration, conferred today with the President. Mr. Biggers refused to discuss plans for the registration, saying that he had not yet accepted the job. His decision will be announced in Washington next week, he said.

"I think the registration can be of real value if handled properly," was all Mr. Biggers would say.

But it was learned that Mr. Roosevelt, who is given all power under the recent bill passed by congress to determine the method of listing the "numbers, classes, and geographical distribution of persons in the United States partially employed or unemployed," looks with favor upon the one day plan.

Mr. Roosevelt, who has a genuine flair for eye-filling spectacles, approved with gusto the picture presented to him of long lines of the unemployed standing before polling places, waiting to be signed up as members of the army of jobless.

Saturday May Be Selected.

The registration would, of course, be voluntary just as voting is voluntary, under the tentative program. But preliminary weeks would be spent in spreading the word through the administration's vast publicity machine that those failing to register might be slighted when government money is being doled out.

Saturday has been selected as the best day of the week for the registration. The results could quickly be assembled and announced the following Monday.

The registrants would be given cards as a reward for registering.

The program also calls for each registrant to swear under oath that his answers to queries are true. It is hoped that this requirement would weed out the employed who might seek to gain some benefit by registering.

Each registrant would be required to give his name, age, address, trade, number of dependents and the date and place of his last employment, in addition to such other data as may be specified by the director and the President.

See Dangers in Plan.

There are dangers in this plan, it was admitted. One was that local officials, who would be in charge of the registration, would be tempted to pad the lists to make it appear that the community was more in need of WPA or other government funds than actually was the case.

There would be a great deal of duplication in the listing, it also was conceded, inasmuch as all WPA workers would come under the classification of unemployed.

The fact that the "census" will almost certainly not provide an accurate accounting of the unemployed does not, in the minds of administration officials, detract from the fact that it will offer some statistics to the nation that can be talked about.

FARMERS OF U. S. MAKE PROFIT ON WHEAT SURPLUS

Export Crop to Meet World Shortage.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

The world is short more than a half billion bushels of wheat for the second consecutive year, according to estimates of experts. Growers in the United States, however, have a surplus of wheat and are selling their big crop at good prices as a result of the world shortage. This country is back on an exporting basis after being an importer for four years.

Recent estimates indicate that American farmers this year have produced in excess of 200 million bushels of wheat above the five year average from 1931 to 1935, inclusive. This gives the United States 200 million bushels available for export, a greater export surplus than any other country has.

Crops Fall Down Elsewhere.

While this country has a surplus, most of the other wheat countries have produced less than their five year average. The world's supply, including the current year's crop and the carryover, totals only a little more than 5½ billion bushels, nearly 600 million bushels below the five year average. The shortage last year was 565 million bushels.

The crop produced in the nine important wheat areas on the globe is only 42 million bushels under the five year average, but wheat bins throughout the world were running low when binders and combines began harvesting this year's crop. On July 1 the world carryover of wheat was down to only 515 million bushels, or less than half the five year average carryover of more than a billion bushels.

Estimates Crop Value.

Nat C. Murray, Chicago authority on crop statistics, says the world scarcity of wheat already is reflected in higher prices abroad. He estimates on the basis of recent farm prices that the 1937 wheat crop in the United States is worth about $885,000,000, $227,000,000 more than the short crop of 1936.

With no government restriction program to interfere with their normal production, farmers in this country harvested approximately 890 million bushels of wheat from 81 million acres. Although they raised about 42 per cent more than last year the farm price the middle of last month was only 5 per cent less than last year, according to Murray.

World Conditions Control.

This situation — farmers getting good prices for a big crop—runs counter to the theory of Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace and other administration planners when they attempted to hold prices up by cutting down production under the AAA. This year's experience indicates that world conditions have a greater influence on American prices than domestic production.

Last year when the world supply of wheat was short and prices high as a result, farmers in this country were not in position to take advantage of the situation because they had little wheat to sell.

Expect Higher Prices.

Experts expect higher wheat prices during the next few months unless estimates for this year increase or Europe's ability to buy proves disappointing. Many farmers sensed the upward swing and are holding their wheat on the farm.

India and Russia are the only other countries that have raised more wheat than their five year averages. India's crop of 366 million bushels is an increase of 16 million bushels. It was estimated earlier in the season that Russia might harvest as much as a billion bushels, 47 million bushels more than her five year average. This figure may be smaller when Russian farmers complete their threshing.

Russian Losses Heavy.

More recent reports indicate that Russian harvesting losses have been heavy, although growing conditions were favorable. The total harvest actually may not be any larger than the five year average crop of 953 million bushels. The total acreage of wheat harvested in Russia up to the latter part of July was 18 per cent less than at the same time a year ago.

Regardless of the final outcome in Russia, authorities report that the

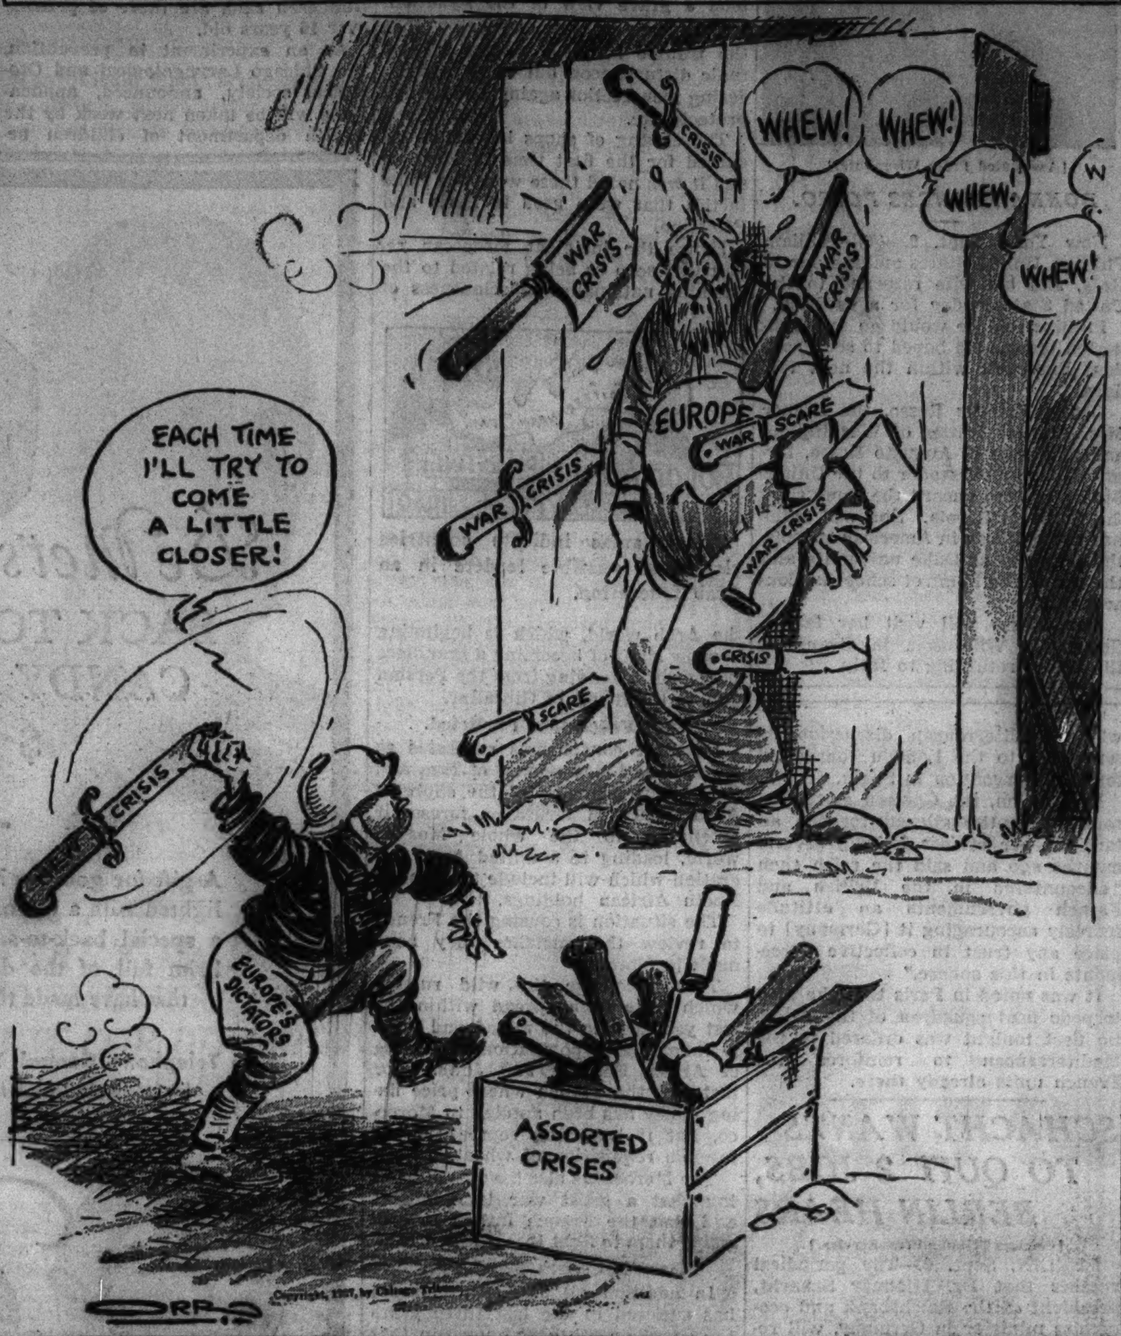
MUST BE SOME KIND OF A GAME



Give Up Hope for Child in Ozark Hills

Oak Grove, Ark., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The fear that wolves may have attacked little Florence Jackson, 4 years old, gripped searchers tonight as 600 men and women searched the Ozark hills near here, where the child became lost Monday, without finding any indication she is alive.

Even the distracted parents have abandoned hope that their little girl ever will be found. The growing fear that she had met with violence was strengthened today with the finding of a fragment of her blue checked dress.

Wolves in Vicinity.

The hunt centered in wild country known to harbor timber wolves. While oldtime residents said they did not believe wolves would attack a human being at this time of year, folks debated what the beasts might do if they came upon a small child, especially if she were hurt.

Because of the rugged country, it was believed the baby might have fallen over a precipice. Those close to the family declined to speculate how long a child could cope with such wild surroundings, even though she remained uninjured.

No Food Available.

Searchers said there was no food in the woods except green persimmons. It was doubted that the child, probably hysterical from fear and loneliness, would know how to hunt out even this meager fare.

The haggard father, Arthur Jackson, coal miner of Chelsea, Okla., suggested the child might have been picked up against her will by a passerby in the woods. However, this failed to explain the fragment of dress found today.

One of the scores of searching parties, who tramped through rain drenched undergrowth in the densely wooded mountain country, came upon the cloth caught on briars.

It was two miles from the spot where the baby's shoes and a stocking were found yesterday.

This May Jolt the Boys; Their Loot Is Dynamite!

In case the thieves who visited Willow Springs yesterday don't know what it was that they stole, the county highway police there want to warn them that it's dangerous. The loot is 160 pounds of gelatin dynamite and 1,000 dynamite caps, taken from an outdoor storehouse of the Hercules Powder and Magazine company, just west of route 45, near the sanitary district canal.

LICENSE IS NEEDED NO MATTER HOW HE PRODUCES A DRINK

Newark, N. J., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Regardless of how he may manage ghostly spirits, a magician is just like any one else when it comes to handling distilled spirits—he must be properly licensed, according to a ruling today by Commissioner D. Frederick Burnett of the state department of alcoholic beverage control.

A professional Baltimore magician asked for an opinion whether it was a violation of the state law for him to "mysteriously produce" cocktails and give them to an audience for consumption.

"No legerdemain in summoning and dispensing drinks is permissible upon unlicensed places," the commissioner replied. "If the feat is accomplished on licensed premises you must take out a special permit for yourself to charm the spirits and for your bewitching assistant to dispense them. Why wouldn't a cup or two of strong tea do just as well?"

TWINS HAVE TWIN PAINS; THEN LOSE TWIN APPENDIXES

In a room in St. Francis' hospital, Blue Island, are two sisters, Miss Rosemary and Miss Marijule Kerger, 1938 West York street, Blue Island. They're twins, 18 years old.

They look alike, dress alike, talk alike, and sing alike. And if one gets sick, the other one's almost certain to get sick, too. Last Saturday Rosemary complained of a pain in the side. She was taken to the hospital, found to have appendicitis and was operated on. On Monday Twin Marijule complained of a pain in the side, was taken to the hospital and was operated on. Dr. Frank H. Lally reported last night that they were recovering together.

Pineapple from Field to New York in Three Days

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Seriously ill in New York city, Ralph M. Blankenbaker, father of Mrs. Frank Loesser of Los Angeles, begged for a fresh pineapple. None was to be found. Mrs. Loesser cabled Honolulu, where a pineapple was placed aboard the Pan-American clipper, flown to San Francisco and then New York. The 5,000 mile jaunt took less than three days.

Annuls Marriage; Tells Girl's Ma to 'Get a Strap'

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Circuit Judge John J. Gregory today annulled the year old marriage of Edith Schwamm, 16 years old, an eighth grade pupil in the public schools. She was married to Edward Linsky, 21. "You get a strap on the way home," Judge Gregory told Mrs. Hazel Schwamm, the girl's mother.

Friends Push Drive to Bring Edward Home

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 9.—A new gun was fired tonight in the ever growing campaign of friends of the duke of Windsor, former King Edward VIII. of Great Britain, to build him up against his old guard enemies here and hasten his return to England.

Apparently to balk a whispering campaign, Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard denied a report that the duchess of Kent, Edward's sister-in-law, deliberately snubbed the duchess of Windsor and refused to visit the former Wallis Warfield [Simpson] at Noetsch, Austria, where Edward and his bride spent most of their honeymoon.

Aimed at Windsor's Foes.

The article purportedly was directed at the American press, but the target really is Windsor's enemies in England. It gave London the explanation of the misunderstanding that prevented the Windsors from meeting the Kents, who are vacationing in Jugo-Slavia.

"Sections of the American press even allege that the duchess of Kent administered a deliberate snub to the duchess of Windsor," said the article.

The original plan was for the Kents to visit Wasserleonburg castle at Noetsch last Saturday after a yacht cruise, the paper said. The cruise was extended and the arrival switched to Monday, according to the article. It was then learned that the Windsors planned to leave for Budapest, Hungary, on the same day. The Daily Standard explained it was too late for either couple to change plans, so the visit was "regretfully postponed but not canceled."

Says Kents Changed Minds.

On the other hand, Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express published a story on Tuesday from Villach, Austria, that the Kents were expected there Sunday or Monday, "but word was received from Jugo-Slavia that they had changed their minds."

It is generally believed that the duchess of Kent, former Princess Marina of Greece, is the only one of Edward's three sisters-in-law inclined to be friendly to the duchess of Windsor.

Lord Beaverbrook has been leading the chorus in favor of the Windsors' speedy return to England. The Daily Express has predicted their return by Easter. Yesterday it published a scorching editorial which said that if it were true the government had forbidden the Kents to visit the Windsors the public would not stand for it.

Use Iron Lung to Save Broker from Paralysis

For the ninth time since the current outbreak of infantile paralysis in the Chicago area an iron lung was being used yesterday to save a victim whose respiratory muscles failed.

The victim is Sydney L. Throckmorton, an insurance broker. He found difficulty in breathing Wednesday night in his home at 2752 Eastwood avenue, Evanston, was taken to St. Francis hospital, and placed in a Drinker respirator. At first it was thought an injury incurred in a vacation canoe accident two weeks ago had paralyzed his breathing muscles.

Tests Reveal Deadly Germ.

Infantile paralysis was not suspected because he is 38 years old, and the disease is not commonly found in persons who have reached that age. However, tests of his spinal fluid yesterday revealed that he had the disease. Dr. W. L. Waner, the attending physician, said he also has pneumonia. His condition is critical.

Records disclosed that eight other patients stricken with paralysis of the lung muscles have been placed in respirators in Chicago since the outbreak assumed serious proportions Aug. 1. Two remain in the machines, one at the County hospital and the other in the Municipal Contagious Disease hospital.

An unusual fact noted by the health authorities was that all the nine respirator cases were adults, despite the fact that 90 per cent of the infantile paralysis patients are children.

Best Results in Adult Cases.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said last night that use of the iron lung is often successful with adults because it keeps the patient alive until supplementary nerves are able to take over the duties of those paralyzed. In the case of children, however, the disease is often fatal before a respirator can be used, if paralysis attacks the lung muscles.

At present Chicago has sufficient iron lungs on hand, Dr. Bundesen declared, recalling the recent tragedy in Denver where only one machine was available for two children stricken with lung paralysis. There are fourteen of the respirators in Chicago and suburban hospitals, four of them being child size.

New Respirator for Snite.

Although the machines have been used in nine cases, only three are now in use as a result of the current outbreak. A fourth is occupied at Billings Memorial hospital by Fred Snite Jr., who was returned several weeks ago from China, where he contracted the disease.

Snite, it is reported, is soon to be placed in a new type of respirator which is being imported from Sweden. The new artificial breather, instead of encasing the entire body in an iron lung, is an aluminum device which is fitted like a piece of armor over the chest. This leaves the other portions of the body free and accessible for easy treatments.

To insure an adequate supply of machines in case of an emergency,

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NURENBERG, Germany, Sept. 9.—In the same breath with which he proclaimed that "national socialism is a German patent which is not meant to be exported to foreign countries," Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Reichsfuehrer Hitler's fiery minister of propaganda, today called upon Europe to follow the leadership of the Fuehrer. Goebbels warned Europe of disaster if it fails to heed Hitler's call.

Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels.

"As German Nazis we again step forward not before the forum of our own people, but onto the European platform," he said. "Our call of the old days: 'Germany, Awaken!' has spread immeasurably. Today it is not a call to awaken our own people. Now Europe must awaken."

Demands War on Jewry.

Europe, he added, must rise up and fight first what he called "the dangers of bolshevism, democracy, and world Jewry."

Blaming Moscow for the civil war in Spain, Goebbels declared that nation's troubles must be a lesson to other nations, which, he said, face the same fate unless they join Germany and repulse communism. Germany, he said, will not tolerate a new Red government in Europe.

Speaking at the Nazi party congress, he made the keynote speech of the day, which began with Hitler laying the corner stone for the new German stadium, "the biggest structure ever to be erected."

Fuehrer's Face Is Grim.

The Fuehrer was grim of countenance, never smiling, not even when youth groups gave him ovation after ovation in colorful ceremonies. His features were equally stern this evening when, to the tune of his favorite "Badenweiler March"—that of his wartime regiment—he walked down the aile of the congress building where 16,000 men and women of his party frantically saluted.

There was nothing in Goebbels' speech to cheer Hitler. It was a long denunciation of soviet Russia, of democracy and of churches.

Calls Delay "Sinful."

"The Spanish trouble was planned by Moscow, fomented by Moscow, and organized by Moscow," he said. "Today it is conducted by Moscow. Moscow would have succeeded in its foul design but for one man's heroic energy.

"They must wake up now — any delay is sinful.

"Ours has been a voice crying in the wilderness.

"But if the bolshevist infection is allowed to spread, history will admit that we were not deceived by Moscow's political smoke screen.

"A Bolshevistic Committee."

"The Valencia government is not a state; it is merely a bolshevistic executive committee; a red section of Spain; not a state recognizable by law, but a portion torn away from the motherland and now being conquered by the lawful representatives of the Spanish people."

Every one nearly jumped from his seat when Goebbels started to say: "It cannot be tolerated under any conditions whatsoever that Red forces shall secure a new basis for operations in western Europe in order to spread their bolshevist world revolution more effectively, more dangerously from there."

Voices Sympathy for Franco.

The tense crowd expected a strong official announcement of help for Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel leader, but Goebbels quietly continued with the declaration of Germany's "warmest sympathy for Gen. Franco." Though Goebbels extensively quoted or derided foreign press reports on the Spanish civil war, he never, with one word, mentioned reports that German volunteers are fighting for Franco's cause in Spain.

Goebbels referred to "authentic documents on the bolshevist conspiracy in the hands of the German government," and millions who were listening to Goebbels over the radio believed his assertions as religiously as the millions in Russia and other countries believe reports about documents allegedly proving Nazi conspiracy in Spain. It was terrifying to watch the emotions sway the crowds in this Nazi camp the same as they sway them in anti-Nazi ranks.

Hits "World Capitalists."

Goebbels' attacks on democracy linked democracies to the soviets. His listeners in congress hall applauded when he denounced democracy as a "political label of world capitalists."

"Bolshevism," he said, "carries it through to its real end. It is, so to speak, democracy of terror. To express it drastically: In a democracy the people with heads of their own are outnumbered by the majority. In bolshevism the heads are chopped off by the knife of the guillotine. The results in both cases are the same. There are no leading heads left, and it is easy for international Jews to enforce the dictatorship of terror and money over the masses deprived of leaders."

Denies Nazi Church Persecution.

Referring to Spain as Calvary, Goebbels spoke extensively of the suffering of religious groups there. He expressed his indignation at "the foreign church circles which affect moral indignation about alleged persecution of churches in Germany."

To this he added the assertion: "No hair of a single priest has been touched in the course of the German revolution."

Goebbels referred to the call of "important American democratic churchmen and politicians to the conscience of the world," and to a British churchman's statement that Madrid is not anti-religious, adding:

"If this were not a skunky, mean, abominable trifling with the terrible danger of bolshevism, then we would be faced with boundless stupidity of which the gospel says in effect: May God forgive those responsible for it because they do not know what they are doing." This aroused laughter.

Hitler's national press chief, Dr. Otto Dietrich, in a smartly fitting Schutz Staffel uniform, told the congress and his countrymen about the world press. He delighted them by asserting that all the news agencies of the world were started by Jews for the purpose of obtaining tips for their "shady speculations" at the stock exchange.

Boasts of Press Muzzle.

Dietrich proudly proclaimed the Nazi government has done away with freedom of the press, asserting it existed nowhere in the world.

Foreign correspondents in Germany were treated with gentleness by Dietrich. He charged that the reports these writers cabled or telephoned to their home offices frequently were misquoted or misinterpreted by sinister powers behind the scene in the newspaper offices.

BRITAIN, FRANCE SEEK NEW PLAN TO PROTECT SHIPS

Shape Proposals Italy Will Accept.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 9.—The refusal of Germany and Italy to attend the "anti-piracy" conference tomorrow at Nyon, Switzerland, appeared tonight to have wrecked the British and French plans for a thorough airing of the Mediterranean situation.

The announcements of Rome and Berlin also set diplomats to revising their schemes for the protection of merchant shipping from attacks by "fantom" submarines.

After Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, and his delegation had halted here and conferred with Yvon Delbos, French foreign minister, it was announced that the conference would be held as planned, even with the Fascist nations and Albania, Italy's satellite, absent.

[Nations represented will be Britain, France, Turkey, Greece, Russia, Egypt, Jugo-Slavia, Bulgaria, and Rumania.]

To Invite Fascists Later.

According to diplomatic sources, however, all naval proposals agreed on at Nyon will be submitted immediately to Premier Mussolini by the British government and Italy's cooperation will be invited. It was suggested even in some quarters that the next stage in the Mediterranean dilemma will be conversations among Great Britain, France, Italy, and Germany with the object of avoiding further "incidents."

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Britain has been bending every effort to placate the Italians, and it is understood from British sources that he now refuses to let British action seem in any way anti-Italian, even if Britons feel provoked by Mussolini's actions.

The problem, therefore, is for the British to see to it that any plan agreed on at Nyon will meet with Il Duce's approval.

Scrap One Naval Plan.

It was learned semi-officially tonight that the original plan for the protection of Mediterranean shipping has been scrapped. One thing seems certain, no one will venture to tell Italy what areas her submarines may or may not cruise in.

Likewise it was considered unlikely that a convoy system would be adopted, since the experience of the great war showed how expensive and complicated it is and that to be successful it requires long and minute preparation.

Circles close to the foreign office hold the view, as a result of the day's developments, that Russia, in accusing Italian submarines of sinking two soviet ships, did a favor for Germany and Italy. They had no desire at heart for the Nyon conference anyway.

Puzzled by Reds' Conduct.

The chief anxiety was caused by the puzzling line of conduct of Russian diplomacy. The opinion was expressed freely that the Russians want war and are determined to provoke it. Although the idea appears hardly reasonable, considering the present situation in Russia, editorials putting forth the charge that Russia wants war point out that Dictator Josef Stalin figures that a foreign war is the least risky course he can take.

Both the Italian and German announcements of refusal to attend the Nyon conference referred to the Russian charges and demand for indemnity as a "new grave element in the situation," and suggested that the whole Mediterranean discussion be sent back to the London committee for nonintervention in Spain.

In addition, the German statement referred to the alleged torpedo attack on her cruiser Leipzig several months ago and said the reich then "encountered in the British and French governments an attitude scarcely encouraging it [Germany] to place any trust in collective agreements in this sphere."

It was noted in Paris that the fifth torpedo boat squadron of the Atlantic fleet tonight was ordered to the Mediterranean to reinforce the French units already there.

Wife of Diplomat

DONNA FRANCES ROSSO.

New York, Sept. 9.—(AP)—William Phillips, United States ambassador to Italy, and his wife returned to the United States today for a vacation.

Phillips said he would go to Washington today. He hoped to see President Roosevelt within the next few days.

Donna Frances Rosso, the former Mrs. Frances Butler of Washington, and now wife of Augusto Rosso, former Italian ambassador to the United States, arrived aboard the same ship, the Conte di Savoia. She will enter her two children in American schools, the daughter at Duke university and the son at the Pomfret school in Connecticut.

Mrs. Rosso will visit her father, George L. Wilkinson, in Evanston, Ill., before returning to Italy.

SCHACHT WANTS TO QUIT 2 JOBS, BERLIN HEARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 9.—The periodical rumors that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank and economics minister in Germany, will resign are again current.

This time it is said he wishes to resign both jobs, but even if this is true it is strongly doubted that the resignations would be accepted, especially the resignation from the Reichsbank, in view of the weight Schacht's name carries in foreign countries.

The report has it that Schacht wants to resign because the plan to establish a national iron works was made known to him only when he was told that money for the iron works must be provided.

Schacht returned to Berlin from Nuremberg during the day without waiting for the close of the Nazi party rally being held there, and this apparently was the only basis for a rumor that he and Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler had quarreled over building and armament spending.

FEAR MOROCCAN MOVE TO THROW OFF FRENCH RULE

Paris Papers Take Grave View of Strife.

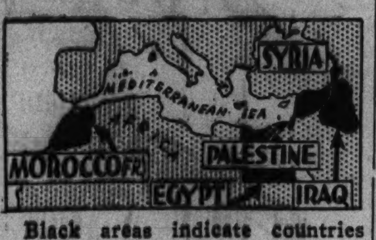
BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 9.—After hearing for a week about disturbances in various parts of Morocco, including a merchants' strike at Meknes, Oudjda, and Sale, the French press today suddenly took a grave view of the situation. It has come to the conclusion that the trouble is not a matter of sporadic disturbances, but really a smoldering insurrection against the French protectorate.

The closing of shops in protest occurred for the first time in Morocco and it was noted these were the same tactics that were used in Syria and Palestine.

Hence the incipient Moroccan revolt was seen as being related to the dawning nationalist consciousness of the Arab world, which is beginning to show signs of becoming a grandiose movement extending from the Persian gulf to the Strait of Gibraltar.



Black areas indicate countries viewed as possible leaders in an Arab federation.

Arab Federation Predicted.

Its most conspicuous successes so far are the independence of Iraq and Egypt, but members of the supreme Arab council in Jerusalem foresee it extending to the whole Moslem world, leading to a united Arab federation which will include the French North African holdings.

The situation is causing the French to review the mistakes they have made in Morocco.

They recognize the wild rumors which have been spread within the last year among the mixed and highly inflammable population consisting of Arabs, Berbers, and Jews. For instance, the French wheat price fixing policy has been applied to Morocco, but it has been represented as forcible requisition of wheat.

The Moroccans also have been hearing that a great war is imminent and that the French intend to conscript them to fight it.

Drouth Causes Hardships.

In addition all of south Morocco has suffered in the last three years the worst drouth ever known in that region and the French have been accused of not using sufficient energy to relieve the misery of the people there. What appears to be a minor grievance, but really is important to the natives, is the price of tobacco, which since the war in Morocco, has increased by 1,000 per cent, depriving a good part of the population of what they consider a necessity of life.

USE IRON LUNG TO SAVE BROKER FROM PARALYSIS

Respirators Used Nine Times in Area.

Mayor Kelly has ordered the health department to make a survey of available respirators. Accordingly a request for information was sent to Boston, Mass., where they are manufactured.

Eleven New Cases in Day.

In the 24 hours ending at 9 a. m. yesterday eleven new cases and eight suspected cases of infantile paralysis were reported, bringing to 216 the number of cases since Aug. 1. There have been seventeen deaths. About 10 per cent of the total cases, Dr. Bundesen said, are those of persons over 16 years old.

As an experiment in prevention, the Chicago Laryngological and Otological society, announced, applications will be taken next week by the health department of children between the ages of 5 and 16 whose parents wish them to be treated with a zinc sulphate nasal spray.

Effective in Animal Cases.

This treatment, Dr. Walter H. Theobald, president, declared, will be given under the direction of members of the society at ten charitable dispensaries throughout the city. While 100 per cent successful in preventing infantile paralysis in monkeys, Dr. Theobald said, its effectiveness on humans is not known.

Sixteen teachers were kept busy at the board of education headquarters yesterday answering telephone calls from parents who were asking what home studies their children should pursue while the schools are closed during the outbreak.

American Youth Vanishes from Liner in Atlantic

QUEBEC, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Officials of the liner Duchess of Richmond reported upon arrival from Europe today that McClelland Henry, 20 years of age, of Lexington, Ky., was missing from the ship. Henry, a passenger, was last seen Sunday. He is a son of Judge Robert L. Henry Jr. of the mixed court of Alexandria, Egypt, and was on his way to Lexington to enter school. He had been a student at Oxford for the last two years.

BRIDE'S PICTURE WINS FREEDOM FOR FLYER DAHL

Gen. Franco Gives Promise to Make Exchange.

BURGOS, Spain, Sept. 9.—(AP)—A young American wife's written plea of "please don't destroy my happiness" won a promise of life and freedom today for her imprisoned aviator husband.

Gen. Francisco Franco, chief of rebel Spain, read her letter, studied the picture of herself which she inclosed, and decided to exchange 28 year old Harold Dahl, Champaign, Ill., war pilot, for any rebel aviator held captive by the Spanish government. Dahl, flying a loyalist plane, was shot down behind rebel lines July 12.

Mrs. Dahl wrote from her temporary residence in Cannes, France. In quaint, studied Spanish she addressed the generalissimo as "chief of Fascism," a term Franco dislikes.

Once an Orchestra Singer.

What offset the mistake was Mrs. Dahl's picture—a photograph of a tall young American girl with blonde hair and sparkling eyes. She was at one time a singer with Rudy Vallee's orchestra and was born Edith Rogers.

"I am the wife of the American pilot, Harold Dahl, who has been held in military prison at Salamanca," she wrote.

"I am writing you to explain that he was and is a neutral. He joined [government aviation forces] only to get money because there are too many pilots in the United States air force.

"We have been married only eight months. I am all alone. He flew only to get money for me.

"I know you are an intelligent man with a great heart and much courage. I promise you he will fight no more if you have the compassion to give him his freedom and send him back to me in France.

"This case was much discussed in America, but the United States is completely neutral and will not do anything for him except ask for his release.

Seeks Happiness Again.

"Your victory is now so near that the life of one United States pilot could not mean very much to you. I promise he never will bear arms again.

"I trust your understanding.

"He has been out of the hospital only a few months after an apendicitis operation. I'm afraid prison life will kill him.

"I was an actress for many years and only now have I found my happiness. Please don't destroy it. Please answer my letter so I may know what to do and if I may hope."

Franco wasted no time with the problem once he got the letter away from general staf officers who were reluctant to give up the photograph.

The generalissimo wrote assurance that he had neither need nor desire for the life of the young aviator, who, he said, was in excellent health.

He told Mrs. Dahl to ask the Spanish central government to arrange for the release of any captured rebel aviator and said that when such release was granted he would send Dahl to France immediately.

Mother Fears Return to War.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Ida Dahl said today she would prefer that her son, Harold, remain a prisoner of war in Spain than be exchanged for another prisoner and forced to return to fighting. Mrs. Dahl said she doubted he would be accepted in exchange by the Valencia government and be permitted to go to France.

"In that case the Valencia government would be sending back a fighter, receiving none in return," she said.

Mrs. Dahl expressed her gratitude to her son's wife for her efforts to gain his release.

MERRY FAHRNEY TO FILE HER THIRD SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Baroness Merry Fahrney Pickering van Eiszner Berlangieri is going to divest herself of her title in Chicago, starting tomorrow. From her Beverly Hills, Cal., apartment tonight the Chicago patent medicine heiress said she had retained an attoney who tomorrow would file suit in Chicago to end her third marriage, which she contracted in Harrison, N. Y., June 21 with Baron Arturo Berlangieri of Italy.

Baroness Berlangieri said Gene Swigart, her Chicago attorney, had just notified her that her suit will be filed tomorrow. In it, Baroness Berlangieri said, she will charge cruelty, asserting her titled husband struck her before friends while they were on their honeymoon in California.

The high spirited heiress' first divorce was from Hugh Parker Pickering, whom she divorced in 1933 after two years of marriage. Her second matrimonial venture ended in an annulment in Los Angeles after only a few days of wedded bliss. It was to Frank Sands van Eiszner.

"My husband refused to meet my American friends and objected when I saw them," she said. "He objected when I used my own name and when my friends called me Miss Fahrney, insisting I be addressed as the Baroness Berlangieri."

Divorces Her Husband to Avoid Supporting Him

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Stella Fransky, 63 years old, a WPA worker who has been separated from her husband for fourteen years, got a divorce today. The relief department, she said, just learned that she had a husband as well as a job and wanted her to support him.

REBEL PLANES BOMB GIJON AS ARMY CLOSES IN

Guns Batter Defenses of Spanish Seaport.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Border, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The guns of the Spanish rebels boomed tonight against the fortifications of Gijon, the government's last sea foothold on the northern coast of Spain. Misty rain hampered ground advances.

Rebel field pieces pounded the "Covadonga line," a new network of fortifications thrown up on mountains bordering the coast, after retreating government forces had made a sudden stand and killed more than 1,000 rebel troops.

Aerial attacks on Gijon, which is about 30 miles west of the vanguard of Gen. Francisco Franco's rebel forces, caused heavy damage.

Two Columns Joined.

The rebels' coastal column passed Cape Prieto, just east of Ribadesella, where a government fortified line stands between it and the east bank of the Sella river, gateway to Gijon.

A central rebel column was said to have "mopped up" scattered forces of government troops in the rugged mountains inland from the coast and to have massed its strength for a concerted attack with the coastal army at the Sella river.

Two other columns, one striking north from Oviedo and the other pressing eastward from Pravia established a junction.

British Freighter Captured.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The 1,019 ton British freighter Stanwold reported she was captured by a Spanish rebel war vessel in the Bay of Biscay, Lloyd's disclosed today.

The marine underwriters said a message from the Stanwold reported she was seized about 10 p. m. last night within Spanish territorial waters near Ribadesella, on the north coast of Spain. The Stanwold, owned by the Stanhope Steamship company of London, left Bordeaux Sept. 3 for Gijon.

The admiralty said that since the Stanwold was taken inside the three mile limit, this, then, was a legal seizure.

SUMMER COLONY IS STIRRED BY ROMANCE OF JOHN ROOSEVELT

Nahant, Mass., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Reports of a romance between Miss Anne Lindsay Clark, young society girl, and John Roosevelt, only unmarried son of the President, had this fashionable north shore suburb talking today.

The girl's mother, Mrs. F. Haven Clark, summering at the family estate here, declined to comment on a report Miss Clark was waiting at Hyde Park, N. Y., to welcome John home. The young man returned from a tour of Europe which was enlivened by his reported prank of squirting champagne on the mayor of Cannes, France.

The art objects to be sold, valued at more than $300,000, include oriental and European bronzes, ivories, porcelains, pottery, glass, carving, temple bronzes, cabinet pieces, urns, rugs, lamps, vases, jades, stones, woods, lackers, and beautiful furniture including twin beds once owned by Lina Abarbanel, an actress.

ONLY ONE FLAG, G. A. R. VOTES AS CONVENTION ENDS

Opposes 'Stars and Bars' Display at Gettysburg.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The Grand Army of the Republic will join the Confederate Veterans in a celebration at Gettysburg to mark 75 years of internal peace, but "such a reunion is to have in view only the flag of the United States." That was the decision reached by the national encampment here after four hours of debate yesterday and seven hours today.

The flag restriction makes it improbable that an agreement will be reached with the confederate veterans for official participation by the G. A. R. It was the sense of the encampment, however, that individuals might attend if they desired.

Conference Group Named.

A committee was appointed to confer with the commission which has charge of the Gettysburg reunion, which is set for next summer.

There had been much debate over the display of the stars and bars, the flag which was carried by the soldiers of the confederate states from 1861 to 1865. The election of officers of the G. A. R. and its allied organizations closed the encampment.

Paul L. Roy of Gettysburg, secretary of the Pennsylvania commission in charge of the reunion, said more than 2,000 Union veterans already have accepted invitations.

Dr. Ovarton H. Mennet of Los Angeles, Cal., was elected new commander in chief of the G. A. R., succeeding C. H. William Ruhe of Pittsburgh, Pa. Des Moines, Ia., was selected for the 1938 encampment, with a total of 74 votes to 44 for Pittsburgh, which had "waited for 44 years"; 14 for Columbus, O., and eight for Dayton, O.

New Chief from Indiana.

Dr. Mennet, the new G. A. R. commander, was born on a farm near Vevay, Ind., on March 8, 1850. During the civil war he served as a private in company E, 146th Indiana Volunteer infantry. Sues Opera Singer

OCTAVIA PICCHIONI.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Attorneys representing Ezio Pinza, operatic baritone, today filed a petition in Superior court here seeking permission to take the testimony of twelve witnesses in New York City. Pinza is the defendant in a $200,000 breach of promise suit filed by Octavia Picchioni of this city a year ago.

In her bill of complaint the raven haired Italian beauty charged that Pinza, after ardently wooing her for months, proposed marriage in 1933. She accepted, but the date for the wedding never was set. Finally, a year later, she avowed in her bill, Pinza suddenly broke off his relations with her and announced that he did not wish to see her in the future.

Not until that time, she charged, did she learn that the romantic singer was married.

VOLUNTEERS GET FIRE COURSE AT U. OF MARYLAND

College Park, Md., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The University of Maryland looks somewhat different today from its usual appearance. Red wagons and blue shirts provide the color. The reason is a short course in firefighting being conducted here for the benefit of volunteer firemen.

Experts of paid departments of several Maryland cities are instructors and the volunteers are being given instruction in the handling of equipment, rescues, using smoke masks and other details of what to them is an avocation, but to their instructors is an every day job. More than 100 students are attending the course.

SECRET TESTS AT JAIL REVEAL CRIME DISEASE

Rare Illness Magnifies Outlaw Tendencies.

Tests just completed at the County jail indicate that some criminal repeaters are victims of a special illness that prevents them from leading normal lives. The tests, which are based upon an analysis of the spinal fluid, were conducted by Dr. S. W. Brownstein of the city health department and Dr. M. H. Levy, County jail physician. Nine prisoners submitted voluntarily to the analysis.

In addition to the medical phase of the experiments, the prisoners submitted also to pathological observation, which was conducted in secret. The results convinced the physicians that a disease that stimulates criminal tendencies does exist, but what the illness is or how it may be treated is not yet known.

Extensive Study Planned.

The two were hopeful, however, that extensive studies might reveal a cure for the victims and that conclusive pathological tests might be developed to determine whether individual prisoners should be released into society after completion of penal terms.

The spinal tests were devised by Dr Brownstein after nine years of study of the pathological implications of crime, and with the coöperation of Dr. Levy, Warden Frank Sain of the county jail and the nine repeaters who volunteered for the tests. The nine had been arrested from two to twenty-five times. The spinal fluid is extracted through a needle syringe from the spinal cord cavity in the backbone.

What Tests Reveal.

In normal human beings, Dr. Brownstein explained, the fluid is clear, like water, and has few or no cells from destroyed brain or spinal cord tissue. In persons who have had meningitis, syphilis or kindred illnesses, however, the cells become numerous. Among the criminal repeaters none had a cell count below 26 per cubic millemeter, and some ran as high as 137 in contrast with a count of from 0 to 4 per cubic millemeter in normal persons.

This fact, however, showed only the possibility of known illnesses, Dr. Brownstein explained. Certain chemical tests revealed the presence of a disease which as yet has no name and which may cause extreme criminal proclivities.

"We're merely beginning," Dr. Brownstein said yesterday. "I'm convinced, however, that there are pathological causes for crime, and I believe our studies are a step in the right direction.

Remedy Is Real Goal.

"If our theory is borne out by further investigation, it may be possible to determine some remedy. Should it be shown that there is a pathological condition that causes crime, then it will be possible to determine scientifically that persons so afflicted should not be released. This will make for the greater protection of society."

Dr. Levy and Dr. Brownstein said in a joint statement that they will recommend that penal institutions throughout the country conduct similar spinal tests. Only widespread research can give real value to their findings, they emphasized.

Chicago doctors yesterday were interested in the experiments of Drs. Brownstein and Levy, but declared that nothing definite is indicated by the tests to date.

Other Causes Advanced.

It might be, they suggested, that the prisoners have led similar lives and therefore may have fallen victim to similar illnesses, caused by poor living. This might account for the high cell counts in parallel cases, they added.

"The study would be very useful since it directs interest to pathological study of the cause of crime and abnormal beavior," commented Dr. Irving S. Cutter of Northwestern university.

NEW EVIDENCE LINKS RAINFALL TO SUN SPOTS

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

The earth is in the midst of a cycle of freakish weather. Floods, heavy rainfalls, and great drouths have been occurring simultaneously in various parts of the globe. Unusual electric disturbances interfere with communications and with scientific studies with delicate instruments more frequently than in former years.

These conditions, according to a school of natural scientists, should continue until 1939. Beginning that year and continuing until 1950, there should be a gradual diminishing in violence of such phenomena and a gathering quietude in natural forces.

Sun Spots Are Blamed.

Such are the predictions of long range weather forecasters and students of whom Dr. C. G. Abbot, secretary of the Smithsonian institution in Washington, D. C., is a leading exponent. Dr. Abbot and his colleagues believe that floods and storms on the earth can be traced directly to the variations in the sun's radiation caused by sun spots.

These searchers after new knowledge say they have even traced a variation in the level of the five Great Lakes to sun spot cycles. They have found evidence that the sun's current rash of spots is approaching its maximum, which will be reached next year. Beginning with 1939 and continuing thereafter for eleven and a half years, there should be fewer sun spots and less of the strange weather conditions we have been having on earth.

Sun spots are solar storms of vast expanse. Some of these whirling, exploding tornadoes are 250,000 miles in diameter. They have been known to observers since the telescope was invented, but not until recently were they connected with terrestrial weather.

Tree Rings Furnish a Clew.

A number of clews pointing to a cycle of 11½ years or its multiples, 23 and 46 years, cropped up in various branches of science, which, when considered together, inevitably turned students to the sun for an explanation. One of these clews is in tree rings. For each year of a tree's life there is a separate ring and these may be read even in petrified woods. In years of heavy rainfall these rings are thicker than in dry years.

By studying the rings of old trees it is possible to get a record of rainfall for centuries in various parts of the world. Also petrified woods disclose a pattern of rainfall cycles in the geological ages.

These wood patterns, scientists have found, show a consistent recurrence of a 23 year cycle in which rainfall reaches its maximum.

Evidence in Silt Deposits.

Similar evidence is found in silt deposits in glacial lakes. Dr. Abbot says that silt in an ancient lake bed near Haverstraw, N. Y., showed 25 consecutive 23 year groups in 575 years.

Then came the search for a similar 23 year cycle in some force which affected weather. After a number of factors were eliminated it was found that a full cycle of sun spots followed the 23 year pattern.

After further studies it was decided that sun spot activity produces an important influence on weather not heretofore recognized. This conclusion was borne out by the comparison of the rise and fall in the levels of the Great Lakes with the periodicity of the sun spots.

More Rainfall Caused.

Dr. Abbot says that during the periods of greater activity of sun spots there is a larger amount of rainfall in the middle western area drained by the lakes. His graphs of the lake level since 1835 work out into four periods of 23 years each, from 1835 to 1859, 1860 to 1882, 1883 to 1905, and 1906 to 1928, and the current cycle which began in 1929.

The graph pattern for these years is very similar with pronounced high water levels during the first 11½ years of each group and with correspondingly lower, less variable annual levels during the second phase of 11½ years.

Sun Spot Action

(Story in adjoining column.)

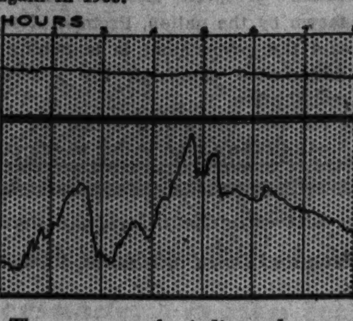
Part of a double cycle showing the ebb and flow of the sun spots. The sun was clear of spots in 1924 and again in 1935.



These two graphs indicate the magnetic influence of the sun spots. The upper line records the magnetic force around the earth on a day on which there are no sun spots. The lower shows the force in the same hours of another day on which there are sun spots.

CHEMISTS FIND EARTH A BILLION YEARS YOUNGER

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Chemists with new methods of measuring the age of the earth, especially by the potassium which is a life essential in human blood, reported to the American Chemical society here today that the earth is younger than science has believed by a billion years.

They reported that in pre-Cambrian times, which was about 800 million years ago, potassium thein was stored in rocks in far larger amounts than today.

Today about 2 per cent of the earth's crust is made of potassium. It is spread everywhere, and all plants and animals contain a little. But Dr. Brewer found that in the early days of the earth there was probably four times as much potassium as now.

There was enough extra potassium in pre-Cambrian times, Dr. Brewer said, to account possibly for the origins of so many species. Radioactive rays change both animal and plant life.

197 Pound Sturgeon Is Caught in Shallow River

Derby, Conn., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Nicholas Starpa, a civilian, and Walter Pankowitz of the Milford police department were fishing in the Naugatuck river this morning when a great splashing and floundering attracted their attention. They waded into the shallow water and started beating the creature with an iron bar. When they towed it ashore they had captured a 197 pound sturgeon, 7½ feet long.

PROTECTION FOR U. S. CITIZENS IN CHINA IS PLEDGED

Hull Says Naval, Military Forces to Remain.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—As long as American citizens are in danger in China, American naval and military forces will be there to protect them, Secretary Hull said today.

With this one statement he sent reassurance to Americans in Shanghai, who have been uttering distressed protests at this government's policy, and he refused the demand of peace organizations that American armed forces be withdrawn immediately.

When disturbed conditions arise in a country where citizens of another nation are living, the secretary told reporters, the question of the second nation's responsibility for its nationals there presents itself at once.

When conditions became turbulent in certain areas of China, he continued, the United States government had a fair conception of what its responsibility was in protecting its nationals from unorganized mobs and other sources of danger.

Points to Responsibility.

He added that this country's responsibility for protecting its citizens in China was very clear and that that responsibility extended over the full period in which they might be endangered.

How this attitude might be squared with warnings to citizens in China that they remain there at their own risk immediately was raised.

But for answer Hull confined himself to asserting that all governmental authorities involved in the problem were acting in complete unanimity and without any misunderstandings by any one.

In other state department quarters, however, the explanation was added that a part of this government's duty in protecting its citizens in China is to recognize danger when it arises and warn them to leave.

Own Risk Statement Recalled.

The statement that those who remain do so at their own risk was made last Sunday by President Roosevelt and repeated in the last few days by American consular authorities in China. Whether the latter did so upon instructions from the department, Hull would not divulge.

Mr. Roosevelt's statement stirred up a storm in the American colony at Shanghai. In addition to numerous angry individual protests, the American Chamber of Commerce there cabled Hull objecting to any statements that might be construed as abandonment of American business interests in the orient.

JAPAN WARNED IT MUST WHIP CHINA TO GAIN A FRIEND

Be Obedient and Loyal, Nation Urged.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 9. — Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoe today appealed to the Japanese people to redouble their efforts to crush the Chinese army which, he charged, is frustrating the Japanese government's endeavors to establish friendly relations with China.

Arguing that the sole means of overcoming the present national difficulties and thereby promoting the nation's prosperity lies in the loyalty shown by the nation, Premier Konoe said the government is launching a nation-wide campaign for spiritual mobilization.

He said the entire blame for the hostilities in China is due to the pursuance of an anti-Japanese attitude by China.

"Fighting for Justice."

The premier charged that China wantonly infringed on Japanese rights and interests, thus planting the roots of "the current incident."

"Japanese soldiers are fighting for the sake of justice," Konoe said. "The dispute is so deep rooted there is no foretelling how far its scope will be extended or how long it will be protracted before a solution is sighted.

"The nation sincerely is urged to act in perfect obedience to imperial wishes and to be loyal to the national cause and coöperate to the fullest extent and endeavor further to raise national morale."

Charge Chinese Use Dumdums.

A Japanese naval statement charged the Chinese were using dumdum bullets in the fighting at Shanghai. The statement added that communications between the first line Chinese troops in North China and Chinese forces in the rear were disrupted by the heaviest rainfall in recent years.

All streams, including the Yellow river, flooded surrounding areas. Chengchow, northern Honan province, an important connecting point on regular air lines, was transformed into a huge lake. Transportation of war materials to the front line in North China was rendered impossible, threatening to isolate the Chinese front line, the Japanese reported.

SEIZED FOR ANNOYING CHILD 2 DAYS AFTER HE ENDS PRISON TERM

Robert De Tamble.

Robert De Tamble, 22 years old, 516 North Clark street, who was released Tuesday from the federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., after serving a sentence of two and one-half years for stealing from the mails, was arrested yesterday on a complaint that he had been annoying a 2 year old girl. A woman passerby who called police said she saw De Tamble call to the child from a hallway at 814 North Ashland avenue, but that when his actions were noticed he walked on. De Tamble denied the woman's charges.

Cobweb sweaters of Indian cashmere by
PRINGLE'S OF HAWICK
Scotland

Like a piece of fine luggage, a good cashmere sweater can be told at a glance. Yet how many of you know what makes a good cashmere sweater so obviously superior? Messrs. Pringle of Hawick could tell you; this old Scottish firm has been famous for cashmeres since your great-great-grandmother's day.

Cashmere is the fleece of a mountain goat that lives in the Central Highlands of Asia. (Lots of him are found in the Vale of Kashmir, and thereby hangs the name.) Because of its softness, warmth, and fineness of fibre, cashmere has long been the most important of the superwools for the fine cloth trade. Any shades up to the most delicate tints can be dyed.

Pringle's use cashmere in a single-ply yarn, and knit it with a special slack stitch resulting in a fabric of cobweb delicacy, yet surprising strength. And the processing after the knitting (for which Pringle's are particularly famous), together with the climate and water (for which Hawick is particularly famous), helps to produce that curious silkiness which makes these sweaters loved wherever good sports clothes are worn.

AMERICANS TOLD TO FLEE CHINA AS JAPS RAID COAST

Nippon Planes and Ships Attack Chief Ports.

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 10 [Friday].—(AP)—United States marines, guarding the dangerous northern boundary of the international settlement, were placed in grave peril today when Japanese land and warship batteries began a furious bombardment of Chinese positions.

A Japanese nine inch shell plowed into the heart of the barricades manned by the Americans. Its 150 pounds of metal first had crashed through a Chinese warehouse. Had this not miraculously broken its momentum many of the marines undoubtedly would have been killed or wounded.

It was the eighth projectile to endanger the American positions since last night. Thirteen Chinese were wounded. The Japanese destroyers began pumping shells into the Chinese positions in Pootung, the ruined industrial area across the Whangpoo.

The Chinese batteries, deep within Pootung, replied. Their shells began churning the waters of the Whangpoo and striking increasingly nearer the Japanese consulate.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 10 [Friday].—(AP)—American citizens in nearly all the principal seaports of China today were urged to evacuate in the face of increasing perils from Japan's air and naval attacks along China's 2,150 mile coast line.

Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson at Nanking ordered the American consulate at Swatow, in southern Kwangtung province, closed and all Americans there evacuated. Previously Johnson had authorized closing of the American consulates at Amoy and Foochow, formerly thriving ports of Fukien province.

Fear Battle in Shantung.

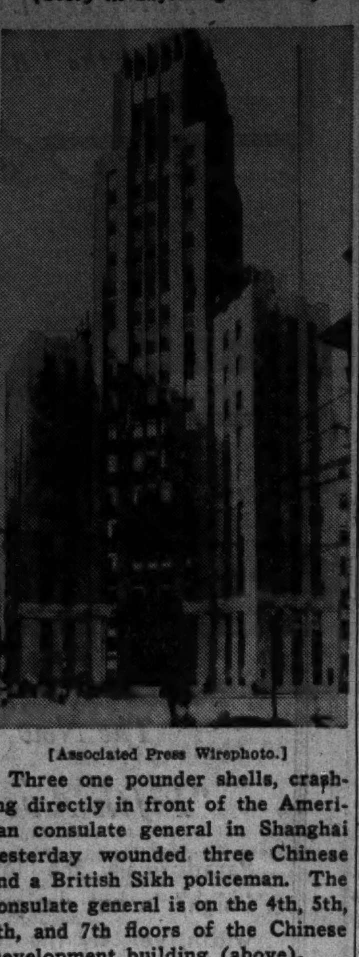
Several hundred Americans at Tsingtao, chief seaport of Shantung province, were urged to get out as soon as possible. United States officials indicated they feared that Tsingtao soon would be a field of hostilities. The Japanese army and navy, it was believed, would attempt a landing there for an expedition to strike at Tsinanfu, the provincial capital.

Capture of Tsinanfu would cut the Tientsin-Pukow railway, main line of communication between Nanking and North China.

American lives were gravely endangered yesterday at Shanghai, Amoy, and Swatow. Japanese planes and warships subjected Amoy to a two hour bombardment, causing American residents to seek shelter in dugouts. The American naval vessel Asheville was caught in the bombardment. Several air bombs fell close to her and her crew took shelter below decks to avoid a hail of shrapnel.

Shells Miss Consulate

(Story in adjoining column.)



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Three one pounder shells, crashing directly in front of the American consulate general in Shanghai yesterday wounded three Chinese and a British Sikh policeman. The consulate general is on the 4th, 5th, 6th, and 7th floors of the Chinese Development building (above).

Americans Stick to Posts.

Army and police headquarters, an army airfield, and an old fort near the compound of the American Standard-Vacuum Oil company were the principal targets of the bombardment. Two bombs fell near the oil plant, where several American employés were sticking to their posts, but none was injured.

A punishing raid by Japanese planes made Swatow, northeast of Hongkong, unsafe for American and British residents.

Fighting continued furiously on the V shaped front north of Shanghai, along the banks of the Whangpoo and Yangtze rivers. Great fires were burning in the Yangtzepoo district, easternmost section of the international settlement, after a night raid by a lone Chinese bombing plane.

Aims at Warships.

The pilot apparently was trying to hit Japanese warships scattered thickly along the Whangpoo at this point, but his bombs fell in the thickly built-up industrial section on the river's left bank. One of the fires was blazing in the huge yards of the China Import and Export Lumber company, the largest in China.

Three one pound shells plunged into the heart of the international settlement, wounding three Chinese civilians and a British Sikh policeman in front of the American consulate general. The shells apparently came from Chinese batteries north of the settlement. Guns there were firing on a low flying Japanese bombing plane.

Chinese Repulse Attack.

American observers in the Woosung area, at the confluence of the Whangpoo and Yangtze rivers, confirmed reports that the Chinese still held their principal lines in the face of repeated Japanese attacks.

To keep the Japanese navy out of the middle and upper Yangtze the Chinese blocked the river with a barrier of old steamers and native junks loaded with sand and concrete just below Silver Island, 30 miles downstream from Nanking. The barrier was believed to make it certain that any Japanese advance on Nanking would have to be made without support of the warships' big guns.

The barrier also bottled up the United States navy's Yangtze patrol of six gunboats, with crews totaling 500 officers and men. It raised a new difficulty for the evacuation of about 1,200 Americans at Hankow and other cities in central China.

Dispatches from Peiping reported that a Japanese detachment of 4,000 troops had been wiped out after falling into a Chinese ambush in the The ambushing of the Japanese was said to have occurred near Mentoukuo.

Loses Wife's Cash Playing the Horses, So She Sues

In order to operate his system of beating the horse races, Mrs. Bonnie R. Steinmann, 25 years old, 2113 North Albany avenue, testified yesterday that her husband, John E., 3644 Greenview avenue, made her cash her insurance policy for $300 and borrow $200. Although he assured her, she said, that his system was unbeatable, he lost all the money. Judge Martin Gridley awarded her $5 a week temporary alimony for herself and her son, Douglas, 4, pending a hearing on her separate maintenance suit. They were married April 27, 1931, at Crown Point.

THREAT OF GUN HALTS 'CHAIN GANG' ESCAPES

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 9.—[Special]—Escapes of convicts from Georgia chain gangs were not reported today following the reinstatement of orders to "shoot to kill" fugitives and efforts to restore the lash to discipline unruly prisoners.

Gov. E. D. Rivers is leading the move to check escapes which he said had reached scandalous proportions. One hundred convicts fled from chain gangs during August.

Attorney General M. J. Yeomans has been asked for an opinion as to whether whipping could be restored legally. It is prohibited under the Georgia constitution's bill of rights. The governor said if Yeomans says the lash can be used, "I'll coöperate and put it on trial under certain restrictions."

BOILER BLAST KILLS 3.

Marshall, Tex., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Three men were killed and five injured when a sawmill boiler exploded here today. Another may die.

SECRET HEARING PLAN OF TORRIO NIPPED QUICKLY

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—In an attempt to avoid unpleasant publicity at their public arraignment next Monday, John Torrio, former Chicago gangster, and his three codefendants in an income tax indictment filed last Saturday, slipped into the Federal court today and asked that they be arraigned at once for pleading and the fixing of bail.

Arrangements, supposedly made in advance, fell through, when Assistant United States Attorney Seymour Klein, refused to be taken by surprise or rushed into an arraignment.

Al Capone's Miami House Saved; Ralph Pays Taxes

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Rhydon C. Latham, attorney for Mrs. Al Capone, said he was informed today a federal tax claim of $17,166 against Capone's Miami Beach estate had been paid by Ralph Capone. The estate was to have been sold tomorrow to satisfy the tax claim.

MAYAN TEMPLES GUIDE TREND OF MODERN MEXICO

Indians Again Hold Land as in Ancient Days.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MERIDA, Yucatan, Sept. 9.—While this city of 100,000 presents such contrasts as streamlined cinemas and herds of goats driven through the streets to be milked at the customer's doorstep, the incessant honking of new motor cars mingling with the clack of the feet of little horses pulling tiny Spanish cabs, it is in the back country, the bush and the jungle, that one finds the real Mexico, its background and inheritance, and the lines that run from the immemorial past to the unpredictable future.

The thatched huts cling to the edges of the city, surround it as if an encampment of invaders waited there. And this is what has happened politically and socially. This is an authentic note of the revolution, the Indian pressing in upon the city. There are half a million of them in these provinces bordering the Caribbean. The whites are only a handful.

Reversal of Usual Picture.

This is a reversal of the North American picture, for here the Indian is conquering, his blood and psychology telling the story of the springs of action since 1910, and projecting the future. Indian leaders are in power here as well as in other parts of Latin America. The stone walled haciendas, the cities of luxury and dignity are being dominated by the mestizos, or mixed bloods.

It is at Chichen-Itza, the land of the tribe that lived by the well, that one reaches as nearly as possible the beginning of many things that touch today. It is 84 miles out of Merida, on the only paved highway, and it is but one of 40 buried cities that have been found on this peninsula, stretching up out of Guatemala and telling of the Mayan movement and civilization of the fifth and sixth centuries.

Grass Overruns Spanish Gates.

The road runs past the henequin plantations that supply the main crop of the country, the tough sisal plant that grows for 25 years and provides hemp that makes rope for the binding of grain and the towing of ships. The plantations look somewhat disheartened and untidy. Grass and weeds overrun the old Spanish gates that lead to the great houses that have ruled these people for hundreds of years.

Today the plantations, some of them worth millions, are being parceled out to the Indian peons that were formerly slaves of the white planters. This is the high dispensation from the Indian-minded government in Merida and Mexico City, the chief movement of the revolution, long delayed but now being pushed with finality.

Mayans a Clean People.

These Mayans of today are a remarkably clean people. Although the family shares its one room hut with dog, chickens, pigs, turkeys, and goats, the huts look clean. The women are dressed in white, long native skirts, hand embroidered at the neck and at the bottom in color patterns. Their black hair, caught in a thick hank at the back of the neck, is often decorated with a red flower, for tropical blooms abound at their doors.

It is not likely that these Indians have any consciousness that they are being pushed to the forefront of a new social movement that embraces Mexico. Communal lands are their main objective. On these they can plant corn with a stick in a cleared patch among the forest stones. They can cut wood and make charcoal and pasture a few cattle. They are not tied to daily labor in the fields for any master, except the government bank. The Spaniards and the landowners under Diaz took these lands away from them. Now they are getting them back. That is all there is to it. The rise to new demands will come slowly through their children, who are getting an education in the new government schools and at the movies.

Finds Temple of Mystery.

Pushing through the forest, which changes from bush to deep jungle, vibrant with the life of birds and insects, hiding deer and jaguar and boa constrictor, the traveler comes finally to a work of man that rises above the forest. The pyramid of Kul-Kul-Kan, 650 feet around its base and 100 feet in height, supporting a temple called El Castillo, where the lords of the ancient Mayans once dominated a city of half a million, lifts above the trees in dignity and mystery.

For a thousand years the Mayans had been in Guatemala and Honduras. Between 471 and 540 A. D. they pushed northward and discovered Yucatan. They cleared the forest, founded great cities with pyramid temples such as this, palaces of cut stone with carvings of power and imagination.

They established an empire that lasted for five centuries. They made plaques of jade, necklaces, ornaments, wood carvings, ceramics, paintings, weaving, mosaics of feathers. Their arithmetic, chronology, and astronomy were accurate. They knew that the earth was round and built an observatory that looks almost modern in size and shape, with openings fixed in stone to observe the changes of the planets.

Many Piles to Uncover.

In the plaza of this old city, partly restored by the Mexican government and the Carnegie Institution of Washington, stands the old ball court, the temple of the warriors, the group of a thousand columns and other structures half buried in the jungle. Many huge piles remain to be uncovered.

While the writing on these halls has never been deciphered, it is known that the Mayans of the old empire lived a communal life; that all their products were for common use at the discretion of their emperor, who appears to have been in touch with the gods. The communism of Mexico antedates Russia by these thousands of years and falls naturally into the grooves of mental inheritance.

Something lingers here, an emanation out of this past. It is all peaceful now, with a flock of green birds winging into the sunset over the temple of warriors, butterflies of gaudy color drifting with the winds. But these are fierce faces carved on these crumbling walls. On the walls of one temple are the red marks of hands, a print of the days of human sacrifice. There is a seat for the emperor to watch the sacrifices. Hearts were torn from living bodies.

Maiden Sacrifice for Rain.

The head of the feathered serpent rules here. Near the group of a thousand columns, in the five acre plaza dominated by the temple of El Castillo, is the Via Sacre, winding through the woods, a high road of sacrifice to the rain god. From the temple the priests watched the skies. From the nunnery in the woods nearby came an Itza maiden groomed for sacrifice. The masses of the people filled the plaza and watched. If a cloud passed over the sky it meant that the maiden was accepted. She was led along the path to the sacred well, which is circular, about 100 feet in diameter. It is 75 feet from the cliff to the water below.

The ancient processional halts at the edge of the pool. The maiden mounts a small shrine, aided by priests. She is given a soporific potion to drink. Thick fumes arise from the belly of the shrine enveloping her. She is seized by arms and legs and at a signal from the high priest tossed down into the sacred waters. Thus is the virgin offered as a spouse to the god of rain.

This was followed by the populace closing around the pool and throwing their most precious possessions as further sacrifice. This pool dredged by an American yielded 60 skeletons of girls and many ornaments of jade and precious stones.

Become Conquerors' Serfs.

The Mayans founded sea coast cities and built roads of deep stone foundation like the Romans. In the seventh century they abandoned the old empire and moved near Campeche which they occupied for 200 years. They reoccupied Itza in 964 A. D. and founded other cities and the league of Mayapan. In 1201 there was a war between the cities. The Toltec and Aztec tribes were called in to help and the old empire was doomed. From then on the god of the Toltecs ruled and new temples were built above the old.

Then came the conquest, an alien religion and taxes forced by the sword. This went on for 150 years, with the Indians becoming the serfs of the conquerors. Their numbers, the regard of the crown and the church, preserved them. The exploiting age, the idea of democracy, the coming of independence, and the revolution, found them waiting, vaguely stirred, but mostly passive and waiting. Strangely now, they have been released. They hold the key to the future of this country, perhaps a new empire.

PUT 3 POLICEMEN ON TRIAL IN RAPE NEGLIGENCE CASE

Accused After Records Are Found Missing.

The police civil service commission yesterday took under advisement the cases of Acting Captain William Burke of the Marquette station and two other policemen after their trial by the board on charges of neglect of duty in the prosecution of a gang rape case.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney caused the complaint to be filed after an investigation last January disclosed statements taken from witnesses and the four defendants in a rape case were missing when the case was called for trial. After the investigation started, the missing records were sent to Mr. Courtney's office by mail.

Fourth Discharged from Force.

Tried with Burke were Policemen Frank Janousek and Marvin Nelson. Bernard P. Smith, a fourth involved in the case, was discharged from the police force by the trial board last May 13 for attempting familiarities with a girl, 19 years old, who asked him for a trafic direction.

The missing records concerned the case of two girls, one 15 years old, the other 18. On Oct. 4, 1936, six men seized them, took them to a clubhouse at 1943 Taylor street, and raped them. Four of the alleged rapists were arrested, and two are still fugitives.

Two Are Convicted.

Those captured were Anthony Di Raffali, 20, 842 South Morgan street; Mario Pardo, 21, 834 South Winchester avenue; John Ponzi, 23, and Thomas Moretti, 24.

They were brought to trial after the missing records were returned. Half way through the trial, Di Raffali and Pardo pleaded guilty. The former was sentenced on Feb. 8 to seven years in prison and Pardo received a 9 year term. The other two were acquitted in a separate trial.

The three policemen are accused both of failing to arrest Moretti's brother Lorenzo for an alleged offer of a $500 bribe to drop prosecution of Moretti and of failing to deposit records of the rape case with the state's attorney.

Blame Former Policeman.

"Smith is the man at fault," Capt. Burke declared yesterday. "He should have seen that the records were given to the prosecutor. Smith told me of a bribe offered by Lorenzo, and we arrested him, but he was released after questioning in the state's attorney's office."

Janousek testified that he saw the missing records in Smith's locker while the search was being made.

Wife of Acquitted Slayer of Policeman Asks Divorce

Mrs. Otilla Obinger, 28 years old, 7547 Evans avenue, filed suit for divorce yesterday in the Circuit court from Harry Obinger, employed as a traveling salesman. On Jan. 14 Obinger was acquitted of a charge of murder. He shot and killed Policeman Martin Condon on Nov. 23, 1936, after warning him to stay away from Mrs. Obinger. The Obingers were married on Aug. 15, 1931, at Crown Point. Her bill which charges cruelty states they separated last June 27.

MUST GO TO JAIL IF SANE.

Judge Oscar Caplan of the Municipal court ruled yesterday that unless Joseph Mandel, 46 years old, 5009 Addison street, is found insane by the court psychiatrist, he must serve out a $100 fine in the Bridewell for making his second unsuccessful attempt at suicide.

MORE TIME GIVEN MISS EUSTICE TO BEAT ANNULMENT

Marguerite Eustice was given yesterday until Nov. 16 to complete preparation of her appeal from the decree on April 21 annulling her marriage to Quin O'Brien, former assistant corporation counsel.

Attorney Theodore W. Miller requested an extension of time from Judge Martin M. Gridley on the ground that his client has no money and has been unable so far to pay for a transcript of the 1,000 page hearing before Judge Donald S. McKinlay. He said she will return to her work as high school librarian.

Later in the day, Miss Eustice brought her baby son, born two months ago, whom she has named Quin O'Brien Jr., to Attorney Miller's office. Here she pointed out what she considered similarities between the baby and O'Brien.

U. S. Jury Indicts 30 as Narcotics Law Violators

The federal grand jury returned 17 indictments yesterday before Judge John P. Barnes charging violations of the federal narcotics laws against 30 defendants who have been arrested during the summer months. The defendants are small time narcotic peddlers and users.

HOME FOR GIRLS ASKS CASH, FIRST TIME IN 74 YEARS

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Seventy-four years ago a group of Chicagoans organized the Chicago Erring Women's refuge. Later the name was changed to the Chicago Refuge for Girls, and finally to the Chicago Home for Girls.

"Many of our regular contributors have died in recent years and we are making the first appeal for funds in the long history of the institution," said Mrs. Henry R. Rumsey, president of the board of managers, yesterday. "We feel that the institution is just as vital to the city as it was when William B. Ogden, Philo Carpenter, and others were on its first board of trustees."

In those days it was considered rather daring to support such an institution openly. Mrs. Rumsey recalled that when her mother was on the board of directors more than one contributor sent her donation in with a request that her name not be mentioned.

Fund for Buggy Rides.

One exception in the early days was the late Mrs. Lydia Hibbard, who left a fund for the institution to be used for buggy and sleigh rides and other entertainment for the erring females. The fund is now financing motion pictures and other amusements for the girls, Mrs. Rumsey said.

The 75 girls now in the home, of whom four or five have with them their babies, born out of wedlock, are encouraged to forget the past and never to mention it, Mrs. Rumsey said.

"There is a great difference in our treatment of girls compared to the well meaning but tactless treatment they formerly had," said Mrs. Rumsay. "This latter is illustrated by the purpose of the home when it was founded, which was for the relief and protection and care and reformation of such erring females who voluntarily enter and those placed here by authorities."

Average Age 15 Years.

The average age of the girls in the home is 15 years. They range from 12 to 18 years of age. Most of them are first offense wards of the Juvenile court. The city provides 40 cents a day toward the maintenance of each girl it sends there, which means that more than 70 per cent of the year's expense must be met by other means, in order to provide the teaching, playground instruction, training in the arts, and other aspects of care.

The institution, at 5024 Indiana avenue, is equipped to give medical and nursing care to certain cases and to provide for their segregation.

U. S. BACKS DRIVE ON POLLUTION BY 4 INDIANA CITIES

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—An order authorizing the state health department to compel abatement of pollution by four Lake county cities was issued today by the department of commerce and industry.

It specifies that W. H. Frazier, assistant state health commissioner, shall issue the orders against Gary, East Chicago, Whiting, and Hammond to clean up pollution in Lake Michigan, the great Calumet river, the Little Calumet river, and the Indiana Harbor canal by Jan. 1, 1939.

A survey conducted by the state health department the last few months has shown part of the lake and the three streams "badly polluted," Frazier said. Industries have coöperated in the survey, he added. Chicago obtains its water from Lake Michigan and pollution from Lake county cities is held to be endangering the source of supply.

Keyhole view of MEN AT WORK

Take a peek at news in the making. Important news! It will effect the pocketbooks of over a million men. It will make front page headlines in every clothing publication. Because it comes from America's largest clothiers, merchants from Maine to California will talk about it. You will read it in this paper, a week from today. It will be Bond's price policy for the Fall! ★ You know that most retail prices have already been raised. Should Bond's follow? Woolens are up, linings are up, labor is getting more. Is the public now able to carry part of this load? If so, how much? If not, how much extra business will we win by saying "No Increase Here"? Will it be enough to help cover our extra costs? ★ There'll be no guesswork in getting the answer. A nationwide survey, covering thousands of interviews, is before our Board of Directors at this moment. It alone will determine their verdict. ★ In the meanwhile, new Fall selections are piling in from our factories. And last season's prices still hold good. "Bond Streeters" are still $25. Our Rochester Quality is still $30. "Park Lane" Suits are still $35. Two trousers with every suit. The man who buys this week is playing safe. So why wait?

Pay weekly or twice a month—and that's all.

BOOK POPULARITY

By CALEB

THERE was a time not so many years ago when so-called business leaders suspected of book reading were considered weaklings by their primate-type competitors. There recently occurred a vestigial reminder of this in the remark of a college professor who has ventured into business. Speaking of a compatriot, he said, "He is willing to co-operate no end! He will do anything I suggest which might possibly help him in his work. Why..." and the professor paused in search of an impressive plum of proof for his statement, "why—he'll even read a book if I suggest it!"

The reluctance of some people to read books and learn from the stored up wisdom of the ages dissolves slowly. But sweeping toward it in amazing swiftness is a terrific current in interest in books on the part of a very large sector of the public.

Visiting the interesting Garden City plant of Doubleday, Doran and Company on Long Island recently, I was told that within the first few weeks of its publication 766 of the plant's approximately 1,500 employes bought the novel, NORTHWEST PASSAGE.

The publishers say they can tell by the response of their employes to a new publication just about what public response will be. The predictions of the employe purchases at Garden City are being borne out in our store. In a matter of days from the book's arrival we sold approximately 1,000 copies, and they continue to move fast. I have read the book and can understand why. But that is beside the point.

The consumption of books nowadays is literally amazing. Doubleday alone has sold many millions of reprints of good books at prices a fraction of the prices of original editions.

Fiction is one thing and it sells in great volume, but almost any informative, authoritative book does surprisingly well if enough people are told of it. For instance, knowing the power of advertising and a low price on a beautiful publication, the publishers of a reprint on Chinese art optimistically estimated they could promptly dispose of perhaps 17,000 volumes. They have almost doubled that figure.

The reading of books is becoming increasingly popular, despite radio and the movies. Two things will contribute increasingly to this trend: (1) more people coming to realize the joys and benefits of reading and (2) aggressive publishers who find ways of making fine books increasingly inexpensive.

GAMBLING RAIDS GO ON; SO DOES DAILY WRANGLE

Courtney Prods Toman; Squads in Action.

State's Attorney Courtney made his daily criticism of Sherif Toman yesterday, declaring that at least four of the eighteen alleged county gambling places he named in a communication to Toman on Wednesday were operating two hours after the list became public. He also sent the sherif the names of three more places where his investigators said gambling was going on.

Toman's county highway police chief, Lester Laird, said he made the rounds of the eighteen places with twelve squads during the day and found two operating. One was at Joliet road and Lawndale avenue, Lyons, and the other at 12 Douglas street, Calumet City. Keepers and employés at each place were arrested. Laird also raided three places not named by Courtney and made arrests. They were at 4818 Cermak road, Cicero; 8039 West Ogden avenue, Lyons, and 6308 Archer avenue, Argo.

Mayor Returns to City.

Mayor Kelly returned from his Wisconsin summer home yesterday and said that he had nothing to add to the statement he made on Tuesday concerning gambling. This was to the effect that the police would continue to coöperate with the state's attorney.

The mayor talked with Police Commissioner Allman, who said he had been directed to continue the gambling drive and coöperation with Mr. Courtney's office. Warants for raids will be drafted by assistant state's attorneys, Commissioner Allman added.

"So far as has been brought to my attention, the only gambling establishments in Chicago are handbooks. As fast as we locate them, we're going after the operators," the chief said. "Those are my orders from the mayor."

Judge Frees 104 of 107.

Meanwhile Judge Eugene L. McGarry of South State street court continued to free alleged gamblers arrested without search warants, turning loose 104 of 107 brought before him. Cases against the other three were continued until Sept. 17.

In one case Judge McGarry criticized Policeman Patrick Gilhooley of the Des Plaines street station, who had arrested a man whom he found looking at a race scratch sheet in front of 626 West Madison street. "This man has committed no crime," said the judge.

DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

Albert F. Clark, 65 years old, a clerk at the Highlands Apartment hotel, 7455 Greenview avenue, died in his apartment there early yesterday, apparently the victim of a heart attack.

See Loop Shooting

JEANETTE DAVIS.

John Bambousek.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Two men were shot and hundreds of others were imperilled during the noon rush period in the wholesale clothing district yesterday when a colored man, apparently deranged, attacked two park policemen with a golf club. The police had tried to arrest him in front of 308 West Jackson boulevard. The colored man, Andrew Hill, 30 years old, employed as a porter in a Dutch Mill candy shop and restaurant at that address, was shot four times by Policeman Charles Kelly. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital.

John Bambousek, 902 North Western avenue, an elevator operator who was standing nearby, was shot in the right ankle. Mrs. Bernice Panicko, 43 years old, 1273 Walker street, also a pedestrian, was cut by glass when a window was broken during the fight. Jeanette Davis, waitress in the candy store, was a witness to the shooting.

Ragweed Pollen Count Shows Large Increase

O. C. Durham, botanist of the Abbott Laboratories, North Chicago, reported yesterday that the count of ragweed pollen, cause of hay fever, rose to 82 grains a cubic yard of air Wednesday. On Tuesday the count was 35.

VOTE TO INDICT CICERO BROKER AS EMBEZZLER

Five true bills charging embezzlement were reported to have been voted yesterday by the grand jury against George C. Hupka, former Cicero broker, who was discovered to be nearly $239,000 short in his accounts following a mysterious disappearance last May.

Hupka, who was known as a model citizen by neighbors near his home at 160 South Longcommon road in Riverside, disappeared shortly after he had filed a petition for bankruptcy in federal court. While he was missing numbers of his clients brought complaints that he had not accounted for large sums of money intrusted to him for investment. A few days later Hupka surrendered and admitted taking funds to speculate in the wheat market.

He is now free on $25,000 bond pending hearing on an embezzlement charge in the Felony court.

Parole Violator Goes Back to Prison on Girls' Story

Adrian, Mich., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Edgar Cross, 37 years old, of this city, went back to the state prison at Jackson today as a parole violator after investigation of a complaint that he was molesting three young girls, one 6 and the other two 11 years old. He had been sentenced from Wayne in 1927 to 15 to 30 years for robbery while armed. He was taken back to prison, Jackson officials said, primarily for observation. Cross declared he had no intention of harming the girls after he had shown them money and made an appointment to meet them.

A LAW NEEDING AMENDMENT.

At a conference on sex crimes called in Milwaukee by the district attorney the existing statute on constructive rape was severely condemned and amendment proposed. The Wisconsin law is more extreme than that of Illinois, which fixes the age of consent at 16, while in Wisconsin it is set at 18. Reformers have urged in Illinois that the age be raised to 18, but the change would only make the present undesirable situation worse, as experience under the Wisconsin law proves.

The error of both statutes is that they define as rape what is not rape, a crime which necessarily implies the exercise of force. The heinousness of rape is great and justifies severe punishment on grounds both of morals and public policy. But where force is not present the offense is in an entirely different category and this should be explicitly recognized in the written law. Conviction for rape stigmatizes the offender for life and carries consequences both legal and social which the facts and their moral implications do not justify. This is recognized by juries and by judges who, because the law is not in terms applicable to the facts, adopt various devices to mitigate or evade it. The idea of constructive rape was to protect children, but in practice it cannot be relied upon to do so. In fact, if strictly applied it is grossly unjust in many cases where there has been enticement or provocation by girls physiologically more mature than the male involved and of lower morals. Yet under the law and its rigid test of age the more guilty party goes free and the less guilty is seriously penalized.

The laws in both states cannot be respected and should be amended to conform to actualities. An amendment proposed at the Milwaukee conference would confine the definition of rape to the offense in which force is used. Offenses not involving force should be put in a different class and the law should be made to conform to actualities and the moral sense of the community. The problems involved call for thorough consideration in the light of our ample experience. It is obvious that neither our substantive law nor its administration deals adequately with sex crime and both need thorough reconsideration and improvement.

QUICK JUSTICE IS REAL JUSTICE.

When Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley of the Criminal court relinquished his post to his successor, Judge Cornelius J. Harrington, on Labor day, the number of pending indictments, eighty-one, was at its lowest ebb in the memory of veteran court employés.

Six years ago the court docket was clogged with more than 2,000 indictments. Every year since has shown an improvement, and during his term as chief justice Judge McKinley brought the court to a new level of efficiency.

Early disposal of indictments has been an important factor in Chicago's successful war on crime. The innocent defendant has nothing to fear from it. The cloud of accusation is removed from him as speedily as possible. The guilty defendant, and particularly the professional criminal, fears it. He goes to trial while his offense is still fresh in the minds of witnesses and the public, and a clear docket reduces to a minimum the efforts of shyster lawyers to protect him by delay and unnecessary continuances.

The efforts of Chief Justice McKinley and his predecessors to clear up the Criminal court docket were successful because that court now holds sessions through the summer.

While the record of Judge La Buy, head of the law division of the Circuit court, has been excellent in the matter of clearing up that docket, the example of summer sessions might well be taken by judges in the civil branches of the Circuit and Superior courts. In that way they might eliminate the necessity of calling to Chicago most, if not all, the country judges who now add to the cost of our local court system, and so set at rest unjustifiable proposals to create new judgeships.

GEN. HERRON MOVES ON.

In the routine of army assignments Chicago loses another distinguished resident in the transfer of Maj. Gen. Charles Douglas Herron, who came here to command the 6th field artillery brigade and who, since Jan. 1, had been in command of the 6th corps area.

Gen. Herron has well sustained the favorable impression made upon the community by a long succession of army officers who so quietly come and go in the procedure of army affairs. Entering the army after graduation from West Point in 1899, Gen. Herron served in the Philippine rebellion and in the military administration of the islands. In the American expeditionary forces he commanded the 313th field artillery and later served in responsible staf positions, all of which service has been marked by the qualities of ability and character on which the American army with good reason prides itself. In the field and in his general staf experience in France and at Washington Gen. Herron's abilities have been recognized by promotion and by military honors including the D. S. M. and the French Legion of Honor. During his stay in Chicago Gen. Herron has won friendship and respect and his departure will be regretted.

THE SOVEREIGN C. I. O.

There is no telling yet what will be the ultimate effect of the defeat suffered by the C. I. O. in the recent steel strike. Certainly the Lewis organization lost prestige. Both organized and unorganized labor now know that the C. I. O. is not invincible. One immediate consequence has been the heartening of the old line labor unions in the A. F. of L. Today they are fighting back, as in San Francisco, where the teamsters' union is refusing to operate trucks to and from docks where C. I. O. longshoremen are employed.

Jurisdictional struggles were not unknown before the days of C. I. O., but the probability is that we shall see more of them than ever before. There is little of the spirit of compromise in the C. I. O. John Lewis himself is a zealot who has never hesitated to resort to violence to gain his ends. He has surrounded himself with communists and other revolutionary extremists. The rapid progress made by their organization at the start filled these men with arrogance. The outlook is therefore dark. A prolonged and bitter struggle may be avoided, but to say that it will be avoided is to ignore the available evidence regarding the nature and the aims of the C. I. O.

Primarily the C. I. O. is not a labor union. It is a sovereignty, a government, which seeks in the first instance to coexist with the constitutional government and eventually to overthrow and replace it. That was the strategy of Trotzky and Lenin by which Kerensky was overthrown. There can be little doubt that this example is constantly in the minds of the communists whom Lewis has enlisted as his staf officers.

One of the principal attributes of sovereignty is the use of force to carry out the sovereign will. Governments always have their police and their armies. John Lewis' government is no exception. It has its army and it uses it. The C. I. O. army, for example, was moved to Monroe, Mich., in the attempt to force men who did not want to strike to do so. Force was used in the sitdown strikes and on a hundred picket lines.

Whenever, as at Monroe or at South Chicago, the constituted authority sought to protect regularly employed men who did not join the C. I. O. a pitched battle took place in which the C. I. O. army was the aggressor. The C. I. O. army did not recognize the superior right of the lawful government to maintain the peace. It demanded that the lawful government use its force to support the C. I. O. army, and the governors of Michigan, Ohio, and Pennsylvania actually accepted this subordinate rôle.

Another attribute of sovereignty is the power to tax. Lewis claims that, too. If he has his way no one will be permitted to work unless he first pays his monthly tax to the C. I. O. Lewis is not content to let the individual workman pay the tribute voluntarily; he aims to collect from the employer at the source, by means of the check-off. The workman never sees that portion of his wages. It is taken by the tax gatherer and is spent in promoting the political machine and enlisting and equipping the army. Money extorted from impoverished miners was thus used to elect Democrats who would not oppose the C. I. O. and to recruit automobile workers for Mr. Lewis.

Mr. Lewis has not yet established his own postoffice, but he has undertaken to control the United States mails. He has forced the postoffice department to let him censor mail addressed to men in beleaguered factories and to say what may be delivered and what may not. Likewise, though he has not yet set up a judicial system of his own, he has no cause to complain of the national labor relations board in which his cases are heard. The board, in which the offices of judge, prosecutor, and jury are combined, has treated him and his cause with distinguished consideration. For all practical purposes he controls it; it does as he commands, in open and notorious violation of the facts and of the legally established courts. As long as it continues to do so he will discover no need to set up a separate judicial organization.

John Lewis' government exists alongside the constitutional government but is of a very different order. It is not democratic. Lewis is an autocrat. There are no effective checks upon his will. If his government recovers from the setback it suffered in the steel strike and eventually replaces the constitutional government of this country the nation will be ruled by a dictatorship as ruthless as any which has sprung up in Europe since the war.

Editorial of the Day

FITCH'S SESQUICENTENNIAL, TOO.

[Christian Science Monitor, Boston.]

Simultaneously with the constitution of the United States, as indicated in one of the Monitor's recent "dispatches" from the convention in Philadelphia, was born the steamboat—although history does not customarily record this event as occurring until twenty years later. This first successful operation of a steam vessel, the beginning of the first commercial steamboat line, took place 150 years ago, on Aug. 22, 1787, with members of the constitutional convention looking on—an occurrence which Philadelphia recently celebrated with a two mile long water parade on the Delaware river.

John Fitch has not been accorded all the credit he deserves, although in recent years there has been an effort to make amends. New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York, Delaware, and Virginia granted this brilliant mechanical genius exclusive rights to operate his boats on their waters, and until late in the summer of 1790 Fitch carried passengers between Philadelphia and New Jersey towns on the Delaware, as the newspaper advertisements of the day attest.

Unhappily, Fitch had no rich backers and his receipts were insufficient to pay his expenses and permit him to continue his experiments.

Now that Fitch is coming into his own, it is recalled that Fitch's plans and drawings were lent to Robert Fulton, who is said to have acknowledged his debt; that a New York legislative committee in 1817 found that the Livingston-Fulton steamboats were "in substance the invention patented by John Fitch in 1791," and that a patent office pamphlet in 1814 declares that Fulton was indebted to Fitch for the proportions of his vessels.

Several others undoubtedly experimented successfully with steamboats before Fitch, but Fitch must be accorded the honor of first operating them commercially, though Fulton made that mode of transportation a success. Be that as it may, Fitch proved to be a man of vision when he wrote in his journal: "The day will come when vessels propelled by steam will cross the ocean. And I almost venture to prophesy that the same power will be utilized in moving land vehicles."

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

IF GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK is any example of the journalism of the sixties, the editors of those days never folded their tents and silently stole away. They went out looking for their subscribers with the express purpose of bopping them down. Wrote Mr. Godey:

"M. A. A.—We have published every variety of what you ask. You should have commenced buying the Book earlier."

"Miss E. R. W.—Even though it is leap year, we should consider your conduct very improper."

"Howard—If you smell of musk as much as your letter does, we think that both ladies will be perfectly disgusted with you and that will settle the question without difficulty."

"Miss J. H.—We do not know of any cutting remarks that would be applicable."

Then the editor really gave them a backhander: "Be particular in writing to mention the town, county, and state you reside in. Nothing can be made out of postmarks."

YOU WON'T, BUT—

If you should lift up the rare plates on the table in the shop on Wentworth avenue, the suave Chinese who sells them will bow and inquire, "Madame, may I call your attention to the placard?" It reads, "No Touch."

HIS HEEL CLICKING and his Spanish are authentic, which explains why his English isn't always. He was asked, when he stepped out of a Michigan avenue night club the other evening, how another of the performers had been received. Clapping his hands softly, to indicate polite but restrained approval, he answered:

"The applause wasn't loud—just cordius."

III.

The candle by my bed
Made just a little light,
But it scared the darkness off
And pushed away the night.

The shadows stood in corners
And turned their backs to me.
And I looked at the candle;
Its light was nice to see.

But it winked and it blinked
And it melted away,
So I hid beneath the covers
And waited for the day.

IS THE HORSE COMING BACK? asks one of your headline writers today. If he's inquiring about the one I played on the nose yesterday I can tell him this: It hasn't been seen anywhere near the finish line yet. George.

SAVOIR FAIRE, BUT DEFINITELY.

The train stopped for a moment in the little Indiana town. The immaculate, elderly man in white helped the most tactful young woman in the land into the chair car, then stood upon the platform waiting for the train to depart. Solemnly he raised his straw hat to wave good-by. From it fluttered a moth, whose presence in so new and expensive a hat is one of life's mysteries. Quite as solemnly she looked at him, and at the moth, and waved back.

It's only a coincidence that this is about a train, too—an Illinois Central electric. A frightfully embarrassed young man was sitting beside a middle aged woman who looked as if she were on the way home from one of the later and better parties. He was succeeding rather well in demonstrating by his manner that she was a stranger who had merely happened to sit down beside him when the conductor came through the car.

She asked, in a voice loud enough for all the other passengers to hear, where the train was, and he replied, "39th street."

"I don't mean what street," she called after him as he reached the other end of the car. "I mean," and she beamed at the timid young man, "what town."

IT'S AN OLD PROFESSION, and not overcrowded, but it's rarely that one meets any one engaged in it. Some one we know did, though. It's secretary to a steeplejack.

Well, That's Straight.

(Bismarck, N. D., Tribune, from F. E.)

In begging our readers' aid last week in filling this column, we used as an example the little known fact of what Doc Jaynes' initials stand for. We stated that his full name was REGINALD PERCIVAL. Begging your pardon, Doc, we should have stated your name is PERCIVAL REGINALD.

WETTER WATER, WAITER, WOT?

See? You can't say it twice without getting your tongue twisted. Chemists did that. Just when diners-out were rejoicing yesterday over the announcement that some of the chemists had discovered a cloth that won't get wet when the waiter spills your water in your lap, other chemists were sticking out their chests over the discovery of a way to make water wetter. That puts it all right back in the laps of the diners, who have difficulty with so simple a problem as saying, "Wetter Water, Waiter, Wot?"

GOING SOFT, EH?

The big rock the sherif was carrying looked as if it ought to have a history. I stopped up there in the state of Washington, on my way home from Alaska, and asked him what he did with it.

"Stranger," he said, "I'm getting old. Or else these fellows around here are getting tougher. I can't enforce the law with my fist any more. It takes a rock."

I asked several of the natives. They told me it was true; he had never carried a gun and was a trifle shame-faced about it when he began carrying the rock. Chicago, '40.

EARLIEST MEMORIES, psychiatrist friends tell us, are tremendously important to the understanding of personality. Ours is being taken by the hand out to the bakery wagon by an old neighbor named Mrs. Cartwright, who smiled when we chose the cakes with the pink frosting. And yours?

When you leave me, dear,
I think I know
How the heavens feel
When the moon
And all the stars
Fade suddenly.

DIET IN HEART CASES.

WHENEVER we refer to heart disease we mean that for some reason this vital organ is unable to pump enough blood to supply the demands of the body. Every case must be managed in such a way that there is no additional load placed upon an already weakened structure. In other words, we must expect less work of the heart. This accounts for the emphasis upon rest—a lowering of physical activity.

The process of digestion may in itself tax a handicapped circulation, and we can aid the situation materially by restricting foods to the point where they will keep up weight and nutrition, but will not stimulate the heart to extra exertion. There is a delicate balance in the diet, therefore, that must be maintained.

It has been shown that proteins throw a burden on the heart not inflicted by starches, sugars, or fats. Of course, we must be careful not to lower the protein balance below that which will affect nutrition. A little more than two ounces of lean meat in each twenty-four hours will be adequate.

The most easily burned and utilized foods are starches and sugars or edibles containing these elements. In the absence of diabetes or lowered function on the part of the pancreas, carbohydrates will be digested readily and will furnish energy quickly. In fact, glucose will act as a better restorative to exhausted muscles than almost any other type of nourishment.

It is wiser to force heart patients to burn their own fats than to feed quantities of cream, butter, olive oil, etc. In other words, the amount of fat which the cardiac sufferer retains in his own body should be relatively small. This indicates that the minimum protein and fat requirements should be given and an excess of starches and sugars.

Another precaution is that the diet should not be bulky and, therefore, small but more frequent meals are advised. No one of these patients should be able to say following a meal that he feels "full" and satisfied. If hunger or faintness between meals is obvious a little sugar or candy may be used. Reducing the quantity of food eaten will help to keep down distention of the stomach and ballooning of the intestines, particularly if gas forming foods are avoided.

Here are some of the items that should be crossed off the list completely: Nuts, all condiments, such as mustard and peppery sauces, onions, cucumbers, garlic, peppers, cabbage, beans, corn, cheese, preserved meats and fish, radishes, melons, and meat gravies.

If the tissues are filled with fluid [swollen], the Karell diet is suggested. It consists of 25 ounces of milk in each 24 hours. This provides approximately 500 calories and is sufficient to preserve body nutrition at a low level entirely without activity. The total is divided into four parts—given at 8 a. m., 12 noon, 4 p. m., and 8 p. m. A week later soft eggs, toast, and well-cooked asparagus, celery, or cauliflower may be added. Custards may be substituted and a baked apple will furnish salts.

Occasionally an individual will be found who is unable to take milk, or who dislikes it. In such cases gruel made from wheat or barley, toast, and egg may be given to the amount of calories allowed [between 500 and 600].

At the outset we must understand that this is a starvation diet, but that it is needed to get rid of the water. Many patients will complain of thirst, but this may be combated with lemon drops, chewing gum, or the sucking of small pieces of cracked ice. The result of this low calory feeding plan—in most instances—is the general excretion of water, which will relieve the respiration and the heart.

We must not assume that diet is curative in cardiac diseases, but it can lighten the work of the pumping organ so effectively as to make recovery possible.

ECZEMA.

Faithful Reader writes: My mother suffers with eczema. For eighteen years she has had it on her scalp, and in the last four years it has spread to her nose. She claims that the latter feels like little bugs crawling on her nose, and it itches terribly. She has used everything that she hears of for this trouble, and is relieved for a while, but then it itches worse than ever.

1. What causes eczema?
2. Could bleaching the hair cause it?
3. Is it contagious?
4. Can it be carried from one part of the body to another by the person's scratching?

REPLY.

1. There may be many causes. Among them are exposure to chemicals such as acids, drugs, and strong alkaline soaps; handling various materials to which the victim is allergic; sensitiveness to the sun or to heat or cold, or even scratching. The general health must be watched to eliminate resistance reducing infections.
2. Yes, a dye or chemical used could start it.
3. No.
4. It is not contagious, but scratching may so irritate the skin that the symptom [eczema] will appear. The patient should be tested for the purpose of discovering the guilty substance in the food or in contact with the skin.

NIGHTMARES.

L. M. writes: What causes nightmares in grown persons? Can anything be done about it? The man I have in mind simply goes wild—kicks and throws his arms around, bangs against the wall, and it is hard to awaken him. Is the condition inherited?

REPLY.

Digestive disturbances play an important part in bringing on nightmares. Other causes are: obstructed breathing from adenoid growths or enlarged tonsils; lack of fresh air in the sleeping room; excessive or insufficient bed clothing; mental excitement just before retiring.

The patient should be on a simple diet, with dinner at night the lightest meal of the day. In many cases a warm bath at bedtime will be beneficial. You inherit your physical constitution—even a team of horses—but not nightmares.

WORMY MEAL.

Mrs. G. writes: I used some corn meal in hoe cakes a week ago and later I discovered some small worms in the remainder of the meal. Would the heat of cooking kill them or are we in danger?

REPLY.

THE MEMORIAL DAY RIOT.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—Your editorial "The Garbled Riot Report" is very timely. There is much mystery in the mind of the average citizen over the new and unusual conflicts which have characterized the recent strikes. The problem surrounds the question: "Who was to blame?" The owners and nonstrikers and the police say the strikers and their pickets and sympathizers should be blamed; the latter accuse the former. Go higher, and you find the same conflict of opinion. The senate committee, in a long and remarkable report, blames the police and the workers and the property interests, which the police sought [as a primary police function] to protect. The police report and the local investigations, in turn, blame the strikers, pickets and sympathizers.

Now, cannot some semblance, at least, of reasonable explanation be evolved from this mass of opposing thought? The purpose of this letter is to answer that question affirmatively and to point to that answer. It can be found in a recent Sunday's CHICAGO TRIBUNE Graphic section. Subject: "Russia Has Become a Land of Terror Again," by Clifford Raymond. Leon Trotzky is being questioned by Dr. Dewey's commission in Coyoacan. What was meant by Trotzky's repeated urging to "remove Stalin"? Did it mean assassination? Trotzky said "No." Then would "removal" be done violently? Here is Trotzky's answer: "Not unless the resistance was such that the workers were forced to apply customary methods of liquidating opponents."

Now that answer should be written high and wide in the panorama of today's industrial strife. The radical C. I. O. agents [instructed in the methods of Red Russia] found that "the resistance was such that they were forced to apply customary methods of liquidating opponents." They tried this Russian system of assassination in Chicago. The police said "No," and all America says "No." H. JAY.

THE FIRE FIGHTERS' SHOW.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—Many thousands saw the fire tournament on Sept. 5 and 6. To my mind the remarkable thing about it was the almost negligible difference in time in so many of the contests, indicating that the participants had been thoroughly drilled.

The Charter Jubilee committee and, more especially, the Chicago board of underwriters are to be commended for sponsoring a show of this nature. The next time it is held more towns and cities will look forward to competing. There will be more frequent and more thorough drills with the inevitable result that a higher standard of efficiency in fire fighting and in rescues from fires will be attained. FRANK F. HYNES.

LICENSING HANDBOOKS.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—It is very commendable of Mr. Courtney to clamp down on all forms of gambling—but it seems like such a hopeless task, because people who like it are going to gamble [in the open—or behind closed doors] whether or no.

Instead of taking "drastic action" [as is done periodically about such matters] why not impose a $1,000 a year tax on all "bookies"? Some of the small fry might have to fold up, but there would be a tremendous revenue in the city treasury that would offset the strain for many a personal taxpayer.

TRAINMEN'S WAGES.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—In behalf of the thousands of railroad workers in the city of Chicago our lodge would like at this time to present to the public a picture of the wage controversy that is taking place in our city.

We realize there is great misunderstanding by the public of our demands for an increase in salary. The railroads present their picture in the nature of photostatic copies of large checks paid to railroad men.

Please understand, Mr. and Mrs. Public, that our daily pay is not like that pictured by these photostatic checks that are presented to the labor board by the companies. In fact, the daily rate of the switchman or yardman that makes up the trains and switches the incoming trains is $6.62 for eight hours' work. This means a total earning for a week of six days of $39.72. Can any one say that is extreme? Compared to the cost of living we contend it is way out of line.

A road brakeman receives $5.15 per day or for every one hundred miles covered. On a division of 150 miles he receives $7.72 each way and pays his expenses away from home the same as at home. The average trainman receives about $75 to $85 for two weeks' work. The photostatic checks shown by the companies are for some special job that works fifteen hours each day, with overtime at the rate of time and one-half after the first eight hours, and if you think you could use some of this big money, just try to work fifteen hours a day for a given period of time and see if you could keep it up. We can't.

A KIND NEWSBOY.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—Three cents is usually a small matter, but not when it means a walk of seven miles or more.

Labor day I permitted my two children to go to the Field museum. They are old enough to take care of themselves and find their way around, but not old enough always to take proper care of their money; and one of them lost his carfare home. While they were much disturbed and crying about the situation a newsboy learned of their predicament and gave them the necessary three cents. This may have been a serious sacrifice to him, although I hope not. At any rate, I hope he sees this and knows that we all appreciate his kindness.

PURCHASE DEPOSIT.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a food shop and a party made a deposit to hold the business and later found he could not secure the balance of the money to complete the sale. Am I compelled to return the deposit? E. J.

As we understand it, the purpose of the deposit is to protect you against loss due to the purchaser's changing his mind. We see no reason why this purpose should not be given full effect, but if there is a surplus above the damage you sustain by the other party's breach of contract, you would be obliged to return such surplus.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY ANITA LEE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—England's "old guard" thought it scored a point when former King Edward VIII. was shorn of all the traditionally royal titles, such as duke of Cornwall, at the time of his abdication. Now it is apparent that the former king and his family put one over on his opponents with the title of duke of Windsor.

Though all the British royal family—including King George VI., Queen Elizabeth, and Queen Mother Mary—are Windsors, he alone, with his American born bride for whom he gave up the throne, bears the family name as a title. The others rarely use it.

Edward is doubly a Windsor. To those outside England his two youngest brothers' titles may or may not proclaim their royal blood. But all know the name of Windsor, and Edward alone has no other name or title.

Any of a number of titles would have been appropriate for him when he left the throne. He liked duke of Cornwall best. He already bore it and wanted to keep it. Duke of Lancaster is another "royal" title that is not usually listed after the name of the sovereign, but has long been vested in the royal family.

These and other such titles, however, sounded too royal to Edward's foes. They were afraid that any of them would serve as a constant reminder of his past position. They wanted to make his severance from the throne as complete as possible, to make his voluntary exile as near disgrace as they could and to take away every possible attribute of royalty.

Edward could not be denied the title Prince Edward of Windsor because of his royal birth. By the wish and act of his brother, King George VI., he was given the specially created title of duke of Windsor and his bitterest enemy could not give a valid reason for opposing it. It had never been used as a royal title, and in assuming the title of duke Edward gave up the "prince" that was more obviously royal.

What Edward's opponents forgot was that all the world would recognize Edward's royalty by his new title. Duke of Cornwall or duke of Lancaster might have been just another title to many of the world's inhabitants—though there is little chance any title would make them forget who he was. To most of the world the royal connotation of the title itself, however, would not exist.

So Edward not only remained a Windsor, the only one of the family to use the name in daily life, but he was able to bestow on his bride a title that showed much more clearly than the "royal highness" that was refused her just how closely she was connected with Britain's ruling house.

SEIZE PROMOTER CLAIMING TO SELL PRESS IMMUNITY

Joseph Gormley.

Representations that he had a contract with 1,500 newspapers which would stop unfavorable publicity for his clients resulted in the arrest yesterday of Joseph Gormley, who said he formerly was a collector for the Democratic national committee in California. He gave his address as 745 South Normandie street, Los Angeles.

Gormley was seized in the office of Colin L. Campbell, one of the heirs and managers of the Leiter estate, at 21 East Van Buren street, after he had accepted $100 in marked currency as payment for what he described as a publicity service.

Statements Found False.

Using the name George Whitney, Gormley called on Campbell on Wednesday and offered to sell him the service of the National Press bureau, Woodward building, Washington, D. C. He said Thomas Leiter, a cousin of Campbell, had subscribed for the service in Washington.

When a telephone call proved this statement false Campbell notified police, who suggested using the marked currency to trap the salesman. Sergts. Joseph Keating and Samuel Block of the confidence game detail hid themselves in Campbell's office and made the arrest.

At the detective bureau Gormley admitted the National Press bureau had been out of business for three years but said he was going to start it again. In his possession were found cards with the names of many prominent Chicagoans, some with notations concerning the person's relationships and business connections.

Some of the Names Listed.

Among the names were Bror Dahlberg, Gordon McCormick, Harold F. McCormick, S. Prentice Porter, George M. Pullman Lowden, Albert F. Madlener Jr., Joel Thorne, Cornelius Crane, Clifford D. Caldwell, and Stephen Hammond.

Also found in Gormley's possession was a letter on stationery of the United States senate committee on appropriations, signed by Senator W. G. McAdoo and addressed to W. Forbes Morgan, treasurer of the Democratic national committee. The letter said:

"Dear Forbes: Your letter of the 25th regarding sale of campaign books by J. B. Gallagher & Co. duly received. I shall be glad to coöperate in any way in my power. If there are any particular people who Gallagher & Co. want to reach, you might suggest he write to Clifford C. Anglin, chairman, Democratic state central committee, Sharon building, San Francisco."

SEE HAMILTON SURE TO RETAIN HIS G. O. P. POST

Friends of Kansan Point to His Work.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The efforts of dissatisfied elements in the Republican party to depose John D. M. Hamilton, national chairman, will not be successful when the national committee meets in Chicago early next month, in the opinion of other Republicans. They say the question of ousting Hamilton might not even be pressed at the next meeting of the national committee. The date for the meeting has not been determined, but will follow soon after a meeting of the national executive committee in Washington on Sept. 23.

Friends of the red-headed Kansan, who is 45 years old, said he had quietly canvassed the members of the national committee and had been assured that the ouster movement would get nowhere.

Lead Anti-Hamilton Drive.

Ever since the 1936 election, when the campaign of former Gov. Alf Landon, managed by Hamilton, resulted in the carrying of only two states, there have been demands for a new national chairman. Senator William E. Borah of Idaho and Representative Hamilton Fish of New York have been in the forefront of this anti-Hamilton movement, which also includes some of the younger Republicans of the east. In the latter classification are Senators Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of Massachusetts and H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire.

West Supports Hamilton.

Hamilton's opponents charge that he has been too closely associated with the conservative interests of the east, whose outstanding representative on the national committee is Charles Hilles of New York City. Hamilton's popularity, however, is not confined to the east.

The regular Republicans of the west support him because they want to retain control of the party machine, which they gained through the nomination of Mr. Landon. In 1934, when Mr. Hamilton was a candidate for the national chairmanship against Henry P. Fletcher, who was elected, he received 25 votes, mostly from the west and middle west.

DANCES INTO NEWS

DOLORES CAMEN.

The arts of dancing and publicity go hand in hand. Yesterday Miss Dolores Camen, 22 years old, of 616 Rush street, filed suit in the Circuit court yesterday to enjoin Miss Jean Cook, a dancer, from performing a peacock dance at the Gayety Village, 4035 Fullerton avenue. Then she went out and had some pictures taken. The suit, filed by Attorney Michael F. Zlatnik, alleges that Miss Camen created the dance and has a more beautiful figure and more supple muscles for the semi-nude dance than Miss Cook.

DOUBT INDIANA MARRIAGE LEGAL; WILL WED AGAIN

Although married thirteen days ago at Crown Point, Miss Kate Lackenbach, 30 years old, 1217 North Western avenue, and Abe Sleyman, 705 South Genesee street, Waukegan, will be remarried Monday at his home to insure the legality of their wedding.

Three hundred guests had assembled at Sleyman's for the wedding Aug. 28, when he remembered that he and Miss Lackenbach had failed to file the required three day notice of intention to wed although each had the necessary health certificate. So they went to Crown Point, spent $13.50 for an after hour marriage, and returned for the wedding party.

Yesterday they took out a new Illinois license at Waukegan as an insurance against possible illegality of the Indiana wedding.

ATTRIBUTES LACK OF NEEDED LAWS TO ROOSEVELT

Indianan Tells Delay by Court Scheme.

Winamac, Ind., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The session of congress just closed was characterized as a do-nothing congress by Representative Charles A. Halleck of the 2d Indiana district, addressing a district meeting of Republican county chairmen, vice chairmen, and editors here today.

According to Halleck, the President's message of Feb. 5, which demanded packing of the Supreme court, entirely stymied the congress for over five months and served to keep the country in such suspense as to definitly retard economic recovery.

He declared that if the President had not insisted upon passage of his court packing proposal the congress would have had opportunity to consider a number of worth-while measures, including a sound and workable farm program, labor legislation, and amendments to the social security act and the corporate surplus tax. "About all that the last congress did was to keep the country scared to death about what it might do," Halleck said.

Turning to more recent political developments, Halleck declared: "Gov. Townsend has pleaded the New Deal guilty to the worst charge that has been made against it. He won't have anyone in congress who isn't a rubber stamp."

Halleck was referring to Townsend's announced intention of bringing about the defeat of Senator Frederick Van Nuys, who was one of the opponents of the court packing scheme.

Tells Democratic Aims.

"It cannot be possible that the great Hoosier commonwealth wants that sort of representation," Halleck said. "If all that the people of Indiana want in congress are parrots in cages, to speak only the master's voice, they certainly will have just that if the state house Democratic machine has its way.

"And that machine probably will have its way so far as Democratic nominations are concerned, because the politicians, rather than the people, will dominate the Democratic state convention."

WHAT MAKES SELLING REAL ESTATE DIFFERENT?

Setting up shop on a busy street will start some sales but the stores that do the business are the ones that go after the customer with advertising

You can't put real estate behind plate glass but you can go after the prospect.

Right now there are hundreds of families who want new homes and are reading the offers in the Chicago Tribune want ad section.

When will you give them the opportunity to start reading yours?

Low cost Tribune want ads can bring more prospects than want ads in any other Chicago newspaper. In metropolitan Chicago, over 53% more families read the Tribune than read any other Chicago newspaper.

More prospects for homes are attracted to the Tribune want ad columns because today, as for more than twenty years, the Tribune prints more real estate for sale want advertising than any other Chicago newspaper.

2 TRYING HOURS AT U TURN—THEN A POLITE DRIVER!

Torrent of Abuse Greets Safety Scout.

BY HAL FOUST.

A sign facing north bound trafic on the upper level of North Michigan avenue at Grand avenue reads "U turn permitted here." And a white line has been painted on the pavement to guide motorists in such a maneuver.

Fred L. Cotter.

But try to make it with south bound trafic passing. The driver doing the U turn is treated by his fellow motorists as though he is a law breaker. He must either wait until there is a gap in the trafic, regardless of how protracted this wait may become, or he must plunge in front of oncoming cars accepting the risk and accepting frowns if not curses from drivers imagining that they have been delayed a few seconds.

Many Fail Severe Test.

So it was indeed a severe test of the public's motoring manners for THE TRIBUNE roadster to make repeated U turns around this safety island yesterday in search of an appropriate recipient of this newspaper's daily $5 award for polite driving. One such driver was found but it was only after hundreds of others had been guilty of rudeness.

The first U turn was attempted about 11 a. m. The courtesy scout car stood part way around the island while a string of machines a block and a half long went by without one driver waiving the right of way as all would have done afoot in pedestrian trafic.

After this performance had been repeated for half an hour, the front bumper of THE TRIBUNE roadster was projected a foot or two into a lane of south bound trafic as a somewhat threatening invitation for some one to pause a moment. "Either stop for me or else," was the implication.

Abuse for Safety Scout.

South bound trafic on the inner lane accepted the challenge. One car after another squeezed ahead of the turning machine. One driver shouted, "Where do you think you're going?" Two others blew angry blasts on their horns. Several muttered belligerently.

During two hours of observation, three passenger car drivers after receiving this abuse from south bound trafic for a minute or so gave up and continued north, possibly preferring to go around the block. This alternate maneuver involves driving two blocks north, one block east, one block south, one block west and another block south, six blocks of driving in heavy trafic with three right turns and one left turn. Crossing of ten pedestrian cross walks is involved.

U Turn Legal Maneuver.

After considering the alternative, it is evident that the U turn is not only legal, but reasonable. It is an awkward maneuver on busy pavements, but it is causing the public less inconvenience than to drive around the block.

But south bound trafic seems to be in a constant protest against the regulation. Private cars aren't given any leeway for the turn. They wait, and wait, and wait, for a gap in the opposing stream of automobiles. Hard boiled taxicab chauffeurs don't wait. They buck through the trafic to force others to use brakes.

After two hours of this survey, the driver of a small south bound sedan in the lane next to the center line noticed that a passenger car and a taxicab ahead were evidently having trouble in trying to make a U turn. He stuck out his left hand and applied his brakes. The two cars made the turn in front of him. He wasn't discommoded because he could catch up with his column of trafic within a block.

This courteous driver was Fred L. Cotter, 60 years old, 6245 Kimbark avenue, a salesman, who has been using his automobile in his business for 25 years. He has had no accidents and has received but one trafic ticket, on a charge of overlooking a red light. He won THE TRIBUNE's daily $5 prize for politeness in trafic.

Unidentified Woman Killed.

An unidentified woman about 55 years old was fatally injured last night by an automobile at Madison street and 5th avenue, Maywood. She died soon after being taken to Oak Park hospital. Mrs. Alma Vogel, 28 years old, 1716 South 2d avenue, Maywood, driver of the car, said the woman walked into the street against a trafic light.

Thomas Niemsky, 4016 Butterfield road, Bellwood, a mail carrier, died yesterday in the Spanish American hospital of injuries incurred Tuesday morning when he ran against the side of an automobile driven by Mrs. Harriet Brodd, 826 North Lockwood avenue. The accident occurred at North Central and Grand avenues.

At the same time Peter Sefcik, a former convict, was ordered held under $5,000 bond on a manslaughter charge by Justice of the Peace Milliam Meade in Joliet.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 717 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 553 were killed in Chicago, where 15,522 were injured in the same period.

QUIZ LOITERER AT NURSES' HOME ABOUT ATTACKS

Thomas Winston, 39 years old, colored, was seized last night in an areaway near the nurses' home of the John B. Murphy hospital, 620 Belmont avenue.

Nurses and others who saw him loitering there called Town Hall police and Policemen Adam Strauss, Clarence Sweeney, and John Langdowski nabbed him. According to police, Winston feigned drunkenness. They will investigate two home addresses he gave and question him about various attack cases at nurses' homes and hospitals, including the murder Aug. 21 of Miss Anna Kuchta at the Chicago hospital.

HORNER DEMANDS MORE VIGOROUS RULE OF TRAFIC

State Police Told "Fix" Must Be Stopped.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner addressed a meeting of state police here this afternoon calling for a more vigorous enforcement of trafic regulations to curb a growing toll of motor fatalities.

"There must be no pull or politics or 'drag' about enforcement," he said. "There will be no 'fixing' tolerated in any way. Any officer who participates in a 'fix' cannot work for Illinois in any capacity as long as I am governor. Any officer who refuses to participate in a 'fix' will have my personal support."

Explains Lewis Law.

The governor told the police about a bureau being created for a more efficient administration of the Lewis law. This law, enacted by the legislature this year, permits judges to forbid convicted motorists from operating an automobile for periods not greater than one year.

A central bureau at Springfield has supplied justices of peace and police magistrates throughout the state with a form for reporting these driving prohibitions. The bureau will distribute this information to police departments for enforcement of the prohibition. In Chicago there have been more than 200 such convictions while the bureau has received reports of 48 cases from downstate.

Still Wants Drivers' License.

"While not as effective as a drivers' license," Mr. Horner concluded, "it is hoped that this Lewis act will aid somewhat in reducing the slaughter on the highways. We'll continue, in the meantime, our efforts to enact a drivers' license."

The governor is expected to include a drivers' license bill in a call for a special session of the legislature this fall. The bill was defeated at the regular session this year by a Democratic faction fight—Horner vs. Mayor Kelly and P. A. Nash—for the patronage that enactment would have created.

FEARED INSANITY; HANGS SELF.

RADIO REPORTER RELAYS TIDBITS FROM THE CUFF

What's Doing Among Big Names of Air Waves.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Cuff notes:

The Bureau of Missing Persons, through which 114 persons, some lost for more than 20 years, have been found the past year, has been renewed by its sponsor for another 52 weeks on WJJD. . . . Bernardine Flynn, Sade of Vic and Sade, who is the wife of Dr. C. C. Doherty, Chicago obstetrician, is the mother of a seven pound son born Wednesday night in Passavant hospital. A few hours before the baby was born she appeared as usual on her NBC serial. Vic and Rush will carry on alone now for several weeks. . . . Bess Flynn gave a party the other evening for the casts of her Mutual shows, We Are Four and Bachelor's Children, which had just rounded out two years on the air. . . . There are persistent reports that the Fibber McGee show will move to Hollywood permanently. Jim and Marion Jordan [the McGees] are said to be about ready to accept further movie engagements.

Newest tieup in radio circles is that of the Voice of Experience and Lydia E. Pinkham. The "Voice" starts a new series with Lydia as sponsor over WJJD and other stations Monday. . . . WCFL is dropping sponsored church broadcasts and foreign language programs. . . . Ed Cerny has been upped to head librarian at NBC succeeding Don Marcotte, resigned. . . . Freddie Fischer's Schnickelfritz band of Minneapolis which has been getting big ballyhoo in magazines lately will do its first coast to coast airing at 9 p. m. Saturday on NBC Jamboree. . . . Ray Johnson, head man of The Guiding Light, and Betty Caine of A Tale of Today, have admitted their engagement.

Bruce Kamman rounds out six years as Prof. Kaltenmyer on Sept. 25. The professor will be a guest on the National Barn Dance tomorrow evening. . . . The famed Wheatland plowing contest near Plainfield, Ill., is to be described over WLS in three instalments at 9:30 a. m., 1:45 p. m., and 2:15 p. m. tomorrow by John Baker. . . . Helen Gahagan's attack of flu has halted rehersals and transcription work on her new show, Love for a Day. . . . Hal Kemp and Alice Fay have had their contracts renewed until the first of the year. . . . Charlie McCarthy falls in love with Bette Davis Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. She will be a guest on his Hollywood show.

Marion Talley has a new fifty-two week contract tucked under her arm which calls for weekly warbling on NBC starting Sept. 26. . . . One hears a lot of cheering these days for Ransom Sherman's witticisms on Club Matinée. . . . Three courses in various aspects of broadcasting will be available at Northwestern university this fall. Richard Marvin, head of the radio department of J. Walter Thompson agency, will handle two of these, and Albert Crews of the school of speech the other one. . . . Kitty Carlisle heads the talent lineup on the new Song Shop program bowing in over WBBM-CBS at 9 o'clock tonight.

Dr. Dafoe resumes his chroniclings of the doings of the Dionnes on CBS Oct. 4. . . . Dr. Louis Mann's Yom Kippur address on Kol Nidre night next Tuesday is to be aired at 9 p. m. over WIND. Next day his address at Sinai temple will be aired at 11:30 a. m. on the same station. . . . Herbie Kay has introduced the Big Apple dance to the west coast from the Catalina casino.

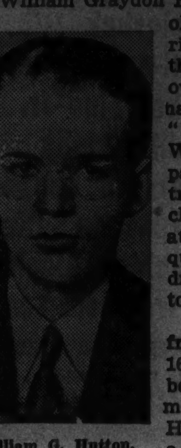
LETTERS COME, BUT TOO LATE TO SAVE A LIFE



William G. Hutton.

Two days too late to save the life of William Graydon Hutton, 20 years old, letters arrived to answer the questions over which he had been brooding "Who am I? Who are my parents?" The tragedy was disclosed yesterday at a coroner's inquest into the drowning of Hutton in the lake.

He disappeared from his room at 1650 Jackson boulevard in the middle of August. His body was recovered near Montrose avenue on Aug. 28 and lay unidentified in the county morgue until last Tuesday. Then it was identified by his landlord, John Lanocho.

Two days after Hutton disappeared, Lanocho told the coroner's jury, letters arrived from a woman in Harrisonburg, Va., which indicated that she was not Hutton's sister, as he had supposed, but his mother. His father was a British army officer who returned to England before Hutton was born, they revealed. Police have returned the letters to the woman.

EDWARD HEALY, POLICEMAN, DIES; CITED FIVE TIMES

Policeman Edward R. Healy, 35 years old, 5615 North Spaulding avenue, who was attached to the Hudson avenue station, died yesterday in the Swedish Covenant hospital, after an appendectomy. Policeman Healy was the son of Capt. Stephen K. Healy, who died nine years ago when he was in charge of the Racine avenue station. In 1923 Policeman Healy shot and seriously wounded James John, a paroled convict, when the latter resisted arrest. Policeman Healy earned five creditable mentions on his police department record.

Surviving are his widow, Esther; five children, his mother, Mrs. Mary Healy, and four sisters and a brother. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning in Our Lady of Mercy church. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morganthau Jr. and Postmaster General James A. Farley today announced the selection and approval of 319 public building projects to be paid for out of the 70 million dollar emergency construction fund authorized under the third deficiency act approved August 25.

All authorized funds have been allocated, which includes not only the allotments necessary for new projects, but also the amount reserved for 40 projects where construction is contemplated but where selection or character of the project are not yet determined, and reservations for 24 projects in areas which at present have no postoffices with receipts in excess of the minimum requirement of $10,000 per annum.

185 Million Okayed Previously.

This authorization of 70 millions supplements appropriations of 65 millions under the act of June 19, 1934, 60 millions under the act of Aug. 12, 1935, and 60 millions under the act of June 22, 1936, which provided funds for similar purposes. The building program contemplated by the 70 million dollar authorization will extend over a period of three years, but the secretary of the treasury is authorized to enter into contracts for any or all of the projects selected under this program, the maximum obligations for the current fiscal year, however, being limited to 30 millions.

Work on the projects selected under the new program will go forward immediately. Where land is required the treasury department will issue advertisements soliciting offers of property and proceed with the drawings and specifications for the projects in the order in which properties are selected.

Projects in This Area.

The projects approved and the work to be done on each in Illinois are as follows:

HINSDALE—Postoffice, site and building.

NEW DESTROYERS FOR U. S. NAVY TO BE STREAMLINED

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The nation's newest destroyers, it was learned today, are to be streamlined—the first instance in our navy of the application of such principles to fighting ships.

There will be no radical fairing of hull lines or superstructure to present the flowing lines of speed of the Ile de France, but the forecastle decks—which will have a slight camber—will be rounded at the edges something like a modified whaleback, and the bridge structure will be symmetrically curved to reduce wind resistance.

The ships to which these new principles will be applied are the twelve destroyers of the 1936-'37 program, it was understood.

DELINQUENCY CHARGE DISMISSED.

Charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor against Walter Gorski, 35 years old, 1720 North Honore street, were dismissed by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in domestic relations court yesterday.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c

Crystal Mowry and Annette Gipson.

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Annette Gipson and Crystal Mowry of Miami were resting in their hotels today after wrecking their planes in landing four minutes apart at Roosevelt field the previous evening on their return from the Cleveland air races. Both planes were owned by Miss Gipson. Field officials said the pilots misjudged distance and hit the lighted ground at high speed. Nobody was injured.

Two Flee Pontiac Honor Farm; One a Chicagoan

Two young convicts, one a Chicagoan, escaped yesterday from the honor farm at Pontiac reformatory. They are Dean Roberts, 18 years old, and John Scroggins, also 18. Roberts, leader of a band of schoolboy thieves in Chicago, was sentenced to prison for a term of one to twenty years in April, 1936, for robbery. He was due for release in eight months. Scroggins was sentenced from West Frankfort to from one year to life for burglary.

ARMY HOLDS ITS 4 LITTLE WARS IN WEST, A SUCCESS

Streamlined Division Voted Better.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The war department today pronounced the recent war maneuvers held in the west a distinct success.

Maj. Gen. George S. Simmons declared the maneuvers were the "most realistic ever held in the west." He declared valuable lessons were learned.

Some of Conclusions.

The general conclusions, gleaned by observers who were primarily interested in the problems developed by the mechanized units, were:

The increased mobility of his forces makes it imperative that a commanding officer have more accurate and complete information about the theater of operations and the enemy's movements. Communication must be developed so that the commanding officer instantly can transmit orders to all his units.

At present the increase in mobility has not been balanced by progress in means of communication. Field radios, telephones, and motorcycle messengers have not yet reached an efficiency which will give a mechanized army the superior facilities it demands.

Hold New Division Better.

The maneuvers indicated that the army's new streamlined division of 12,000 men in compact units is a better fighting weapon than the old division of 20,000 men. However, tests were not complete. A separate thorough test of the division is to be made in Texas during the month.

The National Guard units, officers said, acquitted themselves creditably in view of the fact that the divisions involved were brought together for the first time since the world war.

Trafic control, in view of the greater stress on the machine, was found to present a serious problem. Staf officers were found to be better equipped as a result of increased study at staf schools.

Find Bodies of 2 Flyers in Lake; Third Is Sought

POINT PELEE, Ont., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The bodies of two of three Detroit flyers lost when their plane crashed into Lake Erie were found this afternoon by Canadian coast guardsmen. Searchers found the bodies of Harry Corley and James Munro, and continued dragging for that of Jerome Tessens.

Find Last of Bad Young Bandits Hiding in a Barrel

Stanley Toronto, 15 years old, was found yesterday by Chicago Lawn police hiding in a barrel in the basement of his home at 5711 West 64th place. He was one of the youthful bandits who stole an automobile early Wednesday morning and then robbed a gasoline station at 55th street and Harlem avenue. His two companions, John Daukas of 5746 West 64th place, and Alex Slobodzian of 5810 West 64th place, were captured by county highway police after a chase in Harlem avenue from 55th to 112th street.

LIKE THE WINNERS in a three-legged race, gin and Vermouth in a Martini cocktail must keep together in perfect harmony. There should be no heavy gin smell or gin taste in the finished drink.

Mixed drinks are an American idea. To meet the American taste for smooth mixed drinks, Fleischmann's Gin is distilled especially for mixing—from American grain.

Fleischmann's is the original American gin, established 1870. Our secret formula makes it the real American Mixer. Buy a bottle. And when you order a Martini, say: "Make it with Fleischmann's." (Copr., 1937, by The Fleischmann Distilling Corporation, Peekskill, N. Y.)

Today, with well dressed English sportsmen, it is an established article of country wear, and last spring it put in an appearance at Yale and Princeton. The Trend, $5—A two dimensional brim for wider brim fans who can't wear them; 2⅛ brim in front, 2⅜ brim in rear.

The Madison St., $5—The 2⅜ inch bound edge brim will be liked best by young men who like the snap of a wide brim to properly set off a large face.

Imported Tissue Foulards in patterns and colorings of our own design, $1.50.

TRANSFER SETUP IS TRANSIT FLAW IN PHILADELPHIA

Fares Also Vary with Route and Service.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Philadelphia has accomplished one of the transit goals toward which Chicago is working—that of operating all transit facilities under one management. It has not, however, put into effect the logical aim of unified management—a simple system of universal transfers.

Although Philadelphia has spent 160 million dollars subsidizing rapid transit and although taxpayers are called on to pay three-quarters of the carrying charges of this debt, it has not, according to transit experts, accomplished the coördination of services which such a big public expenditure should have assured.

Either the city has overbuilt its subway requirements or has failed to wor kout the coördination of surface and rapid transit lines which it should. The experts say there is a combination of the two.

Routes Are Duplicated.

Despite the downtown subways street cars still operate on practically all of the streets in the central business district. Twenty one-way street car lines operate north and south paralleling the city-built Broad street subway through the two mile wide down town business district. Yet the Broad street subway, costing 111 million dollars, is used only to one-sixth of its capacity.

The fare and transfer system is confusing. The fare for a transfer passenger may be 7½ cents, 8 cents, 10 cents, 10½ cents, 11 cents, 13 cents, or even a double 10 cent fare.

Street car and rapid transit riders pay an 8 cent cash fare, with the privilege of buying two tokens for 15 cents. They are given free transfers outside the central business district, but must pay an additional 3 cents to transfer in that zone.

Bus Fares Also Vary.

Bus riders have to pay a 10 cent fare except on lines which have been substituted for street car operations, in which case the fare is the same as on rail vehicles. Bus passengers may transfer free to rail lines outside the central business district, but inside the district a 3 cent charge is made. When a bus rider transfers to an intersecting bus line he must pay an extra 3 cents if the second line is in competition with a rapid transit line. Transfers between bus lines are not permitted in the central business district.

The Philadelphia Rapid Transit company [P. R. T.], which operates all transit facilities here, also operates outside the city limits. In the suburbs a 5 cent zone fare is charged. In some cases the rider is charged 23 cents to ride from the city to a suburb.

60 Companies Own Properties.

Although the P. R. T. operates all transit services, there are more than 60 companies which own the properties. The city and the company are working toward reorganization of the corporate structure of the P. R. T. and merger of all underlying companies. In some respects the situation is like that in Chicago, with the city trying to force a cut in the claimed value of the properties.

The city claims that much of the equipment is obsolete and that all of the property cannot be considered useful. Opposing a valuation cut are the so-called underliers—the owners of securities of the companies which lease their properties to the P. R. T. The operating company has failed to earn enough in recent years to meet charges on its leases.

Eleanor Davidson, 20 years old, one of three runaway girls from Beacon, N. Y., who were taken by state highway police from an interstate truck in Harvey, said yesterday in a cell in the detective bureau that she would be delighted to return home and marry her Yonkers, N. Y., sweetheart. Bertha Komisar, 19 years old, in another cell, said she didn't care what became of her. Julia Veneziale, 16 years old, the third girl who was taken to the juvenile home, said she wanted to go home at once.

BANDITS BIND BANKER AND HIS WIFE; GET $2,000

Muncie, Ind., Sept. 9. —Special].—Oliver W. Storer, wealthy business man, and his wife, and a woman employé were held up in the Storer home today by two bandits who bound them with tape and ropes and fled with $2,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Storer were kept bound for nearly two hours while they sat under the muzzles of the bandits' guns waiting until Storer's offices opened. Then he was forced to telephone his cashier, Miss Techla Haffner, to bring the money to his home.

During the long wait the robbers, who appeared to know Storer and Miss Haffner, reviled the business man for "wrecking our families by extortionate loans" and allegedly causing the death of one of the gunman's relatives.

Storer is president of the Muncie Baking company and the Eaton [Ind.] State bank and has operated a chattel loan company here for 30 years. He is reputed to be a millionaire.

SCIENCE TESTS STORY OF MOTHERHOOD IN RAPE-KILLING CASE

New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Laboratory tests were made today to determine whether unmarried Margaret Drennan, 20 years old, is to become a mother.

Margaret Drennan.

A positive verdict would strengthen her story that she killed her married lover, Paul Reeves, 25 years old, a copper plant worker, because he lured her to his home under pretext of talking over her predicament and then forcibly renewed their intimacies.

A negative report would help the state's charge she deliberately armed herself and went to Reeve's home intending to kill him.

The county prosecutor's office added today that she revealed Reeves had completed his assault on her the night of the killing and she had identified the pistol found in a bureau drawer at her home as the one with which "I shot and killed Reeves." She said she scratched her initials, "M. D.," on it for its identification.

21 Killed, 126 Injured in 707 U.S. Railway Accidents

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission reported today 21 persons were killed and 126 injured in 707 train accidents during May. Those figures compared with 10 killed and 85 injured in 555 train accidents in May, 1936.

'TIS MYSTIC VOICE IN BLONDE'S EAR GAMBLER FEARS

BIARRITZ, France, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Amleto Battisti of Uruguay, who came to win $1,000,000 at baccarat and remained to play "in the red," announced today the offer of a new $500,000 stake from one Argentinan, but he had the prospect of a Nemesis in another—a cool, blonde señora. Battisti said he probably had lost about $300,000 on the "system" he hopes will regain the $1,000,000 he lost in 1929.

Ash blonde Senora Peresha Cortina Solzetra of Argentina, who shuns "systems" and claims to be a novice, said "voices" directed her playing which kept croupiers busy handling her heavy winnings.

Battisti admitted the blonde player, granddaughter of an Englishman, worried him. He said he was receiving many telephone calls and cables of sympathy from Havana and South America.

Senora Solzetra promised her winnings for charity, and continued to follow the "voices." "A voice told me to go to the casino and play," she explained. "When I play I don't seem to be alive. The cards I receive seem to be dropped into my hands."

Tax Appeals Board Hears Valuation Complaints Only

Emmett Whealan and Paul Drymalski, members of the board of tax appeals, advised taxpayers yesterday that the board has jurisdiction only over those bills which are higher because of a larger assessed valuation and not because of the increased tax rate. They pointed out that the 1936 assessed valuations are practically the same as 1935, but that the tax rate, over which the board has no control, increased from $8.37 for each $100 assessed valuation to $9.52. The board is hearing 13,863 complaints.

Bucket Shop Operator Taken to Federal Prison

Leonard Rollnick, 39 years old, a former Chicago and New York broker, was taken from the Cook county jail last night on a St. Paul railroad train to Leavenworth penitentiary to begin a sentence of three and a half years for using the mails in bucket shop operations. Rollnick, who flew here Wednesday from New York to surrender, was accompanied by two other prisoners and two United States deputy marshals.

SYNOPSIS.

Bessie Mersand, a nurse, is acquitted of the charge of administering a fatal dose of medinal to an elderly patient. After the trial, as Bessie Mathews, she is given a job by Gwynneth Bentley, caring for Gwynneth's invalid husband. Gwynneth plans to kill her husband and plant the blame on Bessie so that she can marry her lover, Roy Gleason. Medinal tablets are placed in Bessie's charge. Gwynneth hides a valuable jeweled dagger, then puts the ground medinal tablets in her husband's food. She then gives Bessie the day off and sends away Bessie's luggage to make it appear that Bessie had fled. In London Bessie meets her friend, Jim Watkin, who has learned of the crime. He hides Bessie in his apartment. To his friend, Inspector Rason, Jim introduces Bessie as his sister. Jim gets Roy Gleason to admit that he and Gwynneth attended Bessie's trial. A telegram which Bessie had sent to Jim arouses Rason's suspicions. Rason gives Jim a chance to let Bessie get away for a head start in the chase. Hiding Bessie in a caravan, Jim visits Gwynneth for clews. A trowel in her hand gives him a hunch that the dagger is buried in the garden. He warns her the garden will be dug up, then sets a private detective to watch. Gwynneth shrewdly sees through his plan. She trails him to Bessie.

INSTALMENT XXIX.
LOVE DESTROYED.

And so they played, rather desperately, the game of being an ordinary engaged couple spending a happy evening together. At times there would fall a silence in which the shadow of fear hung over them. Then they would brighten up and strive to beat off the demon with a joke.

The summer evening faded into dusk. Electric fairy lights sprang up in the trees and were reflected in the bathing pool. It was absurd and artificial, but it was also pretty and care banishing.

When they returned to the caravan their bodies were pleasantly tired. Each slept, untroubled by any premonition that the caravan had become a trap that had already shut on them.

Gwynneth Bentley had kept her eyes on the binoculars until she had actually seen Bessie come out of the caravan.

Then, with the smile of a cat who has located a mouse, she put them down—to find Roy Gleason regarding her with a curious expression.

"Is the girl there?" he asked.

He had returned to the car and was sitting bolt upright, one elbow on the steering gear, turned towards her.

"Yes. I knew she must be. But I wanted to make sure. You've been marvelous, dear! I don't know what I should have done without your help."

She was constantly driven now to placating him with little speeches like that, where formerly she had been an imperious lover.

"What do you propose to do about it?"

She winced, for his tone made all too painfully clear the extent to which she had lost power over him. It was he now who had power over her through her dread of losing him altogether.

"I don't know," she answered carefully. "I shall have to think."

He made no answer. She waited for a lead from him but none came. Presently he restarted the engine and drove back through the town.

They were halfway to Suddington when he stopped on a quiet stretch of road.

"You're not going to put the police on to that girl?" he challenged.

She knew that he was definitely out of hand—but there was a point beyond which she could not be bullied, even by this man for whom her own love enslaved her.

"Why not?"

"Because we both know she's innocent."

His voice was utterly uncompromising.

"You seem to forget that—we—are in a very dangerous position."

"I haven't forgotten who put us there."

Rage welled up in her—rage against Jim Watkin. It was he who had definitely roused Roy's suspicions. But for Watkin Roy would have gone on believing that Bessie Mersand was a homicidal maniac.

She knew that she must control her anger, for this was no time for an open quarrel—apart from the fact that she could not bear the idea of quarreling with him. She took refuge in a show of weakness.

"You're very hard," she whimpered. "Whatever I did, I did for your sake—for the sake of our love. O, Roy ——"

"For heaven's sake don't cry!" he cut in. "I believe you."

"Then don't be so unkind to me!" She was driven to pleading for his consideration, and despised herself even as she did it. "Sometimes you speak to me as if you hated me—and then I feel I shall go mad."

"Of course I don't hate you! But there are limits. I won't go to the extent of landing an innocent woman in the dock."

In a flash Gwynneth saw the line she would take.

"Very well, dear—you know best!" she said softly, leaving him surprised at her quick surrender. Instantly she pressed her advantage.

"Every time you tell yourself what a wicked woman I am, Roy—just remember that Alfred was a hopeless invalid. His life was a burden to himself as well as to others. He longed for death but hadn't the courage to end his own life. Time and again he practically begged me to do it for him. And there are quite a lot of doctors who think they ought to be allowed to kill people who are hopeless sufferers and want to die."

Gleason shifted uneasily.

"I must say I didn't know Bentley was as bad as that."

"You didn't know the half of what went on. And I didn't tell you. I'm not excusing myself," she added hastily. "I'm not pretending that I took that awful risk solely out of kindness to Alfred. I admit that I did not love him enough for that. But when you used to complain how horrid it was that we had to meet furtively I—perhaps I was humbug enough at the time to make myself believe I was making a noble sacrifice for Alfred's sake, when really it was just because I—I loved you so much."

Subtly she was making him feel that he shared her responsibility. He had no proof that she was grossly exaggerating Bentley's invalidity—no doubt whatever that she had been driven by her love of himself.

He turned to her again, trying to look at her impartially. Love might have gone, but the fire of passion still smouldered.

"Roy, you've come back to me!" she whispered.

He nodded slowly, himself not wholly convinced.

"It's all this sort of thing," he said wretchedly. "Dodging the police. Creeping behind a man in a car like we did today."

She understood. With him it was a question of taste and not morality. He hated doing anything which a man of his class would not normally do.

"But it's all over now!" she assured him. "There will be no need for us to do anything more of that kind. I quite agree with you that it's a pity the police suspect Bessie Mersand. But, of course, she brought a lot of it on herself by being a thief."

"A thief?" he echoed.

"Yes—if you've read the papers you must know that she stole the rajah's dagger."

"But I thought that was a washout! It wasn't found amongst her things at the station."

"That doesn't prove anything," returned Gwynneth. "She could have put it some other place and picked it up afterwards."

He was not interested, and was about to start the car again when she added:

"I shouldn't be surprised, for instance, if she had it with her in that caravan."

"Phew!" If the police were to find her with that the jury would be certain to believe that she—had done the whole thing."

"I'm afraid they would, dear—whatever I said. I mean, even if I were to get up in court and accuse myself they'd merely think I was hysterical."

He made no answer, drove her the rest of the way home to Uplands. When he had gone back to town Gwynneth strolled into the garden—to the potting shed.

She took up the trowel and concealed it under a bush near the shed, where she could easily find it.

GROCERY PRICES RISING ON FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Supplies in Nearby Truck Gardens Dwindling.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Food prices are beginning to climb higher, particularly on fruits, vegetables, and meats. Supplies in the Chicago truck gardening areas are dwindling and merchants soon will be going farther and farther for fresh crops from gardens, vineyards, and orchards. This is helping to increase prices.

There is a big peach crop in Michigan and Illinois, but peaches have been considered high up to this time. The price of peaches is expected to be reduced soon, according to merchants.

In THE TRIBUNE'S weekly food survey yesterday reporters found that price tags on the greengrocer's counter for today and tomorrow will be marked up on cabbage, carrots, green onions, cauliflower, and grapes in some stores. Shoppers may find that a canvass of stores will pay, because prices vary on fresh fruits and vegetables. Eggs already are considered high, but a few storekeepers have added another cent a dozen.

Peas and Lettuce Cost More.

In stores generally housewives will find prices advanced on green peas as much as 3 cents a pound and on head lettuce 1 to 2 cents a head. Roasting ears and green beans also are higher in shopping centers throughout the city and suburban districts. Sweet corn not only has been advanced in price but the quality is not as good as it has been during the last two or three weeks. Growers are having difficulty in picking tender ears; much of the corn is too hard for table use.

The supplies are increasing on some of the late harvested standby crops such as potatoes and squash. Most kinds of potatoes are cheaper, being 3 to 7 cents a peck lower in many cases. There is a good crop of acorn squash for baking coming on the market and prices are less than they were last week.

Prices on Wholesale Market.

The following fresh fruits and vegetables are higher than a week ago on the wholesale market: Green beans, cabbage, cantaloupes, carrots, cauliflower, celery, corn, grapes, head lettuce, Bartlett pears, and spinach. Watermelons, potatoes, and white onions are cheaper.

Most of the changes in retail meat prices have been upward since last week. Cuts of fresh beef have been affected most. Sirloin and porterhouse steaks are 3 cents a pound higher in many shops and both rib and pot roasts of beef are up 2 to 5 cents a pound in some places. Pork loin roasts and leg of lamb are higher in a few shops.

Several kinds of fish, including haddock, halibut, perch, pike, and white fish are lower than last week. Pork spare ribs, cured hams, and frying chickens are slightly cheaper in some stores.

Live Stock Prices Up.

Most live stock and wholesale meat prices went up during the week at Union stockyards. Fat steers advanced 25 to 75 cents a hundred pounds to a top price of $18.75 a hundred, a new high for the season and the second highest September price on record, according to John Campbell, federal market reporter. Wholesale cuts of beef sold strong to $1 a hundred higher.

Farmers were paid 15 to 25 cents a hundred pounds more than last week for live hogs. Wholesale pork cuts went up $1 to $2 a hundred. Live lambs dropped 25 cents a hundred, the only exception to the upward trend. Dressed lamb sold $1 a hundred higher on the wholesale market.

Bananas, apples, pineapple, oranges, cranberries, peaches, pears—almost any fruit one might name—will blend harmoniously in flavor with sweet potatoes.

Sweet potato and fruit combinations are epicurean fare for any table, and now that the fresh fruit season permits such gastronomical delights there is no reason for omitting them from the menu.

Orange Candied Sweet Potatoes.

[Serves six.]

6 medium sweet potatoes
1 cup orange juice
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
1 cup sugar
1 cup water
¼ cup butter
½ teaspoon salt

Peel and slice uncooked potatoes into a buttered baking dish. Make a sirup of the remaining ingredients and pour it over the potatoes. Cover and bake at 350 degrees until the potatoes are tender, basting occasionally and removing the cover for the last ten minutes.

Sweet Potato Puffs.

[Serves six.]

6 medium sweet potatoes
1 banana
1 egg, separated
1½ tablespoons butter
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon paprika
Sprinkling of nutmeg

Boil the potatoes, peel, and rice or mash them. Mash banana and add. Combine other ingredients and beat into the potatoes and banana, folding in the beaten egg white last. Drop the batter by spoonfuls onto a greased pan and bake in a very hot oven [500 degrees] for about 10 minutes.

MASHED SWEET POTATO WITH PEACHES.

Cook sweet potatoes in boiling slightly salted water. Mash, adding butter, a little hot milk, and seasonings. Spread in a shallow buttered baking dish and cover the top of the potatoes with thinly sliced peaches. Sprinkle a small amount of sugar over the peaches and place under medium broiler heat until they are glazed.

Sweet Potatoes with Pears and Marshmallows.

[Serves four.]

4 sweet potatoes
Salt, butter, cream
⅓ cup broken nut meats
2 fresh pears, diced
12 marshmallows, halved

Cook the potatoes in slightly salted water and mash with butter and cream. Spread half the mixture in a buttered baking dish and cover with the diced pears and half the marshmallows. Top with the rest of the mashed sweet potato and arrange remaining marshmallows over the surface. Place in a moderate oven until heated through, about 15 minutes.

Oranges, apples, bananas, and other fruit may be used in the same manner for preparing similar dishes.

Chicagoans on Expedition to Wilds of Coahuila

Tappan Gregory and Robert S. Sturgis of the Chicago Academy of Sciences, and Dr. William H. Hazlett departed yesterday to join an expedition to Coahuila, Mexico, where they will penetrate a wild, mountainous territory by mule, making photographs of wild animals. Sturgis also hopes to bring back rare reptiles to the academy. The expedition is under the auspices of the academy, the United States bureau of biological survey, the Smithsonian institution, and the National Zoological park of Washington, D. C.

UMM! HERE ARE SIX HINTS ON FRIED CHICKEN

14 Week to 9 Month Bird Suitable.

Information on fried chicken, particularly useful at this time of the year, comes from the Institute of American Poultry Industries.

Any chicken that is young [from 14 weeks to 9 months] is suitable for frying because the muscles are tender and little or no connective tissue has developed. These chickens will cary in weight from one pound to four and five pounds. The latter size customarily is the roasting size, but some epicures also prefer this large size for frying.

A good rule to remember is three-quarters to one pound of chicken for each person. Unless the housewife is expert in cutting up the bird, it is best to let the butcher cut the portions.

Some Frying Pointers.

After a very quick washing, or sometimes only wiping with a moist cloth, the pieces should be thoroughly dried to avoid spattering of fat.

These frying pointers may be of help:

1. Skillet. Preferably heavy and about three to four inches deep. Use two skillets if several chickens are being fried.

2. Coating. Bread crums, cornmeal, flour, and cracker crums. Flour browns more quickly than other materials. Do not use too much cornmeal, otherwise the crust will be objectionably dry and hard. Egg and crum covering may be used. The beaten egg should be diluted with one tablespoon milk or water. When this method is used at least three inches of deep fat is best for frying because of the heavier coating. A deep fat thermometer should register about 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

Any Fat May Be Used.

3. Fat: Enough to make a half inch to three-quarter inch layer in skillet. Any kind of fat may be used. If butter flavor is desired, use about one-third as much butter as other fat.

4. Temperature: Fairly high at beginning, long enough to brown; then followed by low to moderate heat until done. Put thick, meaty pieces in first.

5. Time for cooking: Twenty-five to thirty minutes for a one and one-half pound bird and up to one hour for the largest sizes. Water may be added to the pan after the meat is browned. For some palates this seems to give a more desirable result. More time should be allowed so that the water will be cooked down completely by the time the meat is done.

6. Oven method: Fry until browned thoroughly on outside, then transfer to covered casserole or roasting pan. Bake one-half to one hour in moderate oven, about 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

TRICKS OF FRYING AND BAKING ARE HELPS IN COOKING FRIDAY FISH

Small or medium sized fish are best pan fried or sauted. Wash fish, dry well, and dip into beaten egg to which salt and pepper have been added. Roll fish in finely ground cornflake crums or bread or cracker crum. Cover bottom of frying pan with fat ¼ inch in depth. When fat is hot brown the fish on both sides. Then lower the heat and place a cover on the pan in order to insure cooking the fish through. Leave lid on about 8 minutes. Fish is done when it may easily be pierced with a fork.

In deep fat frying fish, the temperature of the fat should be between 350 and 370 degrees F. Dip fish in egg and crums as directed above and drop into hot fat. Cook from 3 to 6 minutes or until a golden brown on all sides.

To oven bake individual fish servings in the form of fillets or slices, dip pieces into salted milk, using one tablespoon salt for each cup of milk. Then dip fish into finely ground or rolled cornflake crums. Arrange pieces on well greased baking sheet and sprinkle liberally with oil or melted butter. Bake in very hot oven, 500 degrees F., for about 10 minutes. Turning is not necessary. Serve with lemon slices or tartar sauce.

IF CREAM SOURS, KEEP SWEET AND TRY BAKING CAKE

Cookie Recipes Also Call for It.

If the cream sours, don't pull a long face, for there are a hundred and one delicious ways to use it—especially in baking cookies and cakes. The acid in the soured cream makes the crum of these baked goods gloriously tender.

If the cream doesn't ever sour because you've an up-to-the-minute refrigerator, sour some of it artficially once in awhile in order to try recipes like these. [To sour cream add two tablespoons lemon juice to ⅞ cup of cream.]

SOUR CREAM DROP COOKIES

¼ cup shortening
1½ cups granulated sugar
3 eggs, beaten
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sour cream
1 cup raisins, chopped
4 cups all purpose flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder

Cream fat and sugar. Add eggs and beat. Sift dry ingredients together, reserving a little flour to dredge over the raisins. Add sour cream and then the sifted dry ingredients. Add flavoring last. Chill dough and then drop onto greased baking sheets, allowing 3 inches between cookies. Bake 8 minutes in a moderate oven.

SOUR CREAM SPICE CAKE

1 cup brown sugar
1 cup sour cream
1 egg, lightly beaten
1½ cups all purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
½ cup chopped nuts
½ cup raisins
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Combine sugar, sour cream, and egg. Sift dry ingredients together once. Add to first mixture with nuts and raisins. Stir only until well blended. Bake at 350 degrees F. for about 45 minutes.

SALMON IS BLENDED WITH MACARONI IN AN AU GRATIN DISH

SALMON AND MACARONI AU GRATIN.

1 cup macaroni, broken in 1 inch pieces
1 No. 1 can salmon [11 ounce can]
2½ cups medium white sauce
½ cup grated American cheese
½ cup buttered bread crums

Make white sauce of 5 tablespoons flour, ¼ cup butter, and 2½ cups milk, with salt and pepper to taste. In the sauce melt the grated cheese. Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Place layer of salmon in greased baking dish. Add ½ of cheese sauce. Add cooked and drained macaroni and more sauce. Add remaining salmon and sauce. Top with crums and bake.

IT'S JELLY TIME! HERE ARE SOME POPULAR RECIPES

Housewives Busy Making Jams and Pickles.

Elderberry and grape jellies, peach jams, and all kinds of pickles are occupying the time of many housewives these days. Here are a few of the most popular recipes:

Measure equal parts of apple juice and elderberry juice after extraction, and place in a broad bottomed pan. Add ¾ cup sugar to each cup of combined juices and bring to a boil, stirring only until sugar is dissolved. Boil rapidly without stirring until the jelly sheets from a spoon. Remove from stove, skim and pour into glasses. Seal with paraffin.

To extract the elderberry juice, mash the washed and stemmed berries and heat them until the juice runs freely, about 5 minutes. Let settle, then place in a jelly bag and strain. To extract the apple juice, add 1 pint water to each quart cut apples and cook gently until tender. Let settle, place in a jelly bag and strain.

Peach and Orange Jam.

1 pint diced peaches
Juice and ½ grated ring of an orange
Juice of 1 lemon
Sugar

Measure the prepared fruit and juice and add 2-3 as much sugar and the grated orange rind. Heat, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Boil until the mixture is thick and clear. Remove from heat, pour into clean hot jars and seal. Cooking should be rapid in order to preserve color and flavor of the fruits.

Combine equal parts grape pulp, apple pulp and sugar, and boil rapidly, stirring often, until the mixture is thick [about 20 minutes]. Pour into clean hot jars and seal.

To prepare the pulp, cook the fruits separately until tender in enough water to prevent burning, and force it through a sieve or strainer before measuring.

Sweet Pickled Onions.

4 quarts small white onions
1 cup salt dissolved in water to cover onions
2 quarts vinegar
2 cups sugar
¼ cup mixed pickling spices

Cover onions with boiling water, let stand for two minutes and drain. Rinse in cold water and peel. Let stand in the salt water overnight. Place in a colander and pour cold water over the onions. Tie spices in a bag and heat with vinegar and sugar to the boiling point. Boil for 5 minutes and remove spices. Add onions, bring again to a boil, and pack hot into clean jars. Seal at once.

An electrical cooking school conducted by well known home economists, a variety of food displays, educational exhibits, and talks and musical and other entertainment are scheduled.

More than a hundred packing, canning, and food companies will exhibit their products, and forty candy manufacturers will be represented in a candyland display of packaged sweets.

WHAT THE DREFT TEST IS— Take a pair of "clean" soap-washed stockings. Wash just one of them in Dreft. Then compare. The Dreft-washed stocking will look "younger" and richer. The other will seem old, gray and "cottony" looking in comparison.

NEW SUDS GIVES STOCKINGS OVER 100% LONGER LIFE, says Miss Lottinville

"I found that my stockings washed in Dreft lasted 120% longer than when washed in soap flakes," testifies Miss Eileen Lottinville of 6106 Ellis Ave., Chicago. "And it was marvelous how much better they looked."

Here's why Dreft is so different: 1. Dreft gives five times more suds than any soap flakes in hardest water. 2. It never forms soap scum—leaves no "ring around the washbasin." 3. It instantly and completely dissolves in cool water.

Anything safe in water is safe in Dreft. Ask your dealer for Dreft, today! Procter & Gamble.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Very dry, extremely sensitive skin has special powder requirements. Too fine a powder will blow off the smooth, dry surface as it would off glass. Too heavy a powder will look too powdery—too close to the clown-in-the-circus effect.

One of our beauty specialists thinks she has solved the problem—and we think she has, too. Being an old-timer in the dry skin battle, we have some strong theories of our own. After playing with this we think we have a find.

It was blended especially for the thin, dry skin and for the skin that's sensitive. It isn't highly perfumed. The texture is rather difficult to describe. It is not feathery light, of course. It's probably more on the heavy side, though you mustn't get the notion from this that it's coarse. It isn't. But it does cling in a smooth film.

It's always important for the dry skinned gal to choose her powder shade with care—even more care than her oily skinned sisters must exercise. Dry skin is usually a little tight and shiny and powder stands out if the shade and texture aren't perfect.

Even this need for a beautifully matching shade has been considered in the blending of this powder for extremely sensitive skin. Its maker has given you nine or ten beauties from which to choose. It should be easy to match your skin tone from the pretty lot.

There are three cream shades—rose, light, and dark—that will be flattering to the ivory skinned. There's a beautiful peach for the very fair and a whole family of others, ranging from flesh to suntanned tints for those of us who don't fit into easy classifications.

"Parenthesis" Lines Erased with Exercise

Do you envy the trim figures and poise of military men? Proper exercise can help you acquire both. The booklet, "West Point Exercises," describes and illustrates thirty exercises used by cadets at the U. S. Military Academy. Get a copy at either of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. Postpaid, 7 cents.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

What to do about and for those lines that plow furrow between the nose and corners of the mouth? Although seen more often on older faces, they're still not confined to them by any means. A young woman in her midtwenties has the deepest indentations in this named area of any I have ever seen. She has had for years the distressing habit of plying her thumb and forefinger down this "parenthesis" lane as she [illegible], even as she reads. So, you see, that a bad habit may develop the lines from nose to mouth corners.

The muscles have to be made more self-reliant, so to speak, with exercise directed particularly at the cheeks. One of the noted specialists has popularized a facial exercise for which a good many women, following her advice, could write testimonials. She calls it the "huff and the puff" exercise. It's grand for the chinline, too, as is also a second exercise I shall give you for the facial lines primarily.

You fill your mouth full of air, then puff hard against the cheeks and the upper lip. Let the air come out in little puffs through slightly parted lips as though you were blowing a horn. It is suggested to keep your mind on your work, imagining that you huff and puff after a bumble bee circling around your head, turning this way and that to blow it away. If you smooth an emollient cream on your face and throat before you start huffing and puffing, so much the better. More cream is absorbed when the circulation is astir.

The second suggestion for making your cheek muscles firmer and your chinline cleaner is to go through all the motions of high, wide, and vulgar gum chewing, whistling at the same time, if you can do it! It doesn't matter what sounds issue, since you'll be doing this behind closed doors anyway. Keep tossing your head from side to side so that the chin will get the benefit, too.

A third exercise you may as well do is blowing great, deep gusts of air out of your lungs, counting up to six, eight, or ten as you exhale through half parted lips.

Normal Child Will Outgrow Bad Habits

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Sunday's column will be devoted to the subject of thumb sucking—one about which I have often been asked to write. The suggestions made in it also apply to other undesirable habits, but I am sure that at least one article on the general subject would be of value. For most of the undesirable physical habits that children sprout occasion their mothers great anxiety and at the same time fill them with the feeling of being utterly at sea as to what to do about them.

As a matter of fact, it is not always possible to put one's finger exactly on either the cause or cure. But we have been able to discover some reasons why children well past babyhood—or even older—suddenly develop or continue such undesirable habits as nail biting, thumb sucking, bed wetting, etc.

But before mentioning these possible causes I want to tuck in this fact for you to tie to and find encouragement in. It is this: That most normal children as they grow in sense, experience, and physical stamina outgrow their undesirable habits—given, of coure, I must add, understanding and affectionate treatment. So have patience and don't go violently into action and anxiety the instant you observe one of these habits starting.

The next part of my preface is this: That there is not necessarily just one cause for a child developing one of these habits. There may be several causes or a combination of circumstances in his life and his family that give rise to the habit. So I am suggesting that it is wise, especially if you can't seem to put your finger on any one reason, to set about your cure by an attack on several fronts. In this way you may strike the one right remedy, or achieve success by a combination of remedies for a combination of causes.

With this as an introduction, tomorrow we'll get right into the subject.

Suggestions for curing the habit of nail biting are found in our leaflet by that name. It will be sent out on receipt of a large, 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

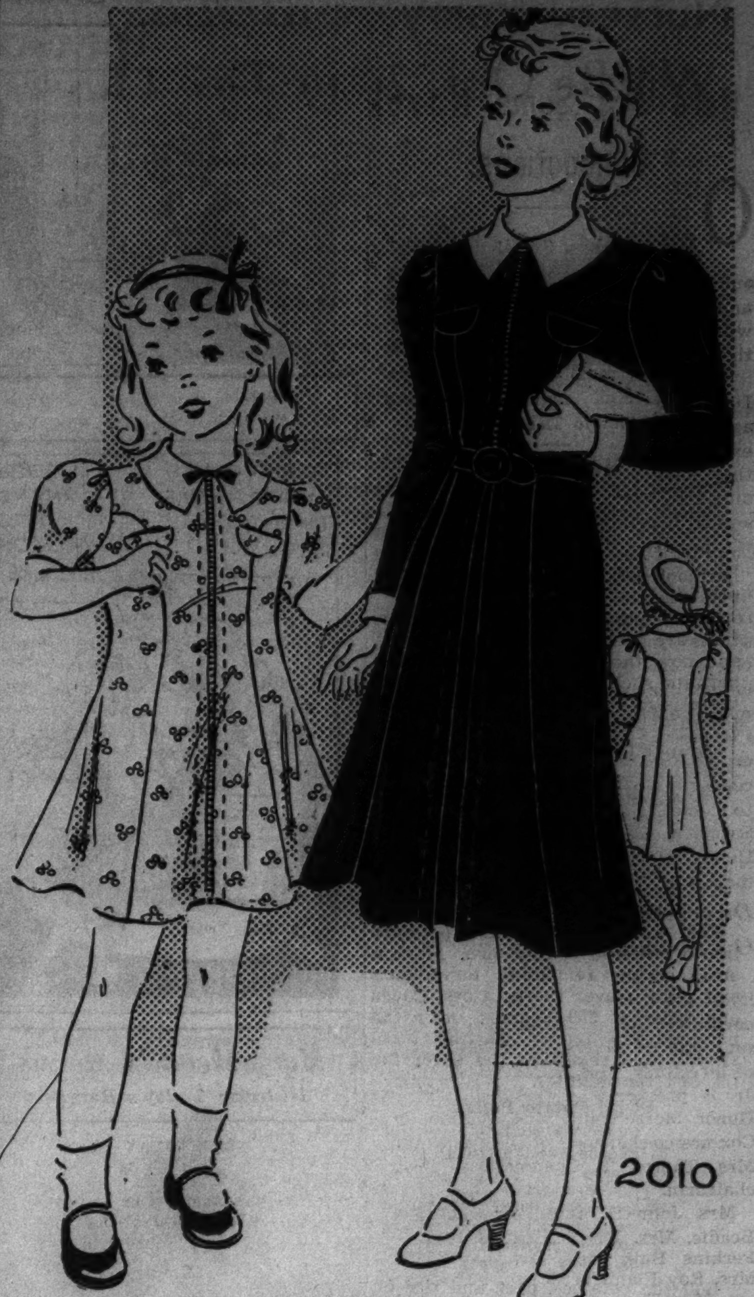
Sophisticated School Model



GIRL'S FROCK.

Extra special chic for the girl of school age! Sophistication plus, modified to retain that precious air of girlishness. This one piece dress with princess lines has a shirtwaist collar, puffed sleeves [either long or short], clever paneling which fits the dress perfectly, although you may use a belt if you wish, two small crescent shaped pockets placed high on the bodice, and last, but not least, a zipper all the way down the front!

The original of this school frock is created in navy blue poplin trimmed in white. A bright red slide fastener offers cheerful contrast. Scotch plaid in either cotton or woolen also is especially nice for this model, and any colorful woolen will see your daughter through the winter in chic and comfort.

This distinctive model is exceedingly simple to make. A diagrammed sewing chart accompanies the pattern, and it will ease you over any of the difficult spots.

Style No. 2010 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

North Avenue Nursery Party Will Be Oct. 2

BY JUDITH CASS.

OCT. 2 is a date to be marked in red by all the debutantes, their beaux, the young married folks, the young unmarried set, and even by the not-so-young married and unmarried people, for they all will have a good time at the party that will be given that night.

The directors of the North Avenue Day nursery started about ten years ago building a reputation for being excellent party-givers and each year they have added to that reputation until now every one expects that their annual benefit will be one of the best of the year.

The parties were costume affairs until last year, but then the wise directors decided that enough's enough, so they gave a plain supper-dance. Not so plain, either, in the way of entertainment, but plain because formal evening clothes were worn by the guests. Tomorrow those who are on this year's invitation list will receive cunning invitations asking them to come to a Pent House party on Saturday, Oct. 2, at 10 o'clock, at The House on the Roof of the Hotel Sherman.

Directors Send Out Invitations.

A sketch of the top stories of the hotel and a corner of the pent house decorates the invitations which are sent out in the name of the board of directors. Mrs. Sidney S. Gorham Jr. is president of the board; Miss Honor Merrell and Mrs. William D. Cox are co-chairmen of the party, and Mrs. Theron T. Chapman is ticket chairman.

Mrs. John D. Ames, Mr. John G. Beadle, Mrs. Joseph Beuttas, Mrs. T. Perkins Bull, Miss Carol G. Bush, Mrs. Roy Flannery, Miss Lucy Harrison, Mrs. Frederick Hellyer, Mrs. William D. Hunt, Mrs. George Jaeger Jr., Miss Frances Jeffery, Mrs. Hugh Johnston, Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence, Mrs. John T. McCutcheon, Mrs. Robert N. McKenna, Mrs. Donald F. McPherson, Mrs. John H. Noyes, Mrs. Barrett Scudder, Mrs. George M. Silverthorne Jr., Mrs. Denis E. Sullivan Jr., Mrs. Theodore Tieken, Mrs. Thomas S. Tyler, Mrs. Owen West, and Mrs. John P. Wilson Jr. are the other directors, all of whom will be active in making a success of the supper-dance.

Stanley Fields to Give Dance for Visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Field are giving a dinner-dance at their home in Lake Bluff this evening for four English visitors, Col. and Mrs. Hastings Ismay and the Joseph Neville Cleggs, who have been here for the last week.

Mr. Field is the uncle of Mrs. Ismay and Mr. Clegg. The Cleggs have been staying with the Fields, and Col. and Mrs. Ismay with the T. Clifford Rodmans. The visitors are planning to return to England the first of next week.

Mrs. Henry Varnum Poor [Betty Durham] arrived from Montreal Wednesday, and so friends of the Raymond E. Durhams will find every member of the family at home to welcome them at the tea the senior and junior Durhams are giving this afternoon for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gregory Durham [Carol Borchard]. The party will be given from 5 until 7 o'clock in the garden, weather permitting.

Young Mr. and Mrs. Durham, who have paid two visits to his parents in Hubbard Woods this summer, are returning next week to New Haven, where he is a student in the Yale law school. Mrs. Poor is remaining only over the week-end, and will return then to Montreal. Mr. Poor, who is vice consul there, could not come with her. Before the end of the month Mrs. Poor will see her grandmother, Mrs. Robert B. Gregory, who is ailing on the 18th from Cherbourg on the Empress of Britain for Montreal. Mrs. Gregory will be back in Chicago early in October.

Crowded Calendar for Debutantes.

This will be a busy day for the debutantes, for there will be luncheon in Wayne, a tea in the same township, two teas on the north shore, a large dinner-dance and several small dinner parties to end the day's festivities.

The luncheon is being given by Mrs. Charles P. Rockwood and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Herbert Zimmermann, for their daughters, Jane Rockwood and Lee and Peggy Zimmermann, and although most of the debutantes have been invited, the party

Movie Studios Put Musicians in Two Classes

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Film musicians are divided roughly into two classes—recording musicians and side line musicians. The first make the original recording, the second group simulate playing in time with the recording playback.

The recording musicians get $10 an hour with a minimum guarantee of three hours' work. The side line musicians get $12.50 a day.

This division is due to the fact that filming of an intricate musical scene might take days to complete. So the recording musicians make one perfect rendition of the score. In filming of the actual scene the side line musicians go through the motions of playing, but mute their instruments.

Studios hire regular musicians for the side line work even though the players don't sound a note, because only persons with musical knowledge are able to synchronize the proper movements with the music being "played back."

Immediately after appearing as master of ceremonies at the coast première of "Life of Emile Zola," George Jessel is flying to Washington to help do some personal research work on the life of Haym Salomon, wealthy Jew who was one of the bankers of the American revolution. The research will be used in connection with the Warner film, "My Country First."

Jessel's guide at the Congressional Library is to be Congressman Sol Bloom. On Jessel's return from Washington he will stop in Chicago on the invitation of Mayor Kelly to speak at the laying of the cornerstone for the Lorado Taft monument to George Washington, Robert Morris, and Salomon.

The twenty-four girls rehersing dances for Universal's "Merry-Go-Round of 1938" have changed their hours for practice from day to night because of the heat. Rehersals start at 6 o'clock and end at midnight.

Gene Raymond and Ann Sothern, who have been co-featured in four previous musicals at R-K-O, will team again in "She's Got That Swing," with Victor Moore and Helen Broderick as the mature romantic and comedy interest. Joe Santley will direct the story, which is about a night club girl who is incorporated as a business venture.

For "Mannequin," Joan Crawford's new vehicle, M.-G.-M. has built one block of New York's Hester street, in which the character represented by the actress lives most of her young life, until suddenly elevated into fame as the big city's most sought dress model.

Joan was still living on Hester street when we watched Director Borzage direct her in a scene on sound stage four. The street was full of pushcarts, youngsters, clattering trucks, dogs, and bustling adults wearing vests and cotton dresses. Several of the pushcarts offered vegetables which looked inviting. This, we were informed, was because they had been sprayed to keep them looking fresh and appetizing. The housewives who bought them from the pushcart men had been cautioned not to nibble anything, because of the spray.

Other pushcarts presented neckties, crockery at two pieces for a nickel, silk hose, and bits of hardware.

All the youngsters were noisy and all of them were somewhat skinny, due no doubt to the careful selection of the studio casting offices. Most of them looked Jewish, Italian, or Irish. Among the latter was a red headed girl with lustrous curls that hung almost to her waist.

When Miss Crawford, in a simple back dress with white piping, came jostling through the crowded street to walk up the five steps to her tenement apartment, the actress' hair shone in the sun almost a carroty color. Venturing close, the correspondent made some remark about the attractive red hair.

"Yes, indeed," said Miss Crawford, glancing toward the girl with the curls. "I have been dying to get my hands on that kid's hair and see how thick it is. Isn't it wonderful?"

We coughed a little, for we had intended to talk about Miss Crawford's own hair.

"O, my hair?" she said casually. "Well, I really haven't done anything to its color for this picture; it's just the way the sun shines in California."

We noticed that Miss Crawford did get over toward the freckled school girl a bit later, and patted her curls. The girl explained that she was Kathleen O'Malley, daughter of the silent film favorite, Pat O'Malley, and the youngest of three sisters, all of whom have rich red hair. "How do you get it to curl so?" Joan demanded of the child. "O, I just wind it around a stick," said Kathleen.

Joan laughed and so did Kathleen and Director Borzage, whose hair is sandy, tending toward carroty glints also.

Along the teeming sides of the film's Hester street, we noticed a few shops and signs breaking the dreary sweep of shuttered windows and rusty iron railinged front stoops. One sign, on a four story dwelling, stated "A. Prinzmetal, lawyer." A. Prinzmetal really is the high powered five figured legal counsel of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio. He approved putting his name on the sign so that no lawyer in New York whose name might have been chosen at random, could later make a demand on the studio for compensation for invasion of privacy.

Fred Astaire has made out papers attempting to copyright the dance he is doing in "Damsel in Distress" at RKO. In this dance, which is a solo and which highlights his happy-go-lucky capers throughout the film, he substitutes for the trap drummer in Ray Noble's orchestra.

Some 20 drums, tom-toms, cymbals and other novelty percussion pieces are lined up the length of a corridor down which the merry drummer boy, with his swallow tails struggling to keep up with his active progress, dances. Astaire is armed with two drumsticks on which he taps out a syncopation to go with his foot rhythm. Every now and then he kicks a cymbal or taps a bass drum with his toe, to add a note of musical emphasis.

Suits Are High Fashion

Simple suits in high colors are smart for general purpose wear. Suits similar to this one can be found in Chicago showings, featuring new shades of russet, red, navy, black and deep brown. Silver buttons add a decorative quality to all of them. The visible stitched seams, the flat inverted plaits in the straight skirt and the fitted short jacket combine to make this two piece outfit the most practical find of the early showings.

Expert Picks Successes of Style Season

BY RHEA SEEGER.

New clothes all over the town! Vividly colored suits, so bright you can see them for blocks. String bean silhouettes that herald the return of slim streamlines and better yet, the meticulously fitted underlayers to keep such streamlines smooth and unbulging.

Straight line dresses are like a sheath of fabric cleverly smoothed over the figure to give that plastered-on effect. Fur trims simple daytime dresses and fur bands provide dark luxurious contrast on colored afternoon wool dresses, the wool so fine and soft and supple it resembles fabulously beautiful silks.

Suede is going like mad . . . in short uniformlike jackets, in skull caps, in bands, scrolls, and swanky suits for country wear. Wickedly cut party clothes have sheath skirts slit to the knees to show a gay or giddy satin petticoat. And necklines are so low the less adventurous gasp at the first sight. Sleek black outfits are enlivened with high hats with much veiling . . . handsome accessories of gloves, handbags, oriental jewelry, and sooty black footgear accent the fall picture.

Next to black is the new copper shade, the tawny luster of a brand new penny or the russet swank of a copper chow dog. Worn with black it is breathtaking, especially with hosiery, gloves, and matching handbags. With pale chartreuse green it gives a combine of spectacular smartness, and is ideal with old shades of deep brown or violet.

Capes have established popularity, whether of fur, fabric, or combinations of the two. Cape lengths run from the short, boxy models to knee length. Braid trimmed boleros are worn with any kind of dress, street or evening gown. Suits appear by the dozens, each smart, young, and trim. And the first fall or winter coats, ready to take your money with record painlessness because they fit, look young and the fur trim is applied by experts. Such are the first successes of the exciting early fall season in Chicago.

Fashion photograph. . . . No wardrobe is complete without such a tailored suit. And this outfit is anything but masculine, despite the correct tailoring and flat lines. Similar suits can be found in all the newest showings. The skirt has pleats fore and aft, stitched visible seams, and the youngest of jackets. Silver buttons are the decorative interest. One shop shows this model in black, russet, and cedar, and other bright colors can be ordered. It is the suit for topcoats of tweed or wool, for polo coats at a football game, and as color contrast under fur coats later in the season.

Four pairs of dancers, among the first to enter the fiddle and square dance contest to be held next Tuesday night in Grant park at the band shell, illustrated a century of dancing costumes yesterday when they assembled in period costumes near Buckingham fountain. They wore the graceful costumes of 1837, the year Chicago was chartered as a city, those of the civil war period, the dress of 1900, and today. Roy Prehn, 2650 Lincoln avenue, acted as caller. All square dancers and fiddlers will be admitted in the contest.

Nevertheless one of them turned to the man standing beside her—he was a blond young newspaper photographer—and inquired, "I wonder what they're doing," indicating the two in heated discussion.

"Lady, they're planting violets in the outfield," answered the photog.

THERE are, we said, thousands of them in the parks and on the beaches, on davenports and in parked cars, but only one Necker in the telephone book. Alas, we were wrong. There are three — even in the telephone book.

And there are some dozen and a half Spooners listed, the word that preceded necker in popular usage. Now necker, too, and its offspring "neckbiter" have gone the way of "spooner." Today—and Bill Harshe says he gets it through the grapevine system which is his only possible means of communicating with the younger generation—one "flings woo."

There is, by the way, a Miss Frame, who buys the picture frames for the basement section of a State street department store—first name Ethel; Mr. Case is assistant sheet and pillow case buyer; Miss Sweet manages the candy section, and Mr. Bull writes advertising copy. WHILE on a recent motor trip Thomas S. Hardwick entered North Little Rock, Ark., and observed a large sign on the highway reading: "Warning—Drive Carefully—North Little Rock Lions."

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 9.—(AP)—"Miss North Dakota" just couldn't bring herself to posing in bathing suits, bathtubs, and such things.

So—instead of parading in Atlantic City's beauty contest—she entered a Kansas City business college today.

"Why, that man from the [sponsoring] company told me I'd have to be photographed in bathing suits and getting in and out of bathtubs," said Maxine Pagel, 17, winner of North Dakota's beauty title.

"I told him I didn't think I could do that."

Religious Fete Will Be Climax of City Jubilee

Chicago's Centennial Festival of Religion, which is to be held in the Civic Opera house Oct. 15 to Oct. 23, was formally launched last night at a meeting in the Union League club attended by nearly 1,000 men and women, leaders of all faiths. Mayor Kelly, honorary chairman of the festival, spoke. Judge John P. McGoorty, chairman, presided.

Final plans for the presentation of the festival's drama, "Light of Ages," were discussed and completed, and a demonstration of the pageant in three-dimensional miniatures was given by John Ross Reed, producer, and Marcus Bach, author. The meeting emphasized once again the complete interfaith coöperation behind the festival, and assured its definite success, festival leaders declared.

Mayor Kelly said that the Chicago Jubilee was inspired not only by a wish to immortalize Chicago's birth but also a desire to stimulate business. The festival of religion now gives the Jubilee an even finer touch, he said, showing as it does and will that the glory of Chicago consists not only of marts but a unity of spirit and civic idealism founded upon faith in God.

is not a debut for the three young women for whom it is given.

The luncheon will be at the Dunham Woods Riding club, which is only a short drive from Geneva, where the Rockwoods and Zimmermanns live. After luncheon the guests will swim, ride horseback, or play tennis until it is time to go to the Kenneth Miner Hess home in Wayne for the debut tea of Miss Barbara Hess. From there many of the young guests will drive to Winnetka for the tea-dance the Thomas Creighs and the Gilbert Crowders are giving to introduce their daughters, Virginia Creigh and Sally Jane Crowder, and for the tea at which Miss Marion Hall will be making her formal bow.

Assisting Miss Hess will be her cousin, Miss Jeanette Buckley, the Misses Zimmermann, Miss Rockwood, Miss Anne Tracy, Miss Barbara Austin, Miss Grace Bull, Miss Mary Eleanor Hyatt, Miss Florence Haganah, Miss Dorothy Wilder and Miss Jean White.

Miss Hess, who was graduated last spring from the Mary C. Wheeler school in Providence, R. I., will take courses at the Art institute and the University of Chicago this winter. Tonight her parents are giving a dinner at the Dunham Woods club for their daughter and her assistants.

Give Tea-Dance at Indian Hill Club.

The Creigh-Crowder tea-dance will be given at the Indian Hill club. Miss Crowder will be leaving on the 28th for her sophomore year at Pine Manor and Miss Creigh will leave about the 25th for Vassar. Assisting the two young women today will be the Misses Marjorie Shuman, Janet Musselman, Helen Shoemaker, Margot Webbe, Eleanor Wilson, Nancy Blaine, Kate Barkhausen, Kathleen Kelly, Katharine Baird, Jane Stude, Eleanor McClurg, Ann Loeber, Nancy-Leigh Bowes, Francigene Sheridan, Katherine McNulty, Judy Butler and Joan Bersbach.

Some of the same girls will assist Miss Hall at the tea her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bigelow Hall, will give for her at their home, 335 White Oak lane. Miss Hall's assistants will be her guest, Miss Gail Elliot of New York, who is Miss Hall's roommate at Vassar; Miss Jane Miller, who is Miss Hall's cousin; Miss Nancy Leigh, Miss Nancy Otis, Miss Shoemaker, Miss Webbe, Miss Blaine, Miss Wilson, Miss Musselman, Miss Shuman, Miss Mary Louise Burgess, Miss Adele Taylor, Miss Barbara Remy, Miss Cynthis Cleveland, Miss Gordon, Miss Barkhausen, Miss Baird, and Miss Austin.

Tonight Miss Crowder, Miss Creigh, and Miss Hall will give a dinner for their assistants at the Glen View club.

The Lake Forest debutantes, their beaux, and some second year girls, numbering about 100 in all, will dine and dance at the Onwentsia club as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Welling, who are entertaining for their debutantes, Mary Adams and Mary Paul Welling.

Italy-America Society to Open Season Today.

The Italy-America society is starting its fall season with what is certain to be a large meeting for the speaker and guest of honor, Miss Mary S. Nixon, is a former Chicagoan and a popular one. Miss Nixon, who has a girls' school in Florence, Italy, at which many well known Chicagoans have been "finished," will discuss "Impressions of an American Living in Italy" today at a luncheon meeting at the Electric club.

The German tennis stars who will play in the international matches at the Onwentsia club next Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons will be given a luncheon at the club the first day and the English players will be given one the second day. No standing room will be sold for the matches, which will start each day at 2 o'clock.

Religious Fete Will Be Climax of City Jubilee

of democracy," the mayor asserted. This remark was warmly applauded.

Among the other speakers were Dr. Louis Mann of Sinai temple, Rabbi Solomon Goldman of Anshe Emet congregation, Oscar C. Hagen, a trustee of the Presbyterian Theological seminary; Dr. Ralph Wakefield of the Irving Park Methodist Episcopal church, and vice president of the Chicago Church federation; Col. Robert Danford, chief of staf of the 6th corps area; Capt. Roland Bach, chaplain of that area; Postmaster Ernst Kruetgen, Daniel Morrissey, chairman of the festival executive committee, and Chief Justice John Sonsteby of the Municipal court.

The speakers pointed out that in the midst of world unrest, Chicago was to be the center of a religious festival participated in by all faiths. In this festival, asserted Rabbi Goldman, Europe may well find the solution to all its current hates and evils.

"Light of Ages" will have a cast of 500 persons, the leading rôles to be played by professional actors. It will show the part played by religion in Chicago's history—from Marquette to the present day. At present tickets may be had through churches, synagogs and other religious institutions and at the headquarters, 33 North La Salle street.

Danish King Bets a Crown and Loses at Niece's Wedding

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 9.—Princess Feodora, 27, niece of King Christian of Denmark, was married to Prince Christian of Schaumberg-Lippe, 31, at the historic castle at Fredensborg today in the presence of a brilliant gathering of royal and ducal families.

King Christian was warmly received by the populace when he arrived at the railway station and delighted the crowd by his jovial behavior. The king bet a clergyman who was to assist at the ceremony as to which track the wedding train would arrive on. The clergyman took up the king's bet to the extent of one crown. On losing, the king handed the clergyman his money, observing, "that's the first time I have lost my crown."

The festivities were marred by a heavy rainfall, but despite this the streets of the town were gay with flags.

After the ceremony the royal and other guests were entertained at a banquet in the great hall of Fredensborg castle.

The young couple, who were childhood playmates, intend to live at the bridegroom's estate at Neufahrland, near Potsdam.

Movies Enjoy Best Business Year Since '29

New York, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The amusement business looked back on a better-than-billion-dollar year today and found it well—with a few fat reservations.

In the twelve months that ended Labor day eve the flicker public flocked to the movies at the rate of 85,000,000 or better a week—about four and a half billion admissions in all. And at an average price of 22 cents. Last season the pace was 80,000,000 weekly.

Broadway "legitimate" box offices took in approximately the same gross as in the 1935-'36 season. Vaudeville artists found increased employment in the night clubs, cabarets and unit shows. The outdoor spectacles and carnivals prospered. Burlesque took a beating.

Men who make entertainment an industry thought it over a bit and ventured cautious predictions of increasing gross. Rising costs they thought might cut into net profits. And you can't tell which way the public will jump, anyway.

The movie people thought admissions might be stepped up to 90,000,000 a week. Costs—salaries, wages, film and negative costs—have risen about 30 per cent. Seat prices have not to any great extent. "Consumer" resistance has been felt whenever tickets went up.

For motion pictures the year was the best since 1929, the first real year of sound, when from 90,000,000 to 120,000,000 went to the shows each week. This year's public was more choosy than in that boom year, producers found, and went shopping more for the pictures it wanted.

It got more million dollar films as a result. What the trade knows as top flight pictures rose to about 70 from 50. With the advance in quality, censorship troubles grew less. There were fewer cuts and deletions.

Theater men averred improved quality brought its reward in longer runs and a better summer business. The big features held over four, five, and six weeks instead of moving on at the end of seven days. Summer admissions held to an average of about 70,000,000 weekly, whereas in other years the season has witnessed sharper declines.

Air-conditioning played a part in the better summer business, scores more theaters installing the equipment. It helped on Broadway, too, where the "legits" that kept on through the hot days played better houses that the season before.

Statistics weren't so good for the Broadway stage, however. With about the same gross intake, the percentage of failures increased over the 1935-36 season. Hits—any show that runs 100 performances the trade terms a hit—were fewer, and the number of New York productions dwindled.

Billboard, the amusement weekly which annually compiles the records of the stage, listed only 24 hits, against 34 the previous year and 74 in 1925-26, the halcyon season of recent years.

Productions numbered only 125, compared with 138 in 1935-36; commercial premières dropped to 89 from 103, and the percentage of failures was up to 76 per cent from 68 per cent.

All was not gloom, however. The dramatic shows that did make the grade averaged 75 day runs, compared with 71 days the preceding year. Revival of classics cheered the men who think quality will save the show business.

They pointed to such successes as "Hamlet," "Richard II.," "The Country Wife," "Candida," and others as proof of their contention the public wanted the classics as well as the "turkeys."

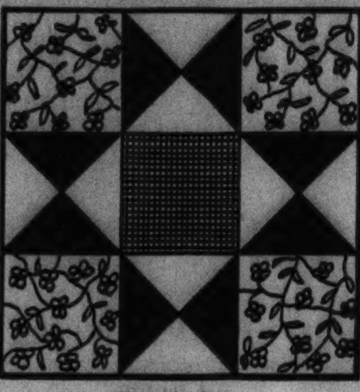
As far as burlesque was concerned, the days of the strip teasers appeared numbered. The burlycue houses in New York were closed, to reopen later with less epidermis showing and the patter purged of much of its suggestiveness.

Strip teasers applied in vain to the night clubs—girl shows were clothed and the public seemed to like the fancy costuming. Fan dances and their kind, such as balloon, swan, apple, moth, and other near-nude acts, remained in favor, however.

Musicals seemed on the down slide. There were only ten among the commercial premières, and never more than five running at one time. Billboard placed the failure percentage at 45 per cent, against 18 per cent the previous season. The average length of run, it noted, dropped from 164 performances to 128.

A good many feel that only a reduction in the number of plays, with emphasis on the best, will enable box offices to compete with the super-night clubs, cabarets, movies, and other forms of entertainment.

Individual Quilt Often Basis of Other Patterns



Variable Star.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Although this pattern often is used as a foundation for other designs, it has not lost its individuality. It was called "Variable Star" because of the many variations which may be attained by this simple nine patch. A combination of printed and plain materials was used when the block first was pieced many years ago, so to be historically correct this combination should be adhered to, but with the lovely solid colors available it is possible to produce a coverlet as beautiful and effective as any combination of materials.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

CLEARING UP AMBIGUITIES IN ASKING BIDS.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

There are two cases in which a response to the first asking bid may be based on one of two different holdings. One is the case of the sign-off; the player may have no ace, or he may have an ace, but no fit in the agreed suit. The other is the case of four no trump; he may have the ace of the asked suit and a side ace, or he may have a fit in the asked suit and two side aces. After one of these two responses, a repeat asking bid [a subsequent asking bid in the same suit] asks for clarification of the first response.

After a Sign-Off.

When the repeat asking bid follows a previous sign-off, the responder should now:

1. Bid no trump if he has second round control, having signed off before because he lacks an ace.
2. Bid an ace if he has third round control [queen or doubleton] and an ace. With two aces, show only one of them, for the no trump response shows second round control and not two aces.
3. Lacking all the values which justify a positive response to the repeat asking bid, sign off again in the agreed suit.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened his fourth highest club, dummy played low, and East's king won. Looking at all four hands, it is easy to see that a spade return by East, followed by a heart switch on West's part, would have gained the defenders four tricks. But from East's point of view a spade return was unthinkable. The normal defense was to try for a diamond trick, since it was quite likely that declarer had something like the ace and one or two small diamonds. He also might hold heart honors and, unless West's diamond king [presumably speaking] were established before East's heart ace were knocked out, the diamond trick might evaporate.

As it happened, the diamond return was "right up declarer's alley." He cashed the ace and king, then entered dummy with the club ace, to discard a heart on the diamond queen. Then, with only one heart left, declarer had nothing to lose by playing the diamond jack and chucking his heart. True, he realized that one of the defenders had to be out of diamonds and could ruff. But there was the chance, however remote, that this ruff would require the sacrifice of the ace of trumps. Remote as it was, that is what happened.

West was the one who did not have to follow to the fourth diamond, but, to his misfortune, also was the one who had the blank ace of trumps.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: In the following bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Double	Redouble	2 clubs
Double

Is South's double for a take-out or for penalties?

Answer: North's redouble is the equivalent of a bid; hence, South's double is for penalties.

JO-JOTTE POINTER.

In valuing the hand for a no trump contract, a player must look for two types of values in his hand: pay cards and stoppers. Pay cards include aces, tens, and sometimes kings or queens, exactly as in trump bids. Three card combinations, however, have more value at no trump than at trump contracts, where the third card is almost sure to be ruffed. The matter of stoppers is of the utmost importance at no trump. A stopper is a card which will win a trick in its suit if the opponent leads. Every now and then a player will take the contract at no trump and his adversary will have some long suit. If declarer cannot win a trick in that suit, the entire suit will be run before he can take the lead.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Jeareld McDonald, who served two terms and thereby qualified as technical adviser for motion pictures dealing with penitentiaries, was on his way back to prison today.

Superior Judge Samuel Richardson Black sentenced McDonald, also known as Jeareld O'Neal, to ten years after he pleaded guilty to a bigamy charge.

His troubles began when Mrs. Estelle O'Neal, whom he married in 1927, heard of his whereabouts and visited him to find he had married Mrs. Katherine Mandel without obtaining a divorce.

OAKITE THE CLEANER THAT DISSOLVES GREASE

Man's Pride Usually His Weakest Point

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Bill took Louise to the dance. She had the first few dances with him. Then one "Brag" cut in and, after a few steps, suggested they go outside on account of the heat in the dancing room. Outside, they walked a bit when they ran into Verne, who had a little roadster and a girl with him. He dared "Brag" and Louise to take a little run down a way to get a sandwich and beer.

Time, acting on its well known principle, under such circumstances flew and an hour was up before the foursome realized it. When they got back to the dance place Bill had disappeared. Gone home for the night. "Brag" had a girl to do some explaining to, but she took his word for what caused the delay. Not so, Bill. He's mad. Says Louise made a fool of him before all his friends there. They had kidded the life out of him it seems. But that isn't the worst of it. Bill was so mad that he drank more than he should have and on the way home in his car he had an accident, which left him with a black eye, a bruised shoulder and a cut in his hand. This hasn't help toward a reconciliation, either.

All of which leaves Louise in pretty much of a pickle. She admitted to Bill that she shouldn't have run away as she did, saying that it was just a lark; that "Brag" is nothing in her life. "But seeing out of his blackened eye, Bill just won't be placated," Louise confides.

There wasn't much harm in the little adventure down the road, but a girl always must reckon on what she may be doing to her escort's pride.

It takes some clever nursing to get it back to normal once a blow has been delivered it in public, Louise. You could hurt him privately with less affront to his vanity. So, now, your hope lies in reëstablishing his position with you in the eyes of your crowd. You may have to eat a little humble pie for a bit, but it's worth it if Bill means a lot to you.

"The Jury Acquits" . . . BUT DOES HIS WIFE?

Then a murder bursts the bombshell of his intimate association with another woman. He was her last known companion before she was slain.

PUT YOURSELF IN THE PLACE OF HIS WIFE.

You loved him once—you must have, you married him. How many years is it that you and he have met the same problems, hoped the same hopes . . . thought the same thoughts?

Or did you? Was he hoping something else, thinking something else?

He has been a good husband—until then. He has been a good father. At least he has seemed to love his children, and they have adored him. Jock, the big boy, the boy who is almost a man, now needs a man's restraining hand. Yet how can this hand—his father's hand—restrain him? Jock knows all about it. Jock reads the papers.

It isn't the money. "I can get along without his money. But what kind of a woman am I—the woman who wasn't enough—the woman he forgot? He must have forgotten me, it is plain that he didn't give me a thought. I was forgotten, I was discarded . . . but how can I forget?"

* * *

The mysteries of the marriage relationship . . . the questions brooding deep in human hearts, beyond the reach of public trial or legal argument . . . these are the materials of "After Dark," a new novel by Graeme and Sarah Lorimer, beginning in the Ladies' Home Journal for October.

You can read murder mysteries, follow sensational trials, in the newspapers. The jury convicts or acquits—and the newspapers rush on to the next murder mystery, the next sensational trial.

But the greatest story begins when the public trial is over—then the private trial before the larger jury of family, friends, snoopers, busybodies, gets under way . . .

The private trial, hedged away within the four walls of a house, before the wife . . .

How can she re-make her world, re-make herself? It is this greater story that is told in "After Dark."

The creators of "Maudie" develop a great dramatic theme in an entirely new field

If you are a Journal reader, you know Graeme and Sarah Lorimer for their brilliant "Maudie" stories. "Maudie" fans are numbered by the hundreds of thousands.

Now the Lorimers have written their first full-length novel. Not a "Maudie" story, it offers an even wider range for their talent as observers and recorders of life. For "After Dark" is a penetrating study of human relationships—particularly of the marriage relationship—rich in dramatic power and feeling.

WARNEKE SETS DOWN OLD PALS WITH SIX HITS

Bruins Now 3 Games Behind Giants.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Lon Warneke, the Arkansas whittler, who is well known hereabouts, got into an argument with his Cub pals yesterday and refused to be influenced by sentiment. He just pitched to the best of his ability, which happened to be plenty good. So his 1937 companions, the Cardinals, marched to their first victory in twelve battles with the Chicagoans. The short end of the 8 to 2 score put the second place Cubs three laps behind the leading Giants, who broke even with the Dodgers.

Warneke, now the owner of 17 victories since he was shoved into a Cardinal uniform by last winter's trade, was liberal enough to allow his one time fellow workers six hits. The only time they had him guessing was in the second inning, when they went into a 1 to 0 lead, but that was soon adjusted into a tie against old Charles Root, and eventually the veteran was annihilated. Three runs in the seventh sent him to cover and his successor, Leroy Parmelee, was manhandled for four runs in the last two innings.

Bryant Unable to Pitch.

Root happened in to the party by accident. He agreed to go to work when Clay Bryant, originally picked to start, complained of a stiff neck. Root, out for nearly two weeks because of arm complications was in trouble from the start. Seven hits were sprinkled through the first five innings, but sensational support limited the effect of these to one run. But the expected happened when four Cardinals clipped him for hits in the seventh, among the four being Joe Medwick, who made himself known for the first time during the series.

Warneke had the situation so well in hand that he gave up only three hits in the first seven innings. Two of these were paired in the second and the other appeared in the third. During the next four innings he set them down in order except for a pass. In the eighth, with a swell lead at his command, he didn't have to fret about a couple of hits scoring a run. But in the ninth, after Tuck Stainback had opened with a smash against the wall, Warneke put it on good. He set down the next three, the last being Carl Reynolds, who made his debut as pinch batter for Parmelee. Lonnie fanned Carl.

Error Aids Cubs.

The Cubs made two hits in the second inning and scored on them only because an error was involved. Hack singled through short with one out. Stainback tapped to Warneke, who turned and threw to second, but Brown for some strange reason lodged what appeared to be a pretty accurate throw. Warneke, of course, was charged with the error. Then Cavarretta singled to center, scoring Hack and putting Stainback on third. Jurges popped to Brown for the second out and Root fanned.

The Cardinals tied it in the third and probably felt they should have made more from an assortment of three hits and a pass. Moore singled and stole with one out. He scored the tying run on a single by Brown. Mize doubled to right, Brown stopping at third. Medwick was purposely passed to fill the bases. Padgett grounded to Herman and a speedy double play was put together with Jurges in the middle and Cavarretta at the other end.

A pass to Demaree and a single by Hartnett gave the Cubs an open-

FLANAGAN SETS WORLD RECORD IN A. A. U. MILE SWIM

Clips 15.2 Seconds from Medica's Mark.

Ralph Flanagan, 20 year old Olympic veteran from Miami, Fla., crammed three record-smashing performances into one race to win the Amateur Athletic union's one mile swimming championship for the third successive year yesterday in the Burnham park lagoon.

Flanagan, who finished fourth in the 400 meters and fifth in the 1,500 meters at Berlin in 1936, stole the show on the opening day of the A. A. U.'s annual title meet, successfully defending the first of three championships he won a year ago, by 200 yards over John Patton Jr., of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and erasing three records set up by Jack Medica, freestyle star from Seattle, Wash.

Each Stroke Increases Margin.

Swimming alone after the first length of the 55 yard course, Flanagan increased his margin with every stroke, to shatter the world and meet record of 20 minutes, 57.8 seconds, established by Medica in 1934, by 15.2 seconds. En route, he lowered Medica's 1,320 yard American record from 15:41.2 to 15:28 and trimmed the westerner's American 1,500 meter mark from 19:20 to 19:18.2.

Patton barely saved second place by inches over Burt Erich of New Haven, Conn. Elwood Woodling of Ohio State university was fourth.

Two defending champions, Tom Haynie of the University of Michigan, in the 220 yard freestyle, and the Detroit Athletic club in the 300 meter medley relay, were dethroned by stars from the Lake Shore A. C. of Chicago.

McCaffrey Wins in Upset.

Irving McCaffrey of the Lake Shore club scored a surprise triumph in the 220 yard freestyle, winning in 2:18.8 over Paul Wolf of the Los Angeles A. C., with Haynie third, and Andy Clark of the Detroit A. C. fourth.

Adolph Kiefer, world backstroke champion, sent the Lake Shore team off to a wide lead in the medley relay event, and his teammates, Gus Horschke in the breaststroke, and 15 year old Otto Jaretz in the freestyle, held it to finish about 8 yards ahead of the University of Michigan team of Haynie, Jack Kasley, and Ed Hutchins. The Detroit A. C. was third with the Canton, O., Sea Lions fourth. Lake Shore's time of 3:25.6 was seconds over the meet record of 3:22.2 set by the Detroit club last year.

Three Meter Diving Postponed.

The 3 meter springboard diving was postponed until today when débris in the water made it impossible to hold trials yesterday morning.

Flanagan will defend his 440 yard freestyle title today, and Kiefer will seek another 100 meters backstroke championship.

ONE MILE SWIM—Won by Ralph Flanagan, Miami, Fla.; John E. Patton Jr., Fort Lauderdale, Fla., second; Burt Erich, Newhaven, Conn., third; Elwood Woodling, Ohio State, fourth; George A. Lowe, University of Illinois, fifth. Time, 20:42.6 [new world and meet record; former record, 20:57.8, by Jack Medica, University of Washington, in 1934].

300-METER MEDLEY RELAY—Won by Lake Shore A. C., Chicago [Adolph Kiefer, Gus Horschke, Otto Jaretz]; University of Michigan, second; Detroit A. C., third; Canton, O., Sea Lions, fourth. Time—3 minutes 25.6 seconds.

220 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Irving McCaffrey, Lake Shore Athletic club, Chicago; Paul Wolf, Los Angeles Athletic club, second; Tom Haynie, University of Michigan, third; Andy Clark, Detroit Athletic club, fourth. Time—2 minutes 18.8 seconds.

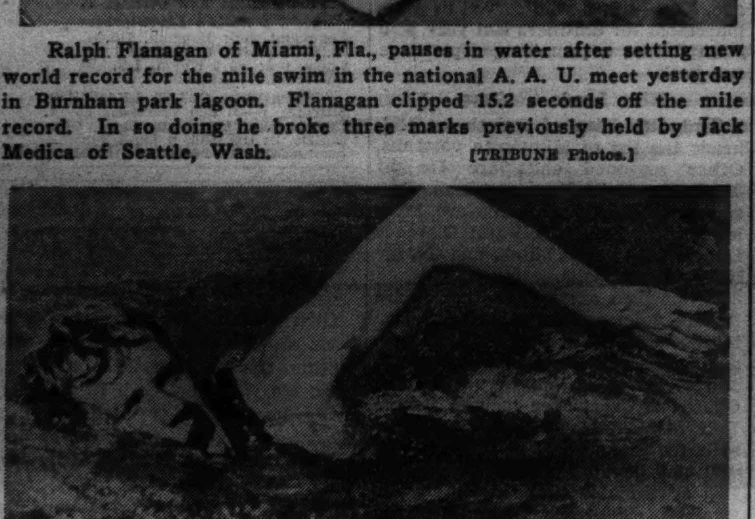
LAUGH AT STOP WATCH

Ralph Flanagan of Miami, Fla., pauses in water after setting new world record for the mile swim in the national A. A. U. meet yesterday in Burnham park lagoon. Flanagan clipped 15.2 seconds off the mile record. In so doing he broke three marks previously held by Jack Medica of Seattle, Wash. [TRIBUNE Photo.]



Irving McCaffrey of the Lake Shore A. C., Chicago, won the A. A. U. 220 yard title in an upset victory over Paul Wolf of Los Angles in 2:18.8.

O'Hara Freed on Bail After Arraignment

Providence, R. I., Sept. 10 [Friday]. —(AP)—Walter E. O'Hara, stormy central figure in a battle with Gov. Robert E. Quinn over the managing directorship of the Narragansett race track, early today pleaded innocent to two charges of criminal libel and was released on a total of $10,000 bail.

Both charges of libel were based on an article in O'Hara's newspaper, the Providence Star-Tribune, in the midst of a move by the state racing commission to remove O'Hara as managing director of the million dollar racing plant and to cancel the license of the race track.

One warrant charged O'Hara had libeled Gov. Quinn. The other, a surprise action, was brought just before midnight by state police, charging the same artcle libeled William E. Beehan of Larchmont, N. Y., general counsel for the Outdoor Advertising company.

Friend Posts Bail.

Trial of the Quinn charge was set for Sept. 16 and trial of the other charge Sept. 23. On each bail of $5,000 was posted by Mayor Thomas McCoy of Pawtucket, close friend of O'Hara and political rival of Quinn within the Democratic party.

The swift developments of the sixth day of sharp dispute over management of the rich Narragansett track, growing out of a charge that O'Hara had "intimidated" a state racing steward, left this court action pending:

1. Trial of the two charges against O'Hara.

2. A ruling by the State Supreme court on O'Hara's petition, given a hearing Thursday, for review of the state racing commission's order that the trackman-publisher be removed as managing director.

3. A hearing, set for 1 p. m. today before the state racing commission, to "show cause" why the track's license should not be suspended.

Held at Barracks.

O'Hara was taken into custody last night at his race track penthouse after Quinn said he would call out the entire state police force, if necessary, to serve the warrant. Smiling and seemingly unperturbed, O'Hara remained several hours at the Lincoln police barracks before arraignment at West Warwick on the Quinn charge. Then he was sped to Providence for arraignment on the second charge.

Cochrane Signs and Gets Ready to See Europe

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Gordon S. [Mickey] Cochrane prepared tonight to leave for Europe to complete his convalescence from a recent skull fracture after signing a contract as nonplaying manager of the Detroit Tigers for 1938 and 1939.

Cochrane will leave tomorrow night and will be accompanied by Dr. Roy D. McClure, head of Henry Ford hospital, who treated Cochrane after he was injured when struck in the head by a pitched ball late in May. Terms of Cochrane's new contract were not announced.

Walter O. Briggs Jr., who made the announcement for the Detroit Baseball company, said that Cochrane planned to be a bench manager in the future. He has not played since he was injured. This apparently means that Rudy York, the recruit who has been a sensation as a home run hitter in recent weeks, is a fixture behind the plate for the Tigers. Coach Delmar Baker, who managed the Detroit club while Cochrane was in the hospital, will be in charge the remainder of the season.

LEHMAN CALLS COURT SESSION TO HALT DOGS

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The Appellate division in a special session called by Gov. Lehman will sit here tomorrow to rule upon the legality of dog racing in New York state.

The governor, exercising a seldom-used gubernatorial privilege of calling the state's second highest court in advance of its regular session, ordered District Attorney Martin W. Littleton of Nassau county to file tomorrow an appeal against the decision of County Judge Richard Hawkins. This sanctioned dog racing at the Mineola track.

The governor demanded the special session when he learned that the Mineola track will close Tuesday. He hopes to hasten a ruling and rush the case through the Court of Appeals before the track shuts down.

BIG TEN SCHOOLS AND NOTRE DAME OPEN DRILL TODAY

Nearly 1,000 Men Will Report for Football.

Football practice will open in the Big Ten conference and at Notre Dame and Marquette today.

Nearly 1,000 players will report at these midwestern schools. The largest squad will assemble at Notre Dame, where 85 will greet Coach Elmer Layden this morning. Nearly 75 candidates will report to Coach Bernie Bierman at Minnesota. Twenty-seven of the Gophers are letter winners.

Two new head coaches will be introduced into the Western conference this fall. Irl Tubbs, formerly of the University of Miami, succeeds Ossie Solem at Iowa and Mal Elward becomes acting coach at Purdue during the illness of Noble Kizer. Elward served as line coach under Kizer.

Elward inherits a difficult task at Purdue, where he must develop replacements for nine letter men, seven of whom were classified as regulars last year. The Boilermakers are counting heavily on Cecil Isbell, veteran back, to carry the brunt of the attack.

A squad of sixty, including thirty-four sophomores, will report to Tubbs at Iowa City this morning. The two hour morning session will be the first of two scheduled for every day until Sept. 22, when the squad will leave for the opening game against the University of Washington at Seattle.

N. U. Line Riddled.

Lynn Waldorf, who piloted Northwestern to the Big Ten championship last fall, will greet a squad of 70 players at Dyche stadium. The Wildcat coach is confronted with the task of rebuilding last year's title winner since graduation took a heavy toll.

The biggest problem facing the Wildcats is bolstering the line which lost 11 lettermen. The positions hardest hit were tackle, guard, and center where only three letter men are available. The principal back field loss was at full back, a position vacated by Steve Toth and Don Geyer.

Coach Clark D. Shaughnessy will begin his fifth campaign at Chicago handicapped with another small squad of 40. Only 10 letter men will be back this year. The back field will be built around such veterans as Sollie Sherman, Fred Lehnhardt, Lewis Hamity, and Morton Goodstein.

Zuppke's 25th Season.

Coach Bob Zuppke will open his twenty-fifth season at Illinois with a squad which he has characterized as "greener but sturdier than last year." The Illini also expects to be better fortified with reserve strength this year.

A squad of 52 will begin practice at Wisconsin under Coach Harry Stuhldreher. The immediate daily program includes three lecture sessions and two practice workouts.

Hopefully pointed toward the comeback trail, the vanguard of Michigan's 1937 football team arrived in Ann Arbor yesterday. The Wolverines have the finest group of tackle and

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—It was fortunate for the New York Giants, who last night defeated a team of eastern college graduates, 14 to 7, that they were not encountering the All-Americans who whipped the Green Bay Packers, National league champions, at Soldiers' field Sept. 1. . . . Mr. Tim Mara eventually will have quite a football club when Widseth, Dennerlein, and Gelatka from this year's All-American group have worked into the team play, but last night the Giants were a very ordinary squad. . . . They made elementary mistakes. . . . It was only by the grace of Tuffy Leemans' brilliant 66 yard sprint for a touchdown that they managed to win. . . . They fumbled the ball, particularly in the first quarter, like a team playing before a big crowd for the first time. . . . Later they got their signals mixed and a pass from center rolled past Ed Danowski for a loss of 28 yards. . . . Their forward pass defense at times just wasn't and their line had little fire on offense.

Andy Kerr did a magnificent job with the All-Stars. . . . He didn't have a great deal to work with, yet they almost held their own with a team that is given a good chance to win the professional championship. . . . It is unlikely that a single eastern player could have made the grade in the Chicago game. . . . Larry Kelley of Yale, who was expected to be a standout, isn't in a class with Gaynell Tinsley of Louisiana State or Merle Wendt of Ohio State on their respective showings in the Chicago and New York All-Star games. . . . The leading performer for the collegians was Mickey Kobrosky of little Trinity college in Hartford. . . . He gave a remarkable exhibition of accurate forward passing, but he is a fast ball pitcher and his tosses are hard to handle. . . . Mr. Kerr's boys had a lot of zest for the goings-on, but they didn't have the individual or collective class in the pinches. . . . Their defense sagged woefully in the third quarter when the Giants' running attack was functioning. . . . How they needed Svendsen, Widseth, Reid, Tinsley, Starcevich, Drake, Francis, and the other All-Americans who stopped the champion Packers in their tracks three yards from the goal line. . . . It takes the best of the college players to whip the professionals and last night the collegians didn't have them. . . . The two victories the professionals have scored this season, at Philadelphia, where the Eagles whipped a so-called All-Star group, 14 to 6, and at the Polo Grounds last night, were over squads recruited from the eastern seaboard. . . . There aren't enough good players in the east to stand the gaff. . . . That was demonstrated in Chicago, where several of the east's finest had to yield their positions to more rugged and more skilful players from the midwest, south, and Pacific coast. . . . If that wasn't sufficient evidence, last night's contest clinched the case. . . .

POUND OUT 16 HITS IN VICTORY OVER BROWNS

St. Louis Uses Five Pitchers.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 9.—Manager James Dykes of the White Sox this afternoon elected to skin by without any pitching and virtually got away with it. The Sox beat the Browns, 9 to 8, but Dykes had to employ the inevitable Clint Brown for the last six putouts to achieve victory.

The Browns hit safely in every inning. They made seven hits off J. D. Rigney in three innings, ten off Rockin' Chair Cain until he was removed after the first three batsmen singled in the eighth, and one off Brown, a grand total of 18 smacks by the pitiful American league tail enders.

Sox Do All Right, Too.

The Sox made 16 hits off five Brownie pitchers. The assortment included a homer and two singles by Rookie Merv Conners in his first three trips to the plate. The homer was good for the first two runs of the afternoon and the second single drove in the run which effected a 5 to 5 tie in the fifth inning.

Luke Appling made a double, two singles, and drew a pass, all of which figured in run production. Luke Sewell also had a double and two singles.

The Sox thus concluded their seven game western road trip with five victories and two defeats and Saturday will engage the Detroit Tigers in a double-header, part of a three game series. The Tigers are in second place, one and a half games ahead of the Sox.

Sewell Uses His Arm.

The Browns bruised Rigney a bit in the first inning, but it didn't mean anything. Silber opened with a single to center but Sewell called for a pitchout and got him as he tried to reach second. Allen lined a hot one to Appling and Bell doubled to center. Vosmik popped to Conners.

St. Louis Keeps Firing.

The Browns continued to thump Rigney in the second and this time their hitting netted them a tie. Clift opened with a single to left. Lipscomb rammed a hot one past Conners, Clift reaching third. Lipscomb sneaked to second on the throw home. Walker made a nice catch of Huffman's drive to right center, Clift scoring and Lipscomb taking third. Carey singled to center, scoring Lipscomb. Trotter was called out on strikes and Silber forced Carey.

The Browns took a 4 to 2 lead in the third. Allen reached second because Conners threw away the ball after capturing his grounder. Allen scored when Bell drove a single to left, his second and the Browns' sixth hit off Rigney. Hayes threw out Vosmik, but Clift walked. Lipscomb flied to Walker and Huffman singled to right, Bell scoring. Clift

BUDGE, PARKER GAIN SEMI-FINAL OF U. S. SINGLES

Helen Jacobs Wins from Kay Stammers.

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Two contenders who had not lost a set kept those records clear and two others who had encountered early difficulties came through with ease today as the semi-final brackets were filled in the combined men's and women's national singles tennis tournament at the West Side club.

The four most impressive performances were provided by Don Budge of California, Miss Jadwiga Jedrzejowska of Poland, Frankie Parker of Milwaukee, and Miss Helen Jacobs of California.

Budge routed the 19 year old junior champion from Los Angeles, Joe Hunt, 6-1, 6-2, 6-4, and tomorrow will go up against Parker, his Davis cup singles mate, who took a 6-2, 12-10, 6-2 decision from Johnny Van Ryn of Austin, Tex.

English Star Loses.

Miss Jedrzejowska, rarely faltering with the booming forehands that have established her as top choice for the women's crown, defeated Ruth Mary Hardwick, hard hitter from England, 6-4, 6-2. The Polish girl thus moved into a meeting with Miss Jacobs, perennial contender and four time former champion, who won, 7-5, 6-3, over Kay Stammers, English miss.

Tomorrow's other semi-final matches will pair Bobby Riggs, second seeded American from Los Angeles, against Baron Gottfried von Cramm of Germany and Anita Lizana, next to Miss Jedrzejowska on the list of favored invaders, against Dorothy May Bundy, the Santa Monica, Cal., youngster, who yesterday dismissed 1936 Champion Alice Marble.

Easy for Them.

Budge and Miss Jedrzejowska, moving on toward the finals, have not dropped a set in four matches nor been extended to the extra effort of winning a deuced set.

Today's only extra set matches were in the veterans' semi-finals. The winners, and rivals for Saturday's final, were Cedric A. Major of New York and Dr. Heinrich Kleinschroth of Germany. Thus, there may be an international final in each division, with Budge and Von Cramm tonight's choices for the men's division and the women's match likely to be the first all-foreign encounter in the history of the championship.

The Bears also scored in the second quarter, Erwin Madsen, 165 pound half back, formerly of Austin High school, returning the kickoff 85 yards to cross the All-Star goal line. The game ended with the ball in the Bears' possession on the All-Star 10 yard line. The lineup:

DIEGEL, COOPER LEAD WITH 67'S IN CANADIAN OPEN

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Two veteran members of the American pro golfing brigade, Leo Diegel and Harry Cooper, took the lead in the Canadian open golf tournament today with first round scores of 67, three strokes under par for the St. Andrew's course. Two strokes behind were Ed Oliver of Wilmington, Del., and Bill Burke, Ohio professional.

Lawson Little, who played sensationally to win the title with a 271 last year, was well behind the leaders with a 74 and Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., a pre-tournament favorite, had a 75.

The Discus Throw Is an Old Sport But It Has Changed

(This is the third of a series of articles on the origin and development of several events in the program of track and field competition.)

Because texts on ancient history which high school sophomores of this and preceding generations have perused always contained a print of Myron's Discobolus in the section devoted to Hellenic art, the discus throw long has been associated with the Olympic games, perhaps more so than any other event in the present list of track and field events. Actually, however, throwing the discus was a minor event in the Hellenic games and it was one of the later forms of competition adopted.

The Grecian discus was not standardized as to size, weight, or material. Consequently there could not be as widespread interest in the event as there was, for instance, in sprint races over the accepted distance of one stadion, which at Olympus was 210 yards. This race, basis of the first Olympic competitions, was the only short sprint. The distance depended, of course, on the length of the amphitheater. But the stadion, measured by the distance of the race at the quadrennial Olympic matches, approximately conformed to the present 220 yard dash.

It's a Different Discus.

It means nothing therefore by comparison to say that Willi Schroeder of Germany threw the discus 174 feet 2½ inches in 1935 for a world record. For the discus which Willi Schroeder threw and which is used by such stars in the United States track and field galaxy as Ken Carpenter, Gordon Dunn, and Phil Levy, who won the recent National A. A. U. games at Milwaukee, weighs 4 pounds and 5 and 55/100 ounces. The disci of the Greeks, judging by those recovered in excavations and now preserved in museums, ranged in weight from 3 to 12½ pounds.

Homer wrote frequently of the discus throw, but the competition seems to have been more on the order of hurling medium sized rocks or lumps of unwrought iron.

Many of the disci now on exhibition were made from marble. Several are entirely too fragile to have been used and, since these are inscribed with the names of gods and national heroes, they may have been used as religious offerings. Of the 15 metal disci which have been preserved, eight were recovered at Olympia. The lightest of these presumably were used by boys, while the 12½ pound disci were for adults.

Discus Rules Are Modern.

Not only is there a wide divergence between the weight of the ancient quoit or discus used by the Hellenes and the modern missil, but there is only one certain record for the competition in ancient Greece. It is recorded that Phayllus threw the discus 95 Olympic feet, approximately 100 English feet, but there is no mention of the weight of that discus.

The Greeks conceived their gods in human form and their lore included many tales of competition between the gods and with men. Of such tradition is the story of the beginning of the Olympic games when Zeus wrestled Cronus for control of the world. Thus it is not strange that the best account of the form of throwing the discus is an account of the accidental killing of Hyacinthus by Apollo with a misdirected discus. This account describes the place from which the discus was thrown and the method of throwing.

No Boundary Behind.

"The place of throwing is small and sufficient for one man, marked off except from behind, and it supports the right leg, the front part of the body leaning forward while it takes the weight off the other leg which is to be swung forward and follow through with the right hand. The thrower is to bend his head to the right and stoop so as to catch a glimpse of his right side, and to throw the discus with a rope-like pull and putting all the force of the right side into the throw."

From this it is logical to assume that the Grecian discus thrower could run forward to the throwing line before releasing the discus. This method is in sharp contrast to the modern style.

A Minor Sport to the Greeks.

The Greeks were far more interested during the 1,100-year span of their Olympic games in running, boxing, and wrestling than in throwing the discus whether for distance or for accuracy. This same indifference found counterpart in England and the continent in the early days of the revival of international track and field competition. But when athletes concentrated on the discus event, they soon raised the records.

In 1896 in the first Olympic games at Athens, the discus throw was won by R. S. Garrett, of the United States, with a mark of only 95 feet 7½ inches. Four years later Bauer, of Hungary, tossed the discus 118 feet 2 9-10 inches. M. J. Sheridan of the United States won the Olympic discus throws in 1904 and 1906 and advanced his own record from 128 feet feet 10½ inches to 136 feet ⅓ inch. In the subsequent three decades the mark has been raised time and again to nearly 175 feet.

Bass Are Hungry at Lake Geneva; Fish Deep for 'Em

BY BOB BECKER.

The bass in Lake Geneva have been giving fishermen a lot of fun recently. When we visited the lake a few days ago the wind was blowing hard and it was not easy to fish the most desirable weed bars in deep water. But in spite of rather adverse conditions we found the fish willing to hit soft shell crawfish, the bait that nearly everybody uses during the warm months.

From the time the bass move into deep water on through the summer it's deep water fishing at Lake Geneva, a situation that prevails in nearly all large lakes near by. The other day we drifted over bars that were 12 to 20 feet deep.

We found the rock bass active, one pickerel socked our lure, bluegills bothered us too much of the time, and both small and large mouthed bass also were on the job.

Our fishing partner, L. B., started the morning right with lots of exercise because he hooked several small bass, all of legal length. But back they went into the lake to grow some more. Then he connected with a dandy 2½ pounder which put up a grand fight on light tackle. These fish were taken in water that was anywhere from 15 to 25 feet deep.

The bluegills were so numerous and such a bother that we had to move to another location to get rid of them. The fishing system called for going upwind at the upper end of the bar and then drifting downwind over the weed bed.

Around 11:30 in the morning we were fishing in about 20 feet of water . . . slowly drifting with the wind. We had a fly rod in action at this time. When we set the hook in a fish that grabbed our lure we had no idea it was one of any size, because the 11 and 12 inch small mouthed bass had been hitting. Few large ones had shown any interest in our tempting lures.

When the tip of our rod set the hook in this one there was the feel of a heavy one. Such proved to be the case. It took us five minutes to get that small-mouth close to the boat. This scrapper weighed 3 pounds 7 ounces.

Three Softball Games Open Meet Tonight

The 1937 world's amateur softball championship tournament will open with three games tonight at Soldiers' field. Competition will be resumed tomorrow morning and will continue with games morning, afternoon, and evening until the men's and women's titles are decided Monday night.

Both of last year's defending champions, Kodak Park, Rochester, N. Y., and National Manufacturing Company Girls, Cleveland, O., will appear on tonight's card. The easterners will face the Chicago titleholder, Champagne Velvet, while the girls will engage the Langley Girls of Toronto, Ont.

The program will open at 7 o'clock with an intercity slow pitching championship game between North Shore Congregation the Chicago winner, and the winner of an elimination tournament staged in Detroit. This will be the only slow pitching game in the meet, all others being staged with fast pitching and the 12 inch ball.

Between the opening game and the second contest, in which the girls will appear, an impressive ceremony will be staged. Approximately 1,500 uniformed players will parade. Eighty-eight teams from 43 states and Canada are entered in the tournament.

GIANTS SPLIT 2 WITH BROOKLYN TO ADD TO LEAD

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The pace making New York Giants cushioned the defeat of their southpaw star, Carl Hubbell, by beating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 9 to 2, in the second half of a double-header today. The even break, while the Cubs were losing to St. Louis, increased the Giants' lead to three full games in the National league pennant chase.

Young Luke Hamlin's six hit pitching was too much for the Giants and Babe Phelps' hitting, including a three run homer in the first inning, was too much for Hubbell, and the Dodgers won the first game, 5 to 1.

ROGELL'S SINGLE IN NINTH BEATS INDIANS, 10 TO 9

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Billy Rogell's single with the bases full in the ninth inning enabled the Detroit Tigers to beat the Cleveland Indians, 10 to 9, today.

Four Indian pitchers, Dennis Galehouse, Earl Whitehill, Willis Hudlin, and Mel Harder saw service, Harder being charged with the defeat. Detroit used three pitchers, Roxie Lawson, Pat McLaughlin, and George Gill, with Gill receiving credit for the victory.

ing after two were gone in the home third, but Hack fouled to Gutteridge. Gutteridge opened the fourth with a pop single to center, but Root stopped the next three men. Then in the fifth Stainback had to put on a thriller to keep the tie from dissolving. After Brown had singled with one out Mize spanked a long drive to left center and it appeared to be good for a run until Stainback, sprinting across the field with the speed of a gun shy rabbit, reached up with his gloved hand and plucked the ball out of space.

Root's decline set in when Ogrodowski opened the seventh with a single to left, after which Warneke furnished the customary sacrifice. Root's first pitch to Moore was converted into a single to center, Ogrodowski hiking home. Moore was forced by Brown and then the Cardinals revealed their Gas House gang tendencies. Mize drew a walk. Medwick, who hadn't produced a hit during the series, broke the evil spell by singling to right, Brown scoring. Padgett singled to the same spot and Mize skipped across the plate. Parmelee came to the rescue and fanned Gutteridge for the third out.

Bat Parmelee Hard.

The rough housing of Parmelee in the eighth began with a single by Durocher, who was bunted to second by Ogrodowski. Warneke punched a single into left to score Durocher. Moore added fuel to the fire by singling to right, Brown flied out and just about the time Parmelee figured he was going to escape, Mize was heard from. He hit the new brick wall in right center for three bases, Warneke and Moore scoring.

Warneke softened up a bit in the home eighth and the Cubs hung up their second run. Galan led off with a double to right, the first hit off the Arkansan since Hartnett's single in the third. Galan scored eventually on Hartnett's second single of the day.

A little of everything was tossed in as an ingredient for the run scored by the Cardinals in the ninth. Padgett walked, went to second on a wild pitch, and scored on a single by Durocher, who went to third on two errors perpetrated while the Cubs were trying to get his single back to the infield.

Sarron Beats South African Welterweight

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Pete Sarron, the touring N. B. A. featherweight champion from Birmingham, Ala., won his second fight within a week by outpointing Teddy Braun, South African welterweight champion, in a ten round bout tonight.

Cubs' Protest on Force Play Is Ruled Out

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The Chicago Cubs' protest of a disputed play in the second game of their double-header with the Pittsburgh Pirates last Sunday was disallowed by President Ford Frick of the National league today. The play occurred in the fifth inning and the game was played out under protest, the Pirates winning, 4 to 1.

In announcing his decision, Frick said the rule governing such cases was not clear and a clarifying amendment would be suggested at the National league's next meeting.

The disputed play occurred when with one run in, one out and the bases filled, Lloyd Waner of the Pirates grounded to Second Baseman Billy Herman, who threw the ball to Catcher Gabby Hartnett in time to force Bill Brubaker at the plate. Umpire Magerkurth called Brubaker out, but reversed his decision when Umpire Lee Ballanfant, who officiated on the bases, said he had called Pitcher Ed Brandt out for running out of the base line from first to second. Brandt's out made a force play at home plate inoperative and since Brubaker had not been tagged out, he was declared safe and the run counted.

The Cubs claimed that Herman made no play on Brandt and the Pirate pitcher could not have run out of line to avoid being tagged, and that they had not heard Ballanfant declare Brandt out.

Carleton to Face Weiland in Last Game of Series

The Cubs will use Tex Carleton against the Cardinals today in the final game of the series and the last game at Wrigley field until Tuesday. The Cards' starter will be Bob Weiland, the former White Sox southpaw.

◆

Rip Collins, the Cubs' first baseman who had promised to be back in action by this week-end, now is convinced that his reappearance will be delayed indefinitly. The right ankle, fractured in a game Aug. 10, still is too weak to allow anything more than gentle exercise.

◆

Randy Moore, former White Sox outfielder who was with the Cardinals for three weeks because he refused to accept a sentence with one of their chain store clubs, was sent back to St. Louis yesterday. The Cards' officials will endeavor to find a berth satisfactory to the Texan.

◆

Sox Win 9-8 Battle of Hits from Browns

Cain came in to pitch at the start of the fourth. Silber singled to center and went to third on Allen's single to right center. Bell fouled to Sewell but Vosmik singled to center, scoring Silber.

Things Start to Happen.

Hayes opened the fifth with a single to center, but Kreevich continued hitless in the series with a fly to Silber. Walker and Radcliff walked, filling the bases. Trotter pitched two wide ones to Appling, whereupon he was yanked and Van Atta went in and threw two more wide ones to Luke, passing him and forcing Hayes across the plate. Hildebrand replaced Van Atta. Dykes forced Appling, Walker scoring and Radcliff stopping at third.

Conners came through with his third straight hit and sixth of the two game series, a single to left, which scored Radcliff. Conners then ran to second base, which was occupied by Dykes. In a protracted run down Dykes was tagged for the third out.

The Browns resumed the lead in the fifth on their eleventh and twelfth hits, which sandwiched an error by Kreevich. The Sox tied it in the sixth, making a run on singles by Cain, Hayes, and Walker.

Jolt Koupal in Eighth.

The Sox took a 7 to 6 lead in the seventh. Appling beat out an infield single. Dykes and Conners supplied outs. Hildebrand tried to knock down Sewell's hot shot with his bare hand. One of his fingers was broken and the ball caromed into left field for a single, Appling scoring. Walkup replaced Hildebrand.

The Sox added two runs in the eighth against Koupal, fifth Brownie pitcher. With one out, Kreevich singled to center for his first hit of the series and went to third on Walker's single to center. Radcliff grounded to Clift, but Lipscomb dropped the throw on an attempted double play, Kreevich scoring. Appling singled to left, scoring Walker. Dykes hit into a double play.

Dykes let Cain shuffle off after Allen, Bell and Vosmik had knocked singles for a run in the last of the eighth. Brown replaced Cain. Clift fouled to Sewell, Lipscomb flied to Kreevich, and Huffman forced Vosmik.

The Browns made a run in the ninth on Bottomley's double, Appling's error, and an infield out.

Sanitary Engineers Hold Golf Tourney Finals Today

Williams Meets Carpenter in Secondary Feature.

Max Marek will put his state heavyweight championship on the block for the second time tonight at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. His opponent in a ten round bout will be Art Oliver.

Danger of losing the crown he won by conquering Billy Treest in the same arena last Dec. 30 doesn't appear as great as when Marek made his successful defense of it by fighting to a draw with Harry Thomas at the Coliseum April 28.

On that occasion the champion had to cope with Thomas' slugging style, a style similar to that possessed by Marek. In Oliver he will face a boxer, who concentrates on skill.

Paul Williams, south side heavyweight conquerer of Lem Franklin, will test Ralph Carpenter of Los Angeles in the six round secondary feature. Max Zona, Chicago Heights stablemate of Marek, who is fighting under the colors of the Catholic Youth organization, has been substituted for Bill Palmer in a six rounder against Chet Le Vere. Carl Vinciquerra opposes Tony Musto, and Young Jack Blackburn clashes with Buddy Short, also at six rounds.

◆

Sam Consolu, featherweight from the 124th Field Artillery armory, and Willie Kline of Franklin park will meet in the five round windup bout of the amateur card tonight at Northwest stadium, 4848 Irving Park boulevard. . . . Mike Pereira, Houston, Tex., welterweight, is paired with Chester Rudy, California, in a five round combat on the program topped by George Salvadore and Harold Brown at Marigold Monday. Matches at four rounds involve Phil Rosenberg and Les Francis, Art Wilhelm and Sonny Ballard. . . . Joe Louis will return this week-end from a tour with the Brown Bomber's softball team. Mrs. Louis is en route to Los Angeles to attend a Baptist convention there and will not return until next Thursday. She is being accompanied by her brother, Walter Trotter, Baptist minister from Waukegan, and her sister, Mrs. Marie Moore, Chicago. . . . An amateur program will be presented under the auspices of St. Aloysius church, Claremont avenue and Le Moyne, Sept. 29 involving fighters from the Catholic Youth organization. . . . Cliff Thiede and Bobby Bruns have been added to the wrestling card at White City Monday. Rudy Kay and Pat Kelly will meet, as will Fred Grubmier and Jack Conley. F. M.

DOTTER INJURED; RECOVERS; HE'LL BE UP ON MARICA

Star Jocky Ready for Gold Cup Tomorrow.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Jocky assignments were made yesterday for the eighth running of the $15,000 Gold Cup race at Hawthorne tomorrow but later in the afternoon it looked as if Thomas D. Taggart of French Lick Springs would have to scurry around and find somebody to replace Bobby Dotter on his mare Marica.

Dotter was in the saddle on Courtly Lady when the parade to the post started for the first race. Soon after the horses reached the track Courtly Lady stumbled and fell. Dotter went flying out of the saddle. He was carried to the track hospital, but was revived and was able to resume riding in the fourth race.

Steffen to Ride Eagle Pass.

Earl Steffen is coming on from New York to ride Valdina Farm's Eagle Pass; S. Young is coming from Canada to ride Dellor; J. Bryson will be here from Detroit to mount Tempestous and F. A. Smith came from Narragansett to ride the South American mare, Sahri II.

The early betting on the outcome of the Gold cup showed the Millsdale stable's Infantry as the favorite at 5 to 2 with Marica the second choice at 7 to 2. Dellor was at 5 to 1 and Tempestuous and Eagle Pass both were held at 8 to 1. Long odds prevailed against all the others in the field, which is as follows:

	Weight.	Jocky.
Tempestuous	120	J. Bryson
Marica	120	B. Dotter
Infantry	116	C. Corbett
Dellor	114	S. Young
Eagle Pass	114	E. Steffen
Sir Jim James	110	J. Jacobs
Sahri II.	110	F. A. Smith
Rushaway	110	L. Haas
The Queen	108	G. South
Prince Torch	108	C. Landolt

Hold Final Workouts.

Final training moves for the Gold Cup took place yesterday morning. Sahri II. showed more speed than any of the others when she galloped six furlongs in 1:13 3-5. Rushaway went the same distance in 1:15 1-5 but was full of run at the finish.

Final plans went forward yesterday for staging the Gold Cup. The secondary feature on the big program will be the $2,500 added Hawthorne Speed handicap. It attracted 21 nominations, including that of Marica. Howard Wells, trainer of the latter, announced yesterday, however, that Marica would try for the cup. She's never been asked to run a mile and a quarter before.

The Gold Cup may be one of her few remaining starts before she is retired for breeding purposes. Her next probably will be in a stake race at Keeneland next month and that likely will mark the end of her racing career.

REPAID, well ridden, began slowly, obtained room between horses when beginning to move up on the far turn, swung to the outside entering the stretch and, closing strongly disposed of the leaders and won with something left. FRENCH BOY was under light restraint to the stretch, where he held on courageously. ITO saved much ground and also ran a game race.

HONEY ROLL, fractious at the post but away fast, followed the pace under restraint to the stretch, took command quickly and won with speed in reserve. WAKA, also rank at the post, was a contender from the start, lost ground much of the race and, wearing down WAR JEST, outstayed DOUG BRASHEAR. Latter, on the extreme outside throughout, was under vigorous urging from the start, responded in the stretch and was going well at the end.

BOARD TRADE, away fast, was taken under a snug hold after opening up a commanding lead in the first three-eighths, sustained good speed to the end and had something left. MARIE JEAN, under a steady hold for almost five-eighths, responded strongly when called upon, came around BENEDICTION gradually and was going away at the end. Latter, strongly restrained for a half mile, raced to a good lead under energetic riding and held on well, but could not hold the winner. EVA R, taken back at the start, improved her position steadily, came to the outside in the stretch and closed with good courage.

TOP DOG, away fast but taken over sh rply and blocking PUNDT before reaching the first turn, was rated under steady restraint for three-quarters, swerved out when shaken up entering the stretch and continue to race wide while holding MASKER safe. Latter, well in hand early, began to move u slowly after reaching the stretch turn, raced wide when under strong pressure in the stretch and was slowly getting to the winner. ALSANG, badly out run to the stretch, came with a rush in the last three-sixteenths.

LE MISERABLE, much the best and bearing out badly on the second turn, began to move up approaching the stretch, overtook FIRE ADVANCE without need of strong urging and was going away fast at the end. FIRE ADVANCE, under stout reserve early, took command easily and held on well under pressure but was no match for the winner. DENBIGH saved much ground and tired in the late stages but outlasted AMERICAN PRINCE.

TRY, TRY AGAIN! TOP DOG DOES; FINALLY WINS

Backers of Favorites Get Relief at Hawthorne.

After seven unsuccessful attempts to win a race in Chicago this season, Top Dog went to the post as the 7 to 5 favorite in the West Side handicap at a mile and a sixteenth at Hawthorne yesterday and finally delivered for his backers.

In front from start to finish, he passed the payoff line a length and a half in front of Masker, a recent arrival here from the east. Alsang finished third. Top Dog ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:45 3-5.

Top Dog apparently caught the favorite winning fever that prevailed among the horses at Hawthorne yesterday. He was the fourth public choice to win during the afternoon. This was the first breathing spell the backers of favorites have enjoyed since the Hawthorne season opened.

Board Trade, which formerly raced for Ald. John Coughlin but which is now the property of V. E. Berry, became the first double winner of the Hawthorne season when he scored easily in the six and a half furlong fourth race. Well Heeled was second and Royal Charm third. Board Trade was the odds-on favorite at $3.80 in the betting.

Two top heavy favorites, Bobbrax and Repaid, won the first and second races yesterday, which brought a daily double payoff of $10.80.

Joseph A. Murphy, honorary steward at Hawthorne, is coming here from Detroit to present the gold cup to the winner of tomorrow's $15,000 mile and a quarter struggle.

COLE AND SALL, AUTO WINNERS, ASKED TO RACE

Negotiations were opened yesterday by Promoter Carl Stockholm for the appearance of Hal Cole and Bob Sall in the closing automobile racing program at the Fair Grounds speedway a week from Sunday.

Cole and Sall are eastern drivers who came west several weeks ago and won top money in previous meetings at the Fair Grounds.

George Connor, Jimmy Snyder, and Frank Wearne, winners of the other three features in the Fair Grounds series, already have entered the Sept. 19 program.

Snyder holds the record for qualifying time at Indianapolis with a mark of 126 miles per hour, while Connor holds the world record for the one mile circular track, created at Springfield last fall. Wearne, the California dirt track champion last winter; Sall, eastern dirt track champion, and Cole, a consistent winner all summer, are three of the country's leading dirt track drivers.

Stockholm is confident he will be able to sign Sall and Cole in the next day or two.

FRANCE AGAIN GIVEN BANK AID; MONEY SLUMPS

Price Lowest Since Crisis of 1926.

The international value of French currency fell abruptly yesterday in principal world markets when publication of the weekly statement of the Bank of France disclosed currency circulation in France had reached a record figure and that the government had again been forced to go to the central bank for temporary loans.

The franc tumbled to 3.63¼ cents in New York, the lowest figure at which it has been quoted since the monetary crisis in 1926. The break in the New York market was preceded by earlier declines in Paris and London. The price quoted represented a decline of nearly a tenth of a cent from Wednesday's quotation of 3.72 5-16 cents.

Total Largest in History.

Bank note circulation in France increased 1,747,000,000 francs [approximately $65,500,000] in the week ended Sept. 2, the period covered by the report. The expansion brought the total to 90,001,000,000 francs [approximately $3,375,000,000], the largest in the history of the central bank.

The expansion in currency is accounted for to some extent by the seasonal increase in commercial demand, but it was pointed out that the circulation is now running about 6 per cent above this time last year. The gain is seen as evidence that the Chautemps government has failed in its efforts to bring a return of hoarded currency.

Borrow More from Bank.

The French government borrowed another 800 million francs [about $30,000,000] from the central bank, the statement showed. Since June 30 the government has drawn down 3,900,000,000 francs [$146,250,000] of the 15,000,000,000 [$562,500,000] which it was authorized to borrow under the special decree power given to Finance Minister Georges Bonnet.

The central bank's present loans to the state, aggregating 26,018,000,000 francs [$722,000,000], compare with the all-time high of 38,350,000,000 francs [$1,065,200,000] reached in July, 1926, at the peak of the post-war inflation.

Resort to Blum Method.

When the Chautemps government came to power last June it made a deliberate effort to avoid the example set by the former Blum government which financed itself through temporary loans from the central bank. Its program of fiscal and tax reform was designed to place government finances on a sound basis. In the last two weeks, however, the government has resorted to the same borrowing that brought the Blum government to its end. This type of financing was a principal factor in the extreme currency circulation in France after the war.

Foreign currencies, other than the franc, were also lower yesterday in terms of American funds. The British pound declined 7-16 cent to $4.94⅜.

The New York reserve bank reported the engagement yesterday of $4,673,000 gold for shipment to New York.

SPAIN TAKES ACTION.

MADRID, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The Spanish government disclosed tonight it has taken steps to check the fall of the peseta in foreign markets by stamping all currency taken out of the country. It attributed the weakness of the government currency to illegal exportations for speculation. The finance ministry said the measures already have proved successful, and predicted that the foreign value of the peseta may be brought back close to its purchasing value within Spain. The peseta was worth about 13.6 cents just before the outbreak of the Spanish civil war July 13, 1936. It is quoted now in foreign exchange at about 6.2 cents.

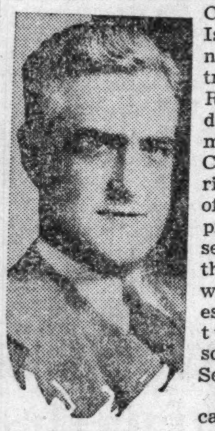
Peoria Almost Suburb for Rocket Trains

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.



J. D. Farrington.

Running at a speed that promises to make Peoria almost a suburb of Chicago, the Rock Island railroad's new streamlined train, the Peoria Rocket, yesterday gave 150 members of the Chicago and Peoria Associations of Commerce a preview of a service between the two cities which is to be established on a twice a day schedule about Sept. 19.

Leaving Chicago at 7:30 a. m., central standard time, from the La Salle street station, the Rocket arrived in Peoria at 10:10 a. m., making the run in 2 hours and 40 minutes. The present fastest time is 3 hours and 30 minutes. The return trip was made in about the same time.

Average 65 Miles an Hour.

According to the proposed schedule the Rocket will run the 161 miles between the two cities in 160 minutes. Because of the necessity for running slow out of Chicago, this means that the average speed will be about 65 miles an hour.

J. D. Farrington, chief operating officer of the Rock Island, said he expects the time will be reduced when the track has been improved and adjustments have been made. Farrington said the cost of fuel for the 1,200 horsepower Diesel-electric locomotive that pulled the train was about $5 for each trip. He added that the coal cost for a train of similar makeup is "considerably" more." The Rocket consists of four stainless steel cars, with a total capacity of 177 passengers.

Expects Increased Trafic.

C. A. Pattison, vice president of the Peoria Malleable Castings company, said he expects the new train will create much new business.

"I make about fifty trips a year to Chicago," Pattison said. "In the past I have made most of the trips in my auto because the arrival and departure times of the trains were inconvenient.

"Further, my wife and daughter frequently wanted to go along. The result was that a trip for us all by train made $50 melt away. Now we can get a round trip for a little over $5 apiece and there are no sleeper or other charges.

Back Home to Sleep.

"Driving by automobile has been getting more difficult all the time and we in Peoria are going to welcome this new service. The Rocket will enable us to get a train out early in the morning, transact our business in Chicago, and be back in time to sleep at home."

Among those who made the trip today were: C. L. Rice, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce; James E. Gorman, veteran president of the Rock Island; B. C. Heacock, president of the Caterpillar Tractor company; H. J. Neumiller, president of the Peoria Association of Commerce, and Lewis Bernays, British consul general in Chicago.

BANKER'S BANKRUPTCY PLEA PLAUSIBLE; OWES 20 MILLION, ASSETS NIL

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Bernard K. Marcus, former president of the defunct Bank of United States, filed a petition in bankruptcy in federal court late today.

Marcus in his petition said his only asset, which he would surrender to his creditors, consisted of one item—approximately 100,000 shares of Bank of United States stock and stock of the Bankus corporation—an affiliate. The shares have no value. Although he failed to list liabilities, Marcus named twelve creditors, including the superintendent of banks.

Asa Herzog, counse for Marcus, said later that total liabilities would probably reach $20,000,000.

Marcus served two years of a three to six year sentence on a charge involving the misapplication of funds of the closed bank. He was remanded to Sing Sing on March 21, 1933, following a twelve week trial in 1931. The bank collapsed in December, 1930.

RFC TO LET BANKS MAKE 1.5 PCT. ON COTTON LOANS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation announced today banks and other leading agencies may make loans to producers of the 1937 cotton crop at 4 per cent interest and sell them to the Commodity Credit corporation at par and accrued interest at the rate of 2½ per cent.

Jones said the banks may sell notes to the Commodity Credit corporation at any time prior to next July 31. The loans, he said must be made in accordance with RFC requirements. The RFC has allotted $150,000,000 to the Commodity Credit corporation to enable it to make or purchase 1937-'38 cotton loans. Banks or other approved lending agencies can rely on this commitment for their "take-out."

Cotton holdings of the crops of 1934 and prior years of the Commodity Credit corporation, accumulated under loan programs, have been withdrawn from the market, Jones said, in order not to embarrass operation of the new loan and subsidy plan.

No Social Security Taxes for Corporation Directors

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The internal revenue bureau ruled today that corporation directors are exempt from social security taxes. When an individual draws pay both as an officer and as a director, however, the sums paid him as an officer are taxable under the security act, the bureau ruled.

U. S. Farmers Make Profit on Wheat Surplus

soviet union is not expected to have large quantities of wheat to export. Russia is therefore not expected to furnish serious competition for the United States in foreign markets.

It is significant to growers in this country that ships loaded with wheat are now going out of instead of coming into the United States. Net wheat imports for the last four years averaged about 20 million bushels a year, while during the four years preceding 1933 this country's annual net export of wheat averaged more than 100 million bushels.

Consumers Also Benefit.

Rye growers in the United States also are in a favorable position. Their crop is nearly double last year's harvest, while the world rye crop is short. The total of sixteen countries is 684 million bushels as against 741 million bushels last year. This improves the export demand. Growers in this country have raised 52 million bushels this year compared with 26 million last year.

In a wide survey of the American farmer's situation, Mr. Murray points out that production of all farm crops this year is about 25 per cent above last year. Based on 1938 May futures for leading commodities, the price level for all commodities may be expected to be about 10 per cent less than last year. The farmers will increase their gross income by about one billion dollars and at the same time give consumers more for their dollars. Thus both the producer and the consumer stand to gain by this year's larger crops.

Urge Crop Control.

While farmers were counting the profits from their exportable surplus, the board of directors of the American farm bureau here yesterday adopted a resolution asking President Roosevelt to call a special session of congress in November for the purpose of drafting acreage control legislation.

The federation's resolution also demands stabilization of prices of basic crops, other than cotton through loans or other means.

INT. TELEPHONE EARNINGS RISE FOR HALF YEAR

War Damage Abroad Still Uncertain.

Sosthenes Behn.

The International Telephone and Telegraph corporation yesterday reported consolidated net income of $4,285,854 for the first half of 1937, equal to 67 cents a share on 6,399,002 shares of stock, against $1,662,374, or 26 cents a share, in the 1936 period.

Any income or losses from Spanish subsidiaries are excluded for both periods. The 1937 period included $259,524 income from two Shanghai subsidiaries, which was slightly above such income in the first half of 1936.

Second quarter net profit was $2,627,416, against $846,406 a year ago, and the first quarter net profit was $1,658,438, against $815,968 in the 1936 period. Gross earnings for the six months totaled $31,324,957, against $26,243,781 in the 1936 period.

War Damage Unknown.

The company's statement, issued by Sostenes Behn, president, shed no new light on the present status of its Spanish subsidiary, merely reiterating a previous announcement that it was impossible at this time to ascertain or estimate what losses, if any, had been suffered. Concerning its properties in Shanghai, however, the statement said only minor damage had thus far been reported.

Behn said that following the French government decree, effective July 1, removing the limits to exchange movements of the franc, a decline in the value of the franc caused a net reduction of about $1,100,000 in value of the net current assets of the International system, which was charged to the reserve for foreign exchange as of June 30. The balance in this reserve after the above charge amounted to $4,143,000.

Mother Lode Mine to Close.

Charles Earl, president of the Mother Lode Coalition Mines company, affiliate of Kennecott Copper company, told stockholders that profit for six months ended June 30 was $988,865, equal to 40 cents a share on the capital stock. In the corresponding 1936 period profit was $177,150, or 7 cents a share.

Earl said the mine of the company is near exhaustion and will have to be abandoned after extraction of a small remaining ore reserve consisting on July 31 of about 38,500 tons of ore. About 5,800 tons of copper should be recovered from the reserves, Earl said, and in addition the company has about 5,200 tons of copper on hand and in process.

City Stores, holding company whose subsidiaries operate dry goods stores in the east and south, lost $27,476 in the quarter ended July 31, compared with loss of $7,726 in the July quarter of 1936. The company had a profit of $68,958 for the six months ended July 31, compared with $87,112 earned in the corresponding six months last year.

Mining Concern Earns Less.

Lake Shore Mines, one of the largest gold producers in Canada, had net income of $8,301,057, equal after depreciation and taxes to $4.15 a common share, a substantial decline from profit of $9,675,400, or $4.83 a share, in the previous year.

L. C. Smith and Corona Typewriters, Inc., reported profit of $1,096,297, equal to $3.90 a share on 241,217 common shares, for the fiscal year ended June 30, compared with profit of $709,279, or $3.25 a share on 165,442 shares, in the preceding year.

Meat Production in August Sets 17-Year Low for Month

Production of meat in the United States last month was the smallest for August in seventeen years, the department of agriculture reported yesterday. Packers under federal inspection produced approximately 799,800,000 pounds of beef, veal, pork, lard, and lamb, compared with 997,447,000 pounds in the same month last year and 1,163,763,000 in August, 1933, the month the pig killing by the government began.

The greatest decrease was again in pork. Approximately 266,832,000 pounds were produced, which was 136,366,000 pounds less than in August, 1936, a decline of 33 per cent.

Beef Output Declines.

Beef amounted to 422,208,000 pounds, compared with 482,883,000 last year. Veal totaled 53,840,000 pounds, compared with 59,366,000 a year ago, while lamb at 56,920,000 pounds compared with 52,001,000 in August, 1936.

During the month packers slaughtered only 1,569,570 hogs, the smallest total for August since 1896, when the nation's population was much smaller. A year ago 2,253,964 hogs were killed, also abnormally low for August.

The August cattle kill this year at 879,632 head compares with 1,011,743 a year ago. Calves totaled 538,372, compared with 540,801 last year, and sheep amounted to 1,497,898, against 1,395,374 a year ago.

One of the sharpest price advances in recent weeks occurred in cattle and hogs yesterday, stimulated by dwindling receipts and a rise in wholesale meat markets. In the last three days the top price for pork loins in Chicago has risen $2.50 per hundred pounds, reaching $27 yesterday.

The hog market opened 10 to 15 cents higher, and closed 25 cents or more higher for the various grades. The day's top price at $11.90 showed a 20 cent gain, while the average at $10.95 was 25 cents higher.

Cattle Hit New Peak.

A new nineteen year September peak was established in the cattle market when a shipment of 1,221 pound steers brought $18.75.

The additional advances of 15 to 25 cents yesterday brought the general cattle price back to a parity with early last week before the severe break in prices.

Sheep and lambs were steady. The top natives to city butchers reached $10.85, while packers bought in this class at $10.50 or under. Top range lambs to packers brought $10.75.

BANK CLEARINGS CUT BY HOLIDAY; EXCEED YEAR AGO

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Bank clearings in the week ended yesterday receded sharply from the preceding period as a result of the Labor day holiday, but were $215,495,000 above the total for the holiday week a year ago, according to figures issued today by Dun and Bradstreet.

The volume of clearings for the five day period aggregated $4,434,738,000, a drop of $829,544,000 from the preceding week. In the similar 1936 period the total was $4,219,243,000, or $1,623,027,000 lower than in the preceding week.

Chicago's clearings of $277,800,000 were 18.4 per cent over a year ago. Transactions at New York City aggregated $2,690,568,000, a loss of 0.2 per cent from $2,696,971,000 a year earlier.

DROP IN STOCKS 'FREEZES' MANY MARGIN TRADES

New York, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Wall street heard today the slump in stock prices since mid-August had "frozen" a large proportion of margin trading accounts under federal credit regulations.

In one quarter it was estimated nearly 60 per cent, on the average, of margin accounts carried by stock exchange firms at the close of trading yesterday had become "restricted" because the remaining equity of account owners failed to meet the requirements of 55 per cent cash for making additional purchases.

FOREIGN INSURANCE FIRMS BLAMED FOR DECLINE IN STOCKS

Selling of securities by British, French and Dutch insurance companies which have big potential obligations in the orient was reported yesterday in La Salle street to have touched off the recent sharp decline in American stock markets.

This information was relayed to Chicago investment bankers by individuals in New York who are usually well informed concerning the source of foreign buying and selling. It attracted much interest here, especially by old timers who recalled the shock to the stock market in 1906 when American fire insurance companies were forced to sell a large amount of securities to pay off claims resulting from the San Francisco earthquake and fire.

According to the information received here foreign insurance companies were selling not only in American markets but in Europe. At the time of the worst break in stocks here early this week prices also slumped in London and other European financial centers.

PUBLIC BUYS ON BREAK.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The Securities and Exchange commission said today the public bought heavily on the New York Stock exchange Tuesday when the market fell sharply. On that day 14,443 odd-lot orders involving 369,272 shares were placed, compared with 8,729 selling orders involving 258,848 shares.

STOCKS RALLY SHARPLY FROM RECENT SLUMP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 9.—The stock market made an about face today, with short covering and fresh buying pushing prices up fractions to about 4 points. Steels, motors, nonferrous metals, farm equipments, and rails were predominant in the upswing. Utilities also worked higher. Small profit taking sales in the later dealings were taken in stride and barely pared the day's best gains.

The turnover was not as large as during the two preceding sessions, but there were several spurts of activity. Volume for the day was around 1,411,000 shares. Sentiment in market circles was said to be more cheerful than for some time. Many traders found satisfaction in the fact that the market's structure had withstood the battering of the two most recent sessions and had rebounded.

Sentiment More Cheerful.

Better sentiment abroad, as evidenced by dispatches from London saying the street market was jammed after the close of stock exchange trading there, with traders excitedly bidding up American securities in line with the advance in New York, coupled with the realization that the expected business lull had been overemphasized, were said to be contributing factors in the advance.

Another favorable development was the reports from brokers with out of town connections that their clients had not been much affected by the fear and nervousness that had forced local dealers to dump stocks into the market for whatever price they would bring. An accumulation of overnight orders lifted initial prices fractions to around two points, resulting from the fact that little stock was offered.

Steel Shares Strong.

U. S. Steel common started two points higher at 99, with other steels in close attendance. However, while "Big Steel" hovered around that figure, other steels improved their positions. Bethlehem was outstanding with a gain of 3⅝ points.

With buying—some of which was said to be for foreign account—increasing, railroad shares pushed ahead to as much as 3 points, although scattered selling on the upturn shaved part of the gains.

In the motors Chrysler opened 2 points higher at 99 and closed at 100½ for a 3¼ point net gain. General Motors was in brisk demand, gaining 1⅛ points.

Farm equipments advanced broadly, Case Threshing making a 4 point jump. Deere, International Harvester, Allis-Chalmers, and Oliver advanced one to more than two points. Merchandising issues also advanced, Sears-Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, and Marshall Field adding 1¼ to 2⅜ points.

Several oil stocks proved as thin on the upside as the downside, Standard of New Jersey and Texas Corporation jumping more than two points each.

Copper shares were strong in active dealings. Gains ranged from fractions to 4½ points, the latter margin being chalked up by Howe Sound.

Chemicals ran up gains of two or more points. Douglas and Boeing in the aviations gained 1 point each.

Radio Corporation added ¼ point in the heaviest dealings of the day. American Telephone appreciated a fraction and Western Union added 2⅜ points. Amusements were bid up one point or so. Paramount was in demand. Goodyear Tire and Rubber was outstanding in the rubber group, moving in volume for a gain of 1⅛ points. U. S. Rubber added 2⅝ points.

Chicago Stocks.

Stocks improved on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in orderly trading but part of the gains made during the morning were erased when the list encountered profit taking near the close. Volume contracted to 51,000 shares from the 72,000 shares traded Wednesday.

Gains of from $1 a share or more were recorded by Bliss and Laughlin, Borg Warner, Jarvis, Commonwealth Edison, Lion Oil, Libby, Quaker Oats, and Zenith Radio. Marshall Field gained ⅞ of a point to close at 21⅝. Binks Manufacturing, Illinois Brick, Noblitt Sparks, and Lynch corporation lost $1 to $2 a share.

THE TRIBUNE Chicago stock averages closed at 16.81, up 0.39 for the day. Of the 116 issues traded, 51 advance, 37 declined, and 28 were unchanged.

The exchange announced that arrangements have been made for sale of a membership at $2,000, unchanged from the previous sale.

New York Bonds.

New York, Sept., 9.—(AP)—The bond market today recaptured part of the losses suffered yesterday and the day before. Trading sentiment was favorably influenced by the improved action of stocks and an easing of tension abroad. Most domestic groups participated in the moderate rebound, although there were a few conspicious laggards.

Rails did well as a group, but due to slump in certain New Haven issues the Associated Press average of 20 carriers closed 0.3 point lower at 87.6, a new minimum since early 1936.

U. S. Governments were firmer. Against one or two minor losses the main body of Governments closed 1-32d to 12-32ds point higher.

A break of 5 points in New Haven collateral 6s of 1940 was attributed to differences which have arisen in connection with reorganization proposals now before the interstate commerce commission.

The Associated Press average of 10 utilities was up .2 of a point and industrials were unchanged. Dealings totaled $7,774,500, par value, against $9,880,775 yesterday.

Japanese dollar loans scored moderate recoveries. Italians were mixed and Germans were lower.

Bank Stocks.

Continental Illinois stock yesterday advanced $3 a share in the over-counter market. First National and Harris Trust each rose $5, Lake Shore Trust declined $5, and Personal Loan and Savings eased $1.

Commodities

Butter and egg futures climbed vigorously at the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday on reports of increasing consumer demand and expectation of more favorable storage statistics. Cash prices for both commodities also were higher.

November butter advanced as high as 33⅞ cents a pound, a new peak for the year, but eased to finish at 33¾ cents, up ⅜ cent. October eggs advanced ⅝ cent a dozen to close at 22⅝ cents a dozen, and November eggs finished at 22⅞ cents, up ¾ cent.

Most grades of cash butter advanced ¼ cent a pound. Prices of eggs for immediate delivery gained ¼ to ½ cent a dozen. There were no sales of potatoes or cheese.

Export copper in New York declined in late dealings to 13.875 cents a pound, down 0.075 cent, after selling as high as 13.975 early in the day. Copper futures slipped 0.01 to 0.08 cent a pound. Sales of domestic copper Wednesday were reported at 3,014,000 pounds, best in several days.

Other metal markets were quiet. Prices changes in most other commodities were small.

Fears of further increases in sugar quotas in an administration effort to halt rising sugar prices caused liquidation and hedge selling which forced domestic sugar futures down 0.03 to 0.05 cent a pound. World contracts closed unchanged to a shade higher. Cash sugar prices were unchanged.

[Complete reports of produce, grain, live stock, and cotton markets are elsewhere in the financial section.]

MEMBER BANKS IGNORE OFFER OF CHEAPER LOANS

Reduce Borrowings with "Fed" Last Week.

Member banks failed to take advantage last week of the new reduced lending rates offered by the central banks of the federal reserve system. The weekly statement of the reserve system issued yesterday showed a small decline from the preceding week in member bank borrowings.

A temporary spurt in member borrowings occurred in the preceding week, immediately following the reduction in discount rates by central banks throughout the system. The cuts were advertised by the reserve board as an aid to banks in meeting credit demands in connection with the movement of crops and expanding trade.

See Little Need for Funds.

That the member banks have little need to go to the central banks for funds is suggested by the failure of borrowings to show any material expansion.

Reserve member banks in New York City reported a gain of 34 millions in commercial loans for the week ended Wednesday. Member banks in Chicago, the only other city on which a separate report is made, showed an increase of 1 million in commercial loans. In recent weeks, however, commercial loans have been expanding more rapidly in Chicago than in New York.

Loans of New York banks to brokers and dealers declined 25 millions last week. Little change was made by the banks in security holdings.

No Change in U. S. Bond Holdings.

The central reserve banks reported no change in the system's holdings of government securities. The open market committee, which governs the banks' operations in the government bond market, is scheduled to meet this week-end, probably tomorrow. Chairman Eccles is returning to Washington from Salt Lake City to attend the meeting.

Surplus reserves of all member banks of the system increased 10 million dollars to 760 millions last week, reflecting the lack of need by the banks for additional funds.

Monetary gold holdings of the country rose 37 millions during the week. Total holdings are now 12 billion 604 millions.

National Steel, Other Firms Will Make Extra Payments

National Steel corporation directors yesterday voted an extra dividend of 50 cents in addition to the regular quarterly disbursement of 62½ cents on the capital stock. On March 30 an extra of 62½ cents was paid. Subsidiaries operate plants at Weirton and Clarksburg, W. Va., Detroit, and Ecorse, Mich., Steubenville, O., and Buffalo, N. Y.

An extra dividend of 10 cents and a quarterly dividend of 30 cents were authorized on the common stock by directors of Locke Steel Chain company, Bridgeport, Conn. Extras of 20 cents each were paid June 25 and May 1.

The Charles E. Hires company declared special dividends of 50 cents on the class A and class B common stocks, and also on the management stock.

Packard Motor Dividend.

Directors of the Packard Motor Car company declared a dividend of 10 cents on the common stock. The company paid 15 cents on April 15.

The Endicott Johnson corporation ordered payment of 75 cents on the common stock. A similar payment was made July 1.

The Norwalk Tire and Rubber company, Norwalk, Conn., declared a dividend of $3.87½ to apply on arrears on the preferred stock. The last previous payment was 50 cents on Oct. 1, 1935.

A dividend of 75 cents to apply on accumulations on the $3 preferred stock was authorized by directors of the American Capital corporation, Los Angeles, Cal. This is the third such payment this year and will leave unpaid arrears of $8.25 a share.

Everyday Economics

The Stockyards.

Live stock is sent to market in one of two ways. One is offering the animals for sale to the highest bidder on a public market; the other is a sale direct to the packer.

When live stock arrives at a public market it goes into a pen. All facilities for unloading and caring for the animals awaiting sale are owned by a stockyards company.

As soon as the animals are sold they are weighed and sent to pens of the packer buyer, the first step in actually processing into meat.

MIDLAND UNITED TRUSTEES FILE YEARLY REPORT

Hugh M. Morris and John N. Shanahan, trustees for Midland United company and its largest subholding company, Midland Utilities company, yesterday filed in the United States District court for the district of Delaware reports for the year ended June 30, 1937. The two systems furnish electric and other utility services in Indiana and adjacent states.

"Public relations of the controled subsidiaries are satisfactory; physical properties are well maintained; and gross earnings, particularly in the electric utilities, are increasing notwithstanding many rate reductions put into effect during recent years. On the whole, the trustees regard the controled subsidiaries as well managed and much improved," each of the two reports stated.

The trustees also reported being advised by interested parties that "real and definite progress" has been made in formulating a plan for reorganization.

The two documents contain earnings and comparative operating figures through 1936 for the numerous subsidiaries. They contain no figures showing consolidated earnings of the two big holding companies.

BALDWIN WORKS WILL CARRY OUT DISPUTED PLAN

The reorganization of Baldwin Locomotive works, cause of much controversy between rival groups of security holders, appeared near completion yesterday as George H. Houston, president, announced that the company will immediately carry out the plan confirmed on Sept. 1 by the federal court in Philadelphia.

Houston requested security holders to exchange their present stocks and bonds for new securities under the previously announced plan. Holders of five-year 6 per cent consolidated mortgage bonds were given 60 days from Sept. 1 to decide whether to accept new common stock or new bonds and new preferred stock for unpaid coupons.

The New York Curb exchange announced that common stock purchase warants of the Baldwin Locomotive works, issuable in furtherance of its plan of reorganization, would be admitted to dealings tomorrow. The bond rights will be stricken from unlisted trading. Dealings in the 6 per cent consolidated mortgage bonds also will be discontinued.

Wisconsin Public Service Plans New Hydro Plant

The Wisconsin Public Service corporation plans to file with the Wisconsin public service commission an application to build a $1,500,000 hydroelectric plant in the Wisconsin river valley, J. P. Pulliam, president, announced yesterday. The proposed plant will have a capacity of about 17,500 kilowatts. Construction is expected to begin in 1938.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Sunflower Week on the Farm.

September 9, 1937.

This has been sunflower week on the farm. The broad yellow flowers that stand high on the sunflower stalks have been contributing a blaze of color to the landscape. Some of the plants stand over 10 feet in height. But when it comes to awarding honors to plants that have skyscraper qualities, you must notice the South African white corn in one of the test plots. Some of the stalks of this strain of corn are 12 and 13 feet in height.

Although the blossoms of the wild sunflower are not as large as those growing in the test plots, they look attractive along the fences on the farm. With many of these flowers adding their golden yellow to the September picture, the predominant color on the farm this week has been yellow. The golden rod also is in blossom—a plant that also puts yellow into the fields and along the edge of the woods.

Birds Fight for Cherries.

The birds staged a quarrelsome scramble this week to harvest the last of the wild black cherries. When we were on the farm the other day the cherry eaters were squabbling about who had first rights to some of the trees. There wasn't much left for the birds. First reason for the shortage was that most of the big trees on the farm didn't produce bumper crops this season. Those that did have a good crop were visited last week by the farm cherry pickers. They picked several baskets of the fruit. All the black cherries gathered were crushed and put into casks to make wild black cherry wine. The boys who are making this old-fashioned beverage are letting the fruit ferment. Later it will be given the second treatment in the schedule.

When we visited one of the cherry trees near the big pond early in the week we found robins, brown thrashers, and blue jays in the tree—all enjoying the fruit. The robins were the noisiest of the fruit eaters. They made such a fuss about visitors eating their fruit that finally we saw two brown thrashers leave the tree as if they couldn't stand the heckling.

The farm wives already have noted the bountiful crop of wild crabs on the farm, judging by the discussions we heard this week regarding plans to make wild crab apple jelly.

Frost Is the Signal.

But it will be several weeks before the women consider the fruit ready for canning. They say we must have real snappy autumn weather before the apples are good for jelly making purposes. In fact, a frost often is the signal for the cooking pots to get busy in the farm kitchens since the wild apples seem to be better after real cool weather has come.

While walking over the farm this week we were keeping our eyes open for wild plum trees in the hope of finding several with plenty of fruit on them. But this is not a plum year as far as the trees on the farm are concerned. There are lots of pears, plenty of grapes, the apple crop is fairly good and there will be bushels of thornapples turning red in a few weeks. But the plums are scarce. We found several trees near one of the farm houses which had just a few plums on them . . . about enough to make a couple of glasses of jelly. These have been picked and will be converted into jelly right away.

This has been a busy week for the farm guides. Visitors have been numerous so the boys who take parties around the farm were kept on the go most of the time. On Labor day the crowd was especially large. There were lines of cars parked near the test plots where visitors may see many different kinds of farm crops, from hops to sorghum.

INT. TELEPHONE EARNINGS RISE FOR HALF YEAR

June 30 was estimated at approximately $2,600,000, equal to $1.50 a share, compared with profit of $2,150,000, or $1.25 a share, in the first half of last year.

The first six months' interim statement ever issued by the broadcasting company will be released to stockholders in a few days, directors announced. Only annual statements have previously been announced.

The Climax Molybdenum company announced that profit for five months ended May 31 was $3,331,197, or $1.32 a share on 2,520,000 common shares, before provision for undistributed profits surtax. No comparable figures were available.

The Richfield Oil corporation, Pacific coast concern, had profit of $769,216 before provision for federal income and undistributed profits taxes in the period from March 13 to July 31.

Technicolor Reports Earnings.

Herbert T. Kalmus, president of Technicolor, Inc., told stockholders at their annual meeting in New York that profit for eight months ended Aug. 31 was $485,500. Net operating profit in August, he said, was approximately $132,000, against $54,500 in August last year.

The shareholders approved a resolution authorizing an increase in capital stock from 1,000,000 shares to 1,500,000 shares, Kalmus said. Contracts closed under an option plan, together with those likely to be closed in the near future, would require 182,000 shares of the proposed new stock.

Technicolor has recently signed contracts with five large producers calling for productions using the technicolor process, Kalmus said.

The United Paperboard company and subsidiaries in the fiscal year ended May 29 had net income of $150,684, equal after preferred dividend requirements to 30 cents a common share. No comparable figures are available.

Utility's Income Improves.

The Wisconsin Public Service corporation reported gross operating revenues of $8,297,718 and net income of $1,486,203 for 12 months ended July 31, compared with revenues of $7,673,442 and net income of $921,109 in the previous year. The corporation is a unit in the Standard Gas and Electric system.

The Pittsburgh and West Virginia railroad reported a decline in July net income to $4,323 from $35,845 in July, 1936. Net income for the first seven months of this year was $299,156, compared with $241,252 in the corresponding period last year.

The Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville railroad [Monon] lost $158,225 in July, compared with loss of $96,666 in July, last year. Loss in the first seven months of 1937 was $683,627, against loss of $768,687 for the period in 1936.

LOYALTY OF YOUTHFUL PAGE EARNS HIM SEAT ON STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, Sept. 9.—(AP)—William J. Denman, 27, who yesterday discharged his routine duties as a page on the New York Stock exchange floor, was eligible today to join members on the floor as a full fledged broker.

He was elected to membership through the transfer to him of the seat of Herbert L. Jones. The youthful member, who has been in the employ of the exchange since his graduation from high school, has been admitted to partnership in the firm of Graves, Banning & Co., with which Jones is connected.

Relinquishing his seat, Jones said he chose Denman to succeed him because of "his loyalty to the exchange" and his keen interest in his work. Whether the seat was an outright gift was not revealed. The latest stock exchange seat sale was $75,000.

WARD REPORTS AUGUST SALES OF $29,679,058

Seven Months Total Near Quarter Billion.

Montgomery Ward & Co. yesterday reported August sales set a new all-time record for the month totaling $29,679,028, compared with sales of $27,422,133 in August, 1936, an increase of 8.23 per cent. July sales showed an increase of 18.7 per cent over last year, also establishing a new high for that month.

Sales during the first seven months of the current fiscal year, which began Feb. 1, amounted to $233,504,800, an increase of 25 per cent over last year and the best sales for the period in the company's history.

Chain Store Sales Larger.

The J. C. Penney company, eastern variety store chain, reported August sales of $19,760,852, compared with $19,364,852 a year ago, an increase of 2 per cent. July sales showed an increase of 10.5 per cent. Sales for the first eight months this year increased 8.2 per cent over last year to a total of $155,478,123.

August sales of the S. S. Kresge company totaled $11,013,380, a decline of 3 per cent from the $11,352,956 for August, 1936. Sales in July this year showed an increase of 10.5 per cent over last year.

H. G. Horder, treasurer of Horder's, Inc., office supply company, said sales are running about 15 per cent ahead of last year. This indicates there is no let-up in general business activity because office, stationery, and equipment sales usually reflect industrial progress and forecast the trend by two or three weeks, he added.

ELECTRICITY OUTPUT FOR LAST WEEK RISES TO ALL-TIME RECORD

Production of electricity in the United States during the week ended Sept. 4 set a new all-time weekly record of 2,320,982,000 kilowatt hours, the Edison Electric institute reported yesterday.

This was a gain of 1.1 per cent over the 2,294,713,000 kilowatt hours generated in the preceding week and an increase of 8.6 per cent over the corresponding week of 1936, when production amounted to 2,135,598,000 kilowatt hours. The increase over the preceding week this year was a contraseasonal movement.

Electric output in the Chicago district amounted to 134,111,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 4 per cent over the preceding week, and an increase of 14.7 per cent over the corresponding week of 1936. The largest gain over last year was shown by the Rocky mountain region, with an increase of 18.3 per cent. The central industrial region gained 11 per cent.

Week ended.	—Kilowatt-Hour Output— 1937.	1936.	Pct. inc.
Sept. 4	134,111,000	116,883,000	14.7

COUNTY HIGHWAY 2.9 PCT. WARANTS SOLD AT PREMIUM

The finance committee of the Cook county board yesterday accepted the bid of H. C. Speer & Sons for an issue of $450,000 county highway tax anticipation warrants. The firm submitted the highest bid, offering a premium of $235. The warants carry a 2.9 per cent interest coupon. The county board is expected to ratify the sale today.

An issue of $800,000 Springfield, Ill., municipal light system certificates was offered yesterday by a group of Chicago investment houses. The certificates carry a 2.9 per cent rate. The city is raising the money to improve and extend the light system.

Arthur J. Chanter, president of the Pierce-Arrow Motor corporation, said yesterday the company will probably file registration papers today on an issue of 1,300,000 shares of stock.

Offering is being made today of 56,099 shares of common stock of Giddings & Lewis Machine Tool company, the proceeds of which will be used to retire funded debt of the company.

Brokers Sue to Block Tax on Exchange Memberships

Five Chicago stock brokers filed suit in the Circuit court yesterday to restrain County Assessor John S. Clark from assessing as personal property their seats on the New York Stock exchange. The suit contends that the stock exchange has no local property, that it is not operated for profit, but is a coöperative enterprise, and therefore should not be classed as property by the assessor. The plaintifs are James E. Bennett, Paul H. Davis, Hulburd Johnston, Warren A. Lamson, and Charles C. Renshaw.

PRICE OF GRAIN RECEDES AS WAR FEARS SUBSIDE

Speculative Interest Dull; Changes Narrow.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Thurs.	Wed.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$1.09½	$1.10	$1.10
Corn	.63⅜	.63¾	.94¾
Oats	.30⅞	.30⅝	.42¼
Rye	.80	.80⅞	.80⅞
Soy beans	.98⅜	1.02⅝	.....

Grain prices closed irregularly lower on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday after fluctuating within rather narrow limits most of the session. War news had little influence. Wheat finished ½ to 1 cent a bushel lower. Corn and oats were mixed and soy beans slumped 4 cents a bushel, the permissible daily limit. Rye moved downward.

Speculative interest in wheat was small. However, it was reported Europe was buying wheat futures in Winnipeg in anticipation of future requirements. Canadian mills were also said to have been fair buyers. Closing prices in Winnipeg were unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel lower. Liverpool futures declined 1¼ to 1⅞ cents.

Russian Exports Larger.

Russia exported 1,680,000 bushels of wheat last week, the largest clearance since October, 1935. Most of the grain was shipped to continental countries. There was practically no foreign demand for North American cash grain. In some quarters it is believed that upturns in prices will be hard to maintain until importers start to buy.

September corn was erratic, fluctuating within a 2½ cent range and closing a small fraction of a cent higher. Trade in December and May corn was light with some speculators disposing of their holdings prior to issuance of the government crop report this afternoon.

Pressure Light on Oats.

Oats futures were firm, due more to lack of pressure than to aggressive buying. Commercial shipping sales of 50,000 bushels were reported yesterday.

Weakness in soy beans was due to fears that the price of that commodity is too high to permit processors to compete with the lower quotations for cottonseed oil and cottonseed cake.

An estimate of the 1937 corn crop will be issued this afternoon by the department of agriculture, based on conditions prevailing Sept. 1. The trade expects little change from the 2,659,000,000 bushel prediction on Aug. 1, compared with 1,529,000,000 bushels harvested last year.

Companía Swift Internacional.

Investors' Guide: Please give all information you can about Swift International.—Mrs. J. H. McG.

Answer: This meat packing concern was formed in 1918 to take over the South American and Australian business of Swift & Co. It was incorporated in Argentina and stock was issued to shareholders of Swift & Co.

The company owns ten plants in Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, Australia, and New Zealand. Products consist principally of chilled and frozen beef, some cured pork, canned meat, beef extract, hides, wool, and other byproducts of slaughtering live stock.

Most of the hides, wool, and fertilizer produced are shipped to the United States. England and Europe are principal markets for beef, mutton, oil, canned meats, and extracts.

Net income was $4,694,000, or $3.13 a share, in 1936, compared with $5,008,000, or $3.34 a share, in 1935; $6,196,000, or $4.13, in 1934; $5,206,000, or $3.47, in 1933; $5,819,000, or $3.88, in 1932, and $6,611,000, or $4.41, in 1931.

Financial position is strong, current assets being $49,421,000, against current liabilities of $5,333,000 at the end of 1936. The company has no funded debt.

Capitalization consists solely of 1,500,000 shares of $15 par common stock. Dividends have been paid at the rate of $2 annually since the beginning of 1933. Prior to that payments amounted to $3 a share in 1932, $4 in 1931, $3.50 in 1930, and $2 in 1929.

The stock deserves a good rating.

Bond Interest Taxes.

Investors' Guide: I noticed your article regarding the investment of $15,000 by an aged couple. Your advice was high grade bonds. You didn't state whether they should be tax free or not. Wouldn't high grade corporation bonds yielding 3½ to 4 per cent be subject to tax which would reduce the income considerably?—A. J. F.

Answer: You are perfectly right that the return on corporate bonds would be reduced by taxes, but this is a minor item unless the investor's income is in the higher brackets. It is probable that sound corporate bonds can be found which will give the average investor a net yield slightly above that from tax exempt bonds.

COTTON FUTURES ADVANCE .05 TO .10 CENTS A POUND

Foreign and trade buying of cotton futures was responsible for an advance of .05 to .10 cents a pound in American markets yesterday. Strength in Liverpool and unwanted rains in various parts of the belt, which it is feared will result in damage to the new crop, were the bullish incentives.

Spot cotton closed .05 to .10 cents higher, with New Orleans, 9.15 cents; New York, 9.35 cents, and Galveston and Houston at 9 cents a pound. Prices follow:

} In proceedings for reorganization of a corporation pursuant to Section 77B of the Bankruptcy Act as amended. No. 1247 in Bankruptcy.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS AND STOCKHOLDERS OF EASTERN UTILITIES INVESTING CORPORATION

Notice is hereby given that an order has been entered in the above entitled proceeding confirming the Amended Plan of Reorganization dated April 28, 1937, of Eastern Utilities Investing Corporation [the Debtor in said proceeding] and that hereafter the claims of the holders of the 5% Gold Debentures and the interests of the holders of the Prior Preferred, Preferred, Preference and Common Class A Stocks of the Debtor being the only claims and interests affected by said Amended Plan, will be hereafter sufficiently filed or evidenced and allowed, if said debentures, with the requisite coupons attached, shall be delivered, in form for good delivery, to Transfer and Paying Agency, at Room 2425, 41 Trinity Place, New York City, the Depositary named in the Amended Plan, on or before but not after the 26th day of January, 1938, in exchange for the new 5% Income Debentures of Associated Gas and Electric Company which are deliverable in exchange therefor by the terms of said Amended Plan, and if the certificates for said stocks, duly endorsed in blank, are delivered on or before said date, to the said Depositary, in exchange for the new stocks of Associated Gas and Electric Company which are deliverable in exchange therefor by the terms of said Amended Plan. Written proofs of claim need not be filed.

The claims of holders of such 5% Gold Debentures for which written proofs of claim have heretofore been filed, have been provisionally allowed but the same will not be finally allowed, unless such proofs are completed by the delivery of the debentures described in such written proofs.

If such debentures and certificates for stock are not so delivered on or prior to the 26th day of January, 1938 the holders thereof will not be entitled to participate in said Amended Plan, except on order for cause shown, unless said period shall be extended by the order of said Court. Unless such claims and interests are so filed or evidenced and allowed, by delivery as aforesaid, the holders thereof shall be barred and foreclosed of any right to assert the same against the properties and estate of the Debtor and shall be barred and foreclosed from any proceedings to recover upon said claims and interests from such properties or estate.
